that of the Blates, in which they are located." THE DUCKED BALLOONIST. —John Steiner, of Philadelphia, is the name of the eronaut who wan dipped in Lake Erie on Thurreday. When over the lake he counted thirty-eight vessels in right, and at the height of three miles he could d hear the shouts of the crews who caught sight of his flying ship. He struck the water threes miles above the propeller Stewart, and in seven minutes passed hor about twenty rods astern. The balloon would strike the water and rebound into the air from twenty to fifty feet, as it runabed them. The storm in Oswego, Oucida and Scheneetady condites is evidently one, but so different was it from the ordinary tornado, that many who have "studied it, refuseto class it with any known phe-
