EDITORS and PROPRIETORS. PITTSBUBGH:

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 22, 1857. BEADING MATTER ON BACE PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—In accordance with that custom which claims parentage among the stern must not be allowed to starve; yet how, in the midst of the terrible embarrassments that have fallen upon those otherwise able to help them, casting more than half the vote of the State, which show a Republican gain of 3287 on the the 26th of November, has been fixed upon as of the time for this observance. For the vast array of blessings which we look for immediately to the Giver of all good gifts, we never had greater reason to be thankful. What bountiful crops! what universal health! how profound a state of posce reigns over all the land! how propitions the beavens have been with showers, and how the leavens have been with showers, and how the teeming earth has poured forth from mines.

Serious as this question is, it is time to be looking about us for a practical solution of it. The distress is not local; if it were so, relief would be found in emigration. Neither is it a gradual exhibition of the plethora of labor in any particular employment, which could be corrected by the withdrawal of a portion of the laborers from it and their resort to other employments.

Without doubt it is true, that permanent relief the teeming earth has poured forth from mines of wealth her shining ores!

for the display of all the godilke faculties of our natures! How it will teach that there is truly after all something less evanescent and more refreshing than the gold which perisheth at the same time that it is very scarce! What would the people of the United States take to-day and exchange places with our good old consins in England, at present, at least, enjoying commercial weekly according to the people of the United States take to-day and exchange places with our good old consins in England, at present, at least, enjoying commercial weekly according to the present that it is very scarce in the brought together, and made to understand the exigencies of each other's position, it is possible that enough work can be provided to keep the wolf from the door, and on the present that will not materially embarrass the small HOSTETER & SMITH, 20 Pennst releasted.

we know that any attempt to force a Pro-Slavery Constitution upon the people, without the opportunity of voting it down at the polls, will be regarded, after the recent expression of sentiment, as so 'decidedly unjust, oppressive and unworthy of a free people, that the people of the United States will not sanction it. It would add thousands to the vote of the Republican Party in overy State of the Union, and give to that organization what it has ever had yet—a about to assemble in that territory, it says: that organization what it has never had yet—a show of justice and truth. To the Democratic members of that Convention the course is plain. mombers of that Convention the course is plain. The people have decided in favor of a Free State, though they have not voted on the naked issue of "Frée State" or "Slave State," they have rosted practically in favor of a Free State. As Kansas must be a free State, even those persons in the Territory who are known as "Proslavery:" men, must recognize in the late election a decision which must not be slighted nor put at defance. To that expression of the popular will there should be a graceful, if not a cheerful submission."

Sell. Now.—We notice that some western farmers are advising their brethren everywhere not to sell, now, but hold on for better prices.

The advice is atter folly. The Cincinnati Commercial concurs with us in this view. It says:

"If currency can be given to Eastern paper in the West, and there seems no doubt that it can, the West, and there seems no doubt that it can, the west, and there seems no doubt that it can, the west and the sell of the se "If currency can be given to Esatorn paper in the West, and there seems no doubt that it can, it is the most sure and speedy means of relief to both the Esat, and West which can be adopted, as there is no way in which the produce of the West can be more, speedily moved to the Esat; but there is one thing in this connection which farmers and all others interested should bear in mind, and it is this; prices of all kinds of produce must rule, far below present rates, the next nine months; there is in fact no ground for hope of being able to dispose of our surplus, but at low prices, se that the sooner all make up their mind to this the hetter, because there can be no doubt, that better prices will be obtained this fall than can be next spring."

Kansas.—The dispatch which we published yesterday from St. Louis, shows that the territorial authorities are determined to figure out by fraud what they could not otherwise accomplish—a democratic majority. This is the most embarrassing question of the day—so embarrassing that the mind turns instinctively from its contemplation, astoo serious for its mastery. It is impossible to look forward to the coming winter without fear and trembling. The suspension of 1837 occurred in the early summer, and the country had recovered from the stunning effects of the blow before winter set in; but this suspension comes upon us at the threshold of the winter, and turning thousands of workingmen out of employment in every city, leaves us to ponder upon what can be done for the come for the come in the longer theoretiering build ing is sustained, the more precious time is lost,
