1 Square of 10 lines, it time. atter the failure of the Ohio Life and Trust Com-pany, a little caution on the part of the New York Banks was commendable. They required that much time to see their way; but when they found everybody standing firm, the monetary alarm subsiding, their circulation and deposits undiminished, their specie reserve increased and increasing, the very doctrine of self-preservation dictated a liberal handed policy—a discount of all their receipts.

increasing, the very doctrine of self-preservation dictated aliberal handed policy—a discount of all their receipts.

From a careful survey of the whole premises, we feel justified in saying that for all that has happened and for all that has yet to come of evil the New York City Banks are alone responsible. For their continued cutting off after the first week above named, they have not the shade of reason to offer. They never were stronger, never in a better position. Their specie on hand a great deal more than covered their whole circulation. There was no important demand upon it from any quarter, and yet, in the face of these facts, they continued a steady course of retrenchment till, in four weeks, they had called in fitten millions. This course of action created alarm, doubled the number of anxious borrowers in the street, caused paper to be sent home to Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and sold at ratinous rates, gave them balances against those cities which were exacted in specie, thus weakening their Banks and spreating the alarm far and wide. A part of the effects we have seen; what more remains to come is beyond our ken, for when people get thoroughly frightened they will throw looking glasses out of chamber windows. No panie within our remembrance over had so small a starting point; no one has ever been so enlarged and widely spread by a selfish, cowardly policy; no one could have been so easily checked and smothered by a bold and manly course."

How to Use of Cobble-Stoke.—A correspondent advises farmers to bury all their cobble stone in drains. He says:

"I dug a drain some 35 rods, 2½ to 8 feet deep, then laid small cobbles at the sides and on the bottom, and flat stones, or larger cobbles on top, filled up with stone an near the top as I could without having them interfers with the plow, and then filled in ditt. The result was, I plow ed the piece which was before that too wet, and raised the largest corn that I ever raised on my and the stone are corn that I ever raised on my farm. Another result is, that from the time the Fall rains set in, till May or June, I have us good a spring for watering my cattle as any man can wish for; and another benefit that I have derived from it is, those stones do not scrape my low-point, so that I think that I have got pay for my labor threefold."

Another drain since dug, forty yards long, tused up sixty or eighty tons of stone, and this affords water enough for a hundred head of cattle all Summer.
