PITTSBURGH:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1857.

READING MATTER ON EACH PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

BAYARD TAYLOR.—Taylor is not only a great traveller, but he is a great author. He not only possesses the happy faculty of making everybody, with whom he becomes acquainted, either as an author or as an individual, like him, but he can lend fascination to the character of of those persons, who have been honored with his friendship. In all climes which he has visited he has sought out the best side of human nature, and his warm heart, while it was ever ready to praise and appreciate, was slow to censure or condemn. He gave evidence of this noble disposition, in his youthful tour through Europe, when on foot and poor in purse, and unknown; and he has maintained it in his more triumphant expeditions of late years. He loves the sunny side of the world, and the good parts of human nature, and this causes him to be honored and esteemed wherever his name has been heard—whether on the frozen shores of Lapland or on the burning plains of India. In all situations he is the same happy, kind-hearted and brilliant Taylor, full of mirth and love. We were induced to make these remarks, by perusing an account of his visit to Anderson, the Swedish author, at his home in Copenhagen.—We can read this fine description, and not think more of both Anderson and Taylor? The following is the account of the interesting interview, as detailed in one of his European letters:

"In the afternoon, as I was sitting in my room, the door quietly opened, and a tall, loosely jointed figure entered. He wore a neat evening dress of black, with a white cravat; his head was thrown back and his plain, irregular features wore an expression of the greatest cheerfulness and kindly humor. I recognized him at once, and, forgetting that we had never met—so much do we seem like an old, familiar acquaintance—cried out "Anderson," and jumped up to meet him. "And," said he, stretching out both his hands, "here you are! Now, I should have been vexed if you had gone through Copenhagen, and I had not known it." He sat down, and I had a delightful hour's chat with him. One sees the man so plainly in his works that his readers may almost be said to know him personally. He is thoroughly simple and natural, and those who call him egotistical forget that his egotism is only a native and unthinking sincerity, like that of a child. In fact, he is the youngest man for his years that I ever knew. "When I was sixteen," said he, "I used to think of myself, 'when I am twenty-four then will I be old indeed'—but now I am fifty-two, and I have just the same feeling of youth as at twenty." He was greatly delighted when Braisted, who was in the room with me, spoke of having read his "Improvisatore" in the Sandwich Islands. "Why, it is possible!" he exclaimed; "when I hear of my books going round the earth, I sometimes wonder if it can be really true that I have written them." He explained to me the plot of his new novel, "To Be, or Not to Be," and ended by presenting me with the illustrated edition of his stories. "Now, don't forget me," said he, with a delightful entreaty in his voice, as he rose to leave. "for we shall meet again. When it is not for sea-sickness, I should see you in America; and then or now, but I may come in spite of it?" God bless you, Anderson, I said in my thoughts. It is so cheering to meet a man whose very weaknesses are tender attractive through the perfect candor of his nature."

As Brigham Young is committed to the Squatter Sovereignty doctrine, and is in that respect in full communion with the democratic Church, his opinion in regard to the appointments made for Utah should have some weight with his political allies in the States. In a sermon delivered on June 7th, among a great many other things, he said the following:

"Those who the Government send here are a most miserable set, and as a general thing, they do not know enough to tell a decent lie. But this is not altogether to be wondered at, for they are under the same difficulty as we are sometimes; it is hard for them to tell a man who has got brains in his head from one who is filled with pudding. The President and his Cabinet know nothing about the characters whom they send here, if they did, many who have come here never would have been sent. If we cannot always discern the children of men, it is no wonder that they are blind and cannot send men here capable of making a decent lie. If they have not already told every falsehood about us that they can invent, they will be mighty sorry when they think of it, for if they could have told any more they would have done so. They have made and told every lie they knew how to, and if there be any blame on them for not lying more, it must be attributable to their ignorance."

It will be observed that the great Mormon, does not hold Mr. Buchanan responsible for these appointments—but talks rather sweet in reference to the president and his cabinet. The "ignorance" which he attributes to the Government officials in Utah, does not interfere, as far as the utterence of falsehoods is concerned, with the vocation of politicians of "that ilk" in the old settlements. If that is a test of enlightenment, our opponents have some brilliant men in their ranks.

