PITTSBURGH:

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 26, 1857.

READING MATTER ON EACH PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

GEN. ROBINSON has just returned home from a tour in Kansas and Nebraska. He expresses himself highly delighted with the country which spreads out level and fertile as a garden on all sides. He saw Gov. Walker with whom he was well acquainted when that gentleman resided in this city and heard him make a speech at Big Springs. Some 200 of the "people" came up to hear the "Guvner," who tried desperately to get up an enthusiastic cheer for his speech, in which he announced his policy of government, including the scheme of collecting the tax levied by the bogus authorities. At the most however, five men cheered, one at a time. When Walker had concluded "Jim Lane" took the stump and spoke for the other side. He was received with a perfect storm of applause, and left Walker completely in the shade. The people are about 10 to 1 against the whole sham they are attempting to palm off for a "government" there. The Free State men (abolitionists, you know,) are all alive with hope and determination. Democracy has probably done its best or its worst in that land. Henceforth it is to be hoped that the specious sham will resign the sceptre and the rod, and peace and justice come in to hold rule among the people. Even the women there are most enthusiastic for the free State cause, and cheer their sons, their husbands and their lovers on in the good work of freedom by their countenance and their encouraging aid.

The election for Delegates to the Constitutional Convention is now over, and a thorough going border ruffian set have been chosen, who will frame a Constitution, which, as we hear by newspaper report, is not to be submitted to the people. The Free State men under the prudent lead of Gov. Robinson, and, for an emergency, under the direction of Lane, have fallen back upon the Topeka Constitution, and there they stand entrenched waiting for the course of events. The culmination of all the matters which have vexed Kansas and excited the Union is at hand, and we trust that if a pro-Slavery Constitution is adopted by this Convention and an effort made to render it operative in the Territory, it may not prove of as much value as the paper on which it is engrossed.

☞ The Indianapolis Journal, of Saturday, has the following:

The United States Circuit Court, in the case of the Ohio and Mississippi railroad against the city of Aurora, decided that a railroad company had no power to contract to pay interest on the bonds of a city issued to them, and that if such contracts are made they are binds upon the stockholders of the road, and void.

This is the ground that should have been taken at the very beginning, and it would have saved all the trouble since experienced with reference to these subscriptions. Upon equitable principles, there is no fairness in demanding money from individual subscribers to railroad stocks and taking mere bonds from corporations, and still more inequitable is it when the road, in addition to taking bonds instead of money in payment of corporation subscriptions, agrees further to pay the interest on the bonds, while it pays individual subscribers nothing. Had the principle laid down in the decision of Judge M'Lean, above given, been established when municipal subscriptions began, there would have been a wholesome restraint exercised upon them, from which many another community beside our own would have been immensely the gainer. To establish that principle now, however, after these subscriptions have been induced by the very contracts which it declares void, is only an addition to present aggravations.

JUDICIOUS BRIBERY.—The Philadelphians are always for doing things judiciously, even though it be a vile and dirty thing. Thus for instance the Ledger of Wednesday, speaking of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Main Line case, says:

"The opinion is against the Injunction on all the points but that on provisoes of the law authorizing the case, which exempts the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, should it become the purchaser, from taxation on all tonnage and freight at a price not less than-nine millions of dollars, forever. That provision the Court holds to be unconstitutional, and on that point grants a conditional injunction. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company may, however, become the purchaser at a sum not less than seven and a half millions of dollars, on the same terms as other parties, without exemption from the tonnage tax forever. It is held to be competent for the Legislature, from year to year, to make this exemption in favor of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, but that no one Legislature can tie up the hands of subsequent Legislatures forever on this subject. By that decision the Company gets the Works a million and a half dollars cheaper than probably it would have paid had the law authorizing the sale been held to be constitutional in all its parts. This million and a half, at 6 per cent, is equal to ninety thousand dollars per annum, half of which, in the opinion of many, if judiciously applied casually at Harrisburg, will be found adequate to the exemption to the end of the Company's charter."

In other words, the Pennsylvania Road can buy what legislation it wants by the "judicious" expenditure of $46,000 annually at Harrisburg.

RAILROAD SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The Supreme Court of the State of New York has just decided, in full bench, that municipal subscriptions to railroads are valid and constitutional. The case is thus stated in the Rochester Union of Saturday evening:

"At the October Circuit, held by Judge Allen, of Oswego, in this city, the suit was brought up for trial. The grounds of the suit are well known to the public. Mr. Clarke had purchased of the city $300,000 in stock of the Valley Railroad, and paid them some 20,000. Alleging the stock was worthless he refused to accept it, and sued the city for what he had paid.