A CHANGE.—The Chronicle, which has been the organ and the pet of the Repudiators, has abandoned their cause, and come out strongly against Repudiation. The change was sudden and remarkable but not miraculous.

Hitherto, the policy of the Repudiators has been to declare that they were not in favor of Repudiation. They were ready to see all our legal and honest obligations as a community promptly met, but they wanted first a searching and thorough investigation, &c., &c., &c., into railroad affairs. This doubtless led many along with them who shrunk and still shrink from the extreme policy of Repudiation, and induced them to imagine that they were stronger and more numerous than they really are.

But this disguise has now been thrown off, as we have all along been anticipating. The demand for investigation, in which every honest man joined, was with the Repudiators a mere pretext to cover up the hideousness of outright Repudiation; but now that the public are somewhat familiarized with it, the cover is removed.

But in a roundabout way. The columns of the New York Evening Post were selected for the purpose rather than those of any paper here. A long communication is sent there from here, which boldly proclaims that "we (the "we" being intended to mean the people) will not pay" the interest on our railroad bonds. This is the long and the short of the whole affair as published there. It was framed so as to seem to be a notice from the people of this city to the bondholders that the bonds and the interest on them will be repudiated.

Against this, as being any indication of popular opinion or purpose here, the Chronicle very properly protests. After patting these men on the back, encouraging them, helping them in conventions, advocating their views in its columns, and joining in condemnation of those who would not do likewise, it finds itself led to the brink of a precipice from which it is fain to retreat with all possible speed.

How numerous those may be who are willing to unite in saying that they will not, under any circumstances, aid in paying the interest on the railroad bonds, there is no present means of knowing, although it is probable they are but few. We are pleased, however, to see that they have had the boldness to avow their purposes frankly, and to stand up boldly, at last, as Repudiators and nothing else.

THE Indians of Minnesota are getting trouble. Gov. Medary has sent two pressing messages, requesting authority to call out volunteers. The Secretary of War has, it is understood, given no direct reply, but has ordered two companies of regulars to replace those lately withdrawn from the Territory, and the Secretary of the Interior has sent one of his confidential clerks to investigate the condition of affairs. Upon his report will depend his calling out of volunteers. They are probably needed.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Cour. & Enq.

"They are probably needed;" but the need is not to put down the Indians, but the Republicans who constitute a majority of the Constitutional Convention. In case of any possible collision with them, Gov. Medary doubtless wants to be backed up by U. S. forces.

"DEMOCRACY."—The following from Douglas' late speech at Springfield, Illinois, contains the gist of "modern Democracy:"

"That distinction is plain and palpable, and it has been the rule of civilization and Christianity the world over, that wherever any one man, or set of men, were incapable of taking care of themselves, they should consent to be governed by those who were capable of managing their affairs for them."

REV. CHAS. LIVINGSTONE, formerly of Mattapoisett, Mass., now in Great Britain, has written to his friends, expressing an intention to travel in Africa with his brother, the celebrated African explorer, and therefore will not return to America at present.

Crossing Railroad Tracks.

The following decision of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, is worthy of public attention; and, whether regarded as law in this State or not, the rules laid down should be observed by persons most interested. That every precaution should be taken, in the crossing of railroad tracks by drivers of vehicles, is a matter not to be disputed. The danger and risk are mutual—the occupant of the vehicle and the passengers in the cars are equally liable to the destructive consequences of such carelessness. Timely precaution, which would involve very little trouble to a single individual, might prevent the wholesale destruction of human life, and a vast amount of sorrow and remorse for a whole lifetime. Hundreds of valuable lives and thousands of dollars in property have been sacrificed by reckless driving on railroad tracks. The following is the' decision to which we have referred:

"The Court of Appeals, New York, lays it down as a rule of law that an individual on approaching a railroad track is bound to look if a train is approaching. It holds that railroads are among the best improvements of the great work of progress, and their permanent affairs are not to be postponed to the concerns of individuals. It holds that no one has a right to cross a railroad track without first taking every precaution to safety. The same reason that holds railroad companies to the strictest responsibility to the passengers imposes upon every one who crosses the track of these great public thoroughfares more than ordinary care not to jeopardize the lives of those who are availing themselves of the benefit of this great modern improvement in the mode of traveling.