Judge Allen decide l that the law under which the city issued bonds and took the stock in the G. V. R. R. was unconstitutional, and, therefore, that all contracts under it were void. He ordered a judgment for plaintiff, Clarke. The city appealed the suit to the General-Term and the case was argued before it in March last by E. Griffin, City Attorney, for appellants, S. Matthews for respondent. At three this afternoon the Court announced its decision as follows:

City of Rochester appt. vs Freeman Clarke respt. Judgment of special term reversed—new trial ordered—costs to abide event.

This decision is in favor of the city on all important points and in fact declares the law valid, and the bonds legal. We understand that all the Judges have written opinions on this question.

This decision will be looked for with much interest in all parts of the country, and especially in this State as it has affected the reputation of the city and other bonds issued for similar purposes as ours, and under similar laws. It is more than probable that the case will be carried to the Court of Appeals, and make the decision final and conclusive. It is better for all that it should be settled."

THE VALUATION OF CONNECTICUT.—The total valuation of the State of Connecticut, as shown by the recent returns of the assessors, is $214,-000,000, being about fifty millions of dollars less than that of the city of Boston, which is the present year about two hundred and sixty millions. New Haven is the most wealthy place in Connecticut, having a property of twenty one millions. The cities of New England rank as follows in amount of taxable property :—Boston, Providence, New Bedford, New Haven, Worcester, Portland, Hartford and Roxbury, none of the above having probably much less than twenty millions of property.

☞ The Kansas correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat writes:

"I open this letter to give you information of the terrible massacre and the destruction of an overland emigrant train to California, of which intelligence has just been received here.

"The train, which consisted of seventeen wagons, when about a hundred miles west of Port Kearney, was attacked by a party of Sioux or Cheyenne Indians, who murdered every person in it—men, women and children—burnt the wagons and drove off the cattle.

"The number of persons in the train is said to have been about twenty."

THE estimates for the expenses of the Portland City Government, this year, foot up $162,332, of which $26,000 are for school purposes, and $21,000 interest on the city debt. The rate of taxation in Bath is six mills on a dollar.

THE Boston Post gives a rumor that a union of the Collins and Cunard lines of steamers will soon take place.

THE Juniata Sentinel, published at Mifflintown, in the last issue, hoists the Union ticket to its mast head.

THE OHIO DEFALCATION.—The investigation into the condition of the Ohio treasury since the late defalcation was discovered, does not mend the matter any. In addition to the $775,000 of money missingit appears that $132,000 of bonds deposited by the Seneca County Bank are also not forthcoming. The new Treasurer issues the following card:

On the 15th inst. I published a statement of the amount of stocks in the Treasury, deposited to secure the circulating notes of the Independent Banks of the State, with the statement that all of these bonds were in the Treasury except $132,128 14. On discovering this deficit, I called on Mr. Gibson, the late Treasurer, for an explanation of this deficiency, as compared with the books. He informed me that they had been sent to New York at the request of the Bank, to be exchanged for other bonds, to be returned to this office. On the same night I received my appointment, I sent a messenger to New York, with instruction to ascertain at the earliest moment, discovering this deficit, I called on Mr. Gibson, the what funds were there belonging to the State, or Mr. Gibson, and to immediately attach the same. One hundred thousand dollars of Ohio (six per cent.) bonds were found in the hands of Atwood & Co., in New York. Legal proceedings have been commenced to procure their return to this office. Where the balance of these bonds are, ($32,128 14) I have no certain information. I have ordered proceedings against other parties in New York, which I hope will bring them to light.

I have communicated these facts at the earliest moment deemed prudent for the bill holders and the State.

A. P. STONE, Treasurer of State.

The Cincinnati Gazette says the bonds for $32,000 above alluded to have since been discovered with Thompson & Co., N. Y., where they have been hypothecated by Gibson. The $100,000 held by Atwood & Co., are held as collateral security for $61,000 over-drawn by Gibson — They have been attached; but, to add to the complication, Gibson claims them as his own, and a lawsuit will result before the State can obtain them. The Gazette says:

"The State will probably attempt to recover the bonds, but it is useless to talk about this, if they were received by Atwood & Co., in good faith as security for money borrowed by Gibson. The bonds cannot, we imagine, be treated as stolen property.

At best, the most that can be recovered will be the difference between the value of the bonds and the amount for which the latter are held as security.

The next question that arises is with reference to the liability of the State for the notes of the Seneca Bank secured by the missing bonds. A case some what similar to this occurred in Indiana last winter. It was not brought before the Court, but the Attorney General gave the opinion that the State was not liable, and the Legislature, then in session, passed a resolution in accordance therewith. As the law involved in this question, we are not prepared to express our opinion, but the moral obligation, we think is very plain. The State should assume the liability and redeem the notes. This, however, will be a matter for the Legislature to decide. We would advise the holders of the notes not to part with them for the present at a sacrifice. The assets are pretty generally known, and the notes cannot at worst become of less value than at present, while they may be redeemed in full.

"A gentleman who left Tiffin on Monday evening, informed us yesterday that the people were very much excited, and threatened to lynch Gibson upon his return from New York. The closing of the bank, and the absence of the securities had stirred up their worst passions. Had Gibson been wise he would have avoided this bank difficulty. Experience has shown that while the people will quietly submit to indirect robbery, such as was practiced by defaulting the Treasury, they will not bear to be stolen from directly. The failure of a bank strikes home to the pockets."

So much for Mr Gibson. The question with regard to Mr. Breslin is, what did he do with the $575,000 out of which he cheated the State. All sorts of surmises are afloat, and many think that "wild cat" banking and St. Faro have been deeply involved in its mysterious disappearance. The Cincinnati Commercial has its theory, which it expresses thus:

"It is not impossible that Mr. Breslin and those with whom he has contracted have, in a good many transactions, mistaken the Treasury as a child for that of the Democratic party, and employed, at least some of the missing moneys in keeping up the efficiency and maintaining the purity of the Democratic organization. Although not perhaps directly avowed, the ethics of the party for many years have tended to institute such a practice; and nothing is more common than to find our Democratic patriots assuming that having possession of the Government, their right is complete to whatever through its means is drawn from the people—that sufficiency is evident, and when the people annually submit to be robbed, there is no crime in committing the robbery.

"It takes a great deal of money to support the body of extravagant, whisky drinking patriots that have for half a generation of men been the control of the Democratic party in Ohio, and nothing has been more obvious to such as have some knowledge of the cost of living, that there must have been some fountain of cash more copious in its products than any known streams of official emolument. Since the creation of the last funds went to replenish the exhausting finances of these gentry, we have no doubt, and here it is that this mountain sort of official theft comes in as the natural result of the total subversion of the moral principles by which the acts and practices of the Democratic party have been governed in this matter.

To Consumptives and other Invalids!

APPOINTMENT EXTENDED TO JULY 15th.

Drs. C. M. FITCH & J. W. SYKES,

Have concluded to extend their stay in Pittsburgh, till SATURDAY EVENING, July 18th, and will remain at the ST. CLAIR HOTEL, where they may be consulted by those wishing to avail themselves of Dr. Fitch's system of treatment.

The combination of remedial measures adopted by Dr. Fitch and Dr. Sykes has been amply tested, and no claim daily presented to be in practice and that the discovery, that its originators do not hesitate to assert, that by their system, relief may be obtained in all cases not absolutely beyond the reach of remedies.

By this mode of treatment, the advantages of Medicated and Atmospheric Inhalation are added to that of appropriate internal remedies, to evacuate and sustain the strength of the general system, and those with such new lodgment means as the case may indicate, joined by proper attention to exercise diet, bathing, friction, &c. &c. will not only afford more or less relief in a few minutes, but will effect a permanent cure in many cases, in which only partial and temporary relief could be obtained from any one of the above mentioned sing le remedies.

But although many otherwise fatal cases of consumption may be thus relieved, there are still many which passed beyond hope, and those who are in any way inclined to a disease so insidious, and so fearfully fatal as consumption, cannot be too careful to give their cases timely attention.

The delay even of a few weeks may, in many cases turn the scale against the patient.

Where it is possible, we always prefer to make a personal examination, and thus ascertain the precise condition of the Lungs, as we wish to undertake no case where we have not a chance of doing good and we wish no one to commit to us who other parties in New York, which I hope will bring them to light.

I have communicated these facts at the earliest moment deemed prudent for the bill holders and the State.

A SUGGESTION.—Perhaps it is worth something and perhaps not.

I perceive by your paper of this morning that a coal-boat has been lost by striking the pier of the Steubenville Railroad bridge. It is to be expected that as the country improves the passage of boats up and down the Ohio and railroad bridges across it will be multiplied; so that accidents may also become more frequent unless there should be some contrivance to prevent it.

One has occurred to me which might possibly have a good effect and perhaps not.

Pilots in descending the river, not being sure whether they are in a proper position to run safely by one pier may work their boats so far over as to strike another one. In trying to avoid Scylla they run upon Charybdis.

Now my suggestion is this: That the bridge company find a point in the Ohio some two or three hundred yards above the bridge and in such a position that a boat passing over that point will run directly upon one of the piers; then let them anchor at that point a conspicuous buoy. When this is done every pilot, upon passing that buoy, will know whether he is too near the thread of the current in which the buoy and the pier stand, and may act accordingly. Perhaps two such buoys in the thread of the current of two adjacent piers would be better. In this case the pilot would know that if he passed between those buoys his boat or raft was safe.