This evidently refers to the danger of injury to the train as well as the carriage on the highway, in case of a collision between the moving masses, a fact which has been many times illustrated; one case occurring on the Camden and Amboy road a few months since, in consequence of backing against a pair of horses, and by which several cars were smashed and many lives lost. He who, without pausing or even looking, will drive upon a railroad track is guilty of more than carelessness.

THE ELECTIONS IN FRANCE.—In the third, fourth and seventh Districts of Paris, at the time of the first election, about five weeks ago, there was no choice on account of the large number of scattering votes. At the second trial, which took place during the second week in this month, the Republicans were successful. The majority for Cavaignac, in the Third Dist., was, on the second trial, 1,007; for Ollivier, (Rep.,) in the Fourth, 999, and Darimon, (Rep.) in the Seventh, 1,040. At the second trial the Republicans gained in every instance, and the Government candidates lost. An exceedingly interesting letter, which we find in the N. Y. Times, from Paris, says:

"The new election gives the Republican party in the city of Paris proper a total vote of 55,000 to 84,650 for the Government. Not only, therefore, is the Government in a minority as against this party, but there are 25,000 more conservatives, which, in a case of revolution, might well be counted as enemies to the Government. Without the vigilant and devoted aid of the army, Paris, therefore, still maintains within its walls all the elements for a successful revolution, and the Government of Louis Napoleon is, after all, but a Government of force.

"With all the efforts made, especially by the Government agents, for the Empire, Orleans and other candidates in every voter, the number of abstentions is exceeds considerably the number of votes. Of these abstentions, a very large proportion are positive enemies to the Government—indeed, almost to Napoleon himself. Both of the Ministers of Police and Interior, and what more fatal influence can be brought to bear against a Government than indifference? All the surrounding hill-tracks of the Republican character of this remarkable audience, as well as of certain days and hours, in those who have been united by the ties of The public are united to call upon

Great Cure after the Physicians had Failed

Evansville, Ohio, Jan. 1, 1856.

Dr. G. H. Keyser—Dear Sir:—We would inform you that we are out of the agency of your Balsam of Horehound and Tar. Some of our neighbors has been distributing for some time. We think about six weeks ago they got a bottle of your Balsam, but all of a sudden. He looked so much like a dead man going about as anything we ever saw. He was not able to go to bed. He was given up by all. We thought we would try it. With such a recommend we sent off and got another bottle. He has been using it ever since, and is now entirely well. We have not had a case of Whooping Cough in this neighborhood.

Yours truly, EDWARDS & BROWN.

OFFENSIVE BREATH.—Reynold's Miscellany prescribes the following for this complaint:

"Almost the only substance that should be used at the toilette is the concentrated solution of chloride of soda, as prepared by Labarrugue at Paris, its inventor, and by Beaufloy, in London. From six to ten drops of it in a wineglassfull of pure spring water, taken immediately after the operations of the morning are completed, will instantly sweeten the breath, by disinfecting the stomach, which far from being injured, will be benefitted by the medicine. If necessary, this may be repeated in the middle of the day. In some cases, the odor arising from carious teeth is combined with that of the stomach. If the mouth be well rinsed with a teaspoonful of the solution of the chloride in a tumbler of water, the bad odor of the teeth will be removed."

A RETIRED PHYSICIAN

Whose sands of life have nearly run out, discovered while in the East Indies, a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and General Debility. The remedy was discovered in his time when he only child, a daughter, was given up to die. He had heard much of the wonderful curative and healing qualities of preparations made from the East Indies Herbs, and the thought occurred to him that he might make a remedy for his child. He studied hard and succeeded in making the wishes. His child was restored to health, and is well. He has since administered the wonderful remedy to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the world, and he has never failed in making them completely healthy, and happy. Wishing to do as much good as possible, he will send free of charge to all sufferers who request it, the recipe, with full and explicit directions for making it up, and successfully using it. He requires each applicant to enclose him one shilling, three cents to be remitted as a return to the postage, and the remainder to be applied to the payment of the Agent's commission.