This suggestion may or may not be useful: but it would cost but little to try the experiment, and it is certainly possible that something should be done to prevent accidents which, unless some precaution is adopted, must become more frequent as the country improves.

I am aware that at different stages of the river the thread of the current may vary; so that the thread of the current might strike between the buoys and the pier at one stage of water, may not strike both at a higher or lower stage. Even such a variation might be provided for.

DR. KEYSER'S SHOULDER BRACES.—From Pittsburgh Dispatch, April 10th, 1856.—For more than 3 years past we have constantly worn the Washington Suspender Brace, manufactured by Dr. Geo. H. Keyser, of No. 140 Wood street, in this city, and would heartily recommend it to all who are compelled to follow a sedentary occupation. As we have before remarked, in calling attention to its merits, it answers for a brace and shoulders, the weight of the pantaloons being so placed as to continually tend to bring the shoulders to their natural position and expand the chest. Women, hundreds of whom are annually injured by the weight of enormous "skirts," should also procure these braces. IN the "Union," "Dispatch" and "Post," is an advertisement headed "BUSINESS," to no other purpose than to injure, not only our business, but all other business. I, W. Rothenbeck, the person who had the advertisement referred to inserted, has been only a short time in this country, and was induced by the Agents, Jacobs & Co. to become the nominal editor of a paper called the Republicaner, started by the Catholic Priests and officers of the same stamp, and entirely subservient to Catholics. He defends modern Democracy, meaning Jesuitism and slavery, both in spirit and body.

Said editor has all the advantages over us, working for the interest of the Jesuits as he does, he can have forgiveness of his sins committed in the past and those of the future for one price. Where the principle is cherished "that the end justifies the means" this an editor of a religious political paper, like that of the so called Republicaner, is safe against any attack, the devil not even excepted. Besides this, we have exposed from time to time the iniquities of certain Catholic land speculations, in which said Rothenbeck is at the head, for this cause can publish an advertisement in the Republicaner and then the same in the Catholic, but wording the latter differently in order that the unsuspecting might not detect them both to come from the same source, the object of which is to catch honest and unwary Protestants in the Jesuitical trap of the so called Homestead Settlement in Wisconsin.

That under these circumstances, we would not and never will, have anything to do with such a man and such a concern—that we cannot consent even to appear to enter into a competition with them, and that, therefore, we ignore the Jesuitical proposal published, as every honest man will easily comprehend and coming in direct contact with the diseased, destructive tubercular matter, allays the cough, causes a free and easy expectoration, heals the lungs, purifies the blood, restores renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving that vigor and energy so indispensable for the restoration of health. To enable invalids to test the efficacy that Inhalation is capable of bestowing, in so many positive cases, the Proprietor has placed the Inhaling Apparatus in the hands of Dr. Hall, who has had more extensive experience in the use of this remedy than any other physician in the United States, and will visit Pittsburgh for a few weeks only, for the purpose of introducing it into general use. Dr. Hall has had more than ordinary success in the treatment of Consumption, and has effected many remarkable cures even after the sufferers had been pronounced incurable by the last stages of the disease. My treatment of consumption is original and founded on long experience and a thorough knowledge of the pathology connected with the nature of tubercles &c. enables me to distinguish readily the various forms of disease that exist under the name of consumption and apply the proper remedies calculated to cure in a shorter time than is usually required. This familiarity in connection with correct pathological and therapeutic views enables me to relieve the lungs from the effects of the diseased matter, to enlarge the chest gently the blood, impart it a healthful vitality giving energy and tone to the entire system.

Health tone, with full vibrations of the lungs in the air of the United States and Canada by pulmonic communicating their sympathies by labor. But the cure would be more certain and speedy if the patient would call at the office, and have an opportunity to examine the lungs and ascertain its capacities with much precision collectively and then the cure could be effected without any pain, and in a short time.

INFALLIBLE REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE LIVER AND ALL

CERTAIN REMEDY FOR DYSPEPSIA

Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters is daily succeeding in effecting more cures of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, and other diseases arising from a disordered stomach or debility, than all other remedies. PURELY VEGETABLE and perfectly harmless, they may be taken by the most delicate infant with perfect safety, and the Public are warned against the use of medicines of a mercurial character, which, although they may afford temporary relief, will ultimately undermine the constitution.

The following highly important testimonials, from the Rev. Dr. Ludwig, Pastor of the German Reformed Church, Race street, above Sixth, and Dr. Wagner, Professor of Chemistry, Philadelphia, are appended:

Dr. Hoofland's Bitters are highly recommended by the Faculty and Public generally for a model family medicine, and for the relief of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Debility, Jaundice, &c. In all strangers' affections, where the stomach and liver are deranged, they are invaluable.