To Invalids.

Friday, August 21st,

Dr. Calvin M. Fitch

Will extend his appointment in Pittsburgh till noon of FRIDAY, AUGUST 21, when he will POSITIVELY LEAVE PITTSBURGH, IMPERATIVE ENGAGEMENTS CALLING HIM ELSEWHERE. All persons, therefore, who wish to consult Dr. Fitch, must do so before that date. Rooms, Nos. 25 and 29 ST. CLAIR HOTEL. Office hours, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., daily. No calls received on the Sabbath, except in cases of extreme urgency. Dr. Fitch will be occasionally absent from the city on Saturday and Monday of each week, and when in town in order to devote those days to writing, and would prefer to receive no calls from those who can as well call on any other day of the week. On TUESDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, THURSDAYS and FRIDAYS, of each week, Dr. Fitch will always be at his office.

Patients desiring to consult Dr. Fitch should not defer till the last few days of his appointment, as they will incur great risk of not being able to obtain the attention desirable, the throng before leaving being frequently such as to preclude the possibility of giving each case the requisite attention, and consequently even preventing his examining them at all.

Consultations and Examinations of the Closet FREE, but, as Dr. Fitch does not pretend to raise the dead, he does not wish to treat any in the last stages of Consumption, or where a curative treatment cannot be adopted; and he desires none to apply to him under the last wish to hear the truth, as he is accustomed to tell it. Those consulting him will be considered candid in their statements of the actual condition of their Lungs; and those who have delayed till their Lungs are destroyed cannot hope for any encouragement.

Dr. Fitch would also add, that he may be consulted for affections of the Heart, (Sympathetic,) Nervousness and General Debility. Also, for Dyspepsia, Female Disorders, and all other derangements of the system prolifs-ponding to Asthma or Consumption. jy24:wlaw1f

DR. KEYSER'S SHOULDER BRACE.—From Pittsburgh Dispatch, April 16th, 1856. For more than 3 years past we have constantly worn the Washington Suspender Brace, manufactured by Dr. Geo. H. Keyser, of 146 Wood street, in the city, and would heartily recommend it to all who are compelled to follow a sedentary occupation. As we have before remarked, in calling attention to its merits, it answers for a brace and suspenders, the weight of the pantaloons being so placed as to be continually tend to bring the shoulders to their natural position and expand the chest. Women, hundreds of whom are annually injured by the weight of enormous "skirts," should also purchase these braces. In particular is proving the kind appreciated, as many of the braces sold are for burning. Sold at Dr. GEO. H. KEYSER'S, Wholesale Druggist, 146 Wood st., sign of the Golden Mortar. jy26:dawtF

TEAMSTERS ATTENTION.—Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Liniment, in pint bottles, price 50 cents, is warranted cheaper and better than any other article ever offered to the public for the cure of Cuts, Galls, Sprains, Lameness, Sweeney, Scratches, &c. Keep a bottle in the stable, it has saved many a valuable horse. None genuine unless signed S. I. Tobias, in red, 56 Cortlandt street, New York.

Sold by Dr. KEYSER, 146 Wood st. jy26:dawtF

TOOTHACHE is instantly cured by a few drops of Dr. Keyser's Tooth Ache Remedy. Prepared and sold at the drug store of DR. KEYSER, 146 Wood st.,

AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON

Conducted on the European Plan.

LEWIS RICE, PROPRIETOR, respectfully announces that in compliance with the very general preference expressed for the European system of hotel management, that the American House will hereafter be conducted solely on that plan. Well furnished parlors and sleeping apartments will be let by the day, or for longer periods. Meals served in the gentlemen's hall at all hours of the day and evening. The ladies' dining hall will be opened in like manner for ladies, and gentlemen accompanied by ladies. The accommodations and conveniences of the house are unsurpassed, and the recent improvements and alterations leave nothing to be desired. Suburban residents will find the arrangements specially convenient. Large or small parties provided with dinners, suppers, &c., at short notice. jy25:1ydly
