the repudiation of Walker's course in Kansas, and periods the rejection of the Free-State Constitution, as the price of their co-operation. Of course no Northern Democrat can yield so much without certain political annihilation at home: nevertheless that is to be the test of ef-fective Southern fellowship. Gentlemen may as well turn the subject over and be prepared to take position. There seems but one safe course for the President to pursue, anatherns of politicians, and determined to ex-ceute his duries with steady unwarering firm-ness. The crisis before him is well adapted to try the nerve of a politician President is and the qualities which alone can carry him through it with eredit. Vacuation for the President to try the nerve of a politician president is and the qualities which alone can carry him through reason why the New York Independent has dis-continued the publication of the list of failures is that the announcement of a house as failed is remains to be seen whether Mr. Ducumous and the qualities which alone can carry him through it with credit. Vacillation is sure to prove his ruin,—for its effect would be to betray and it with credit. 'accumation' to be to betray and sorfifice the friends who are now standing by him, and provoke the disapproval of every in.' dependent thinking man of either acction... fo while those who had succeeded in bullying him into submission would despise him at last, and trust him even less in the future than they have in the past.'' that the announcement of a house as failed is made a pretext for withholding all remittances from the West and South, where people who owe the East are holding their corn and octon for higher prices and allowing their creditors to fail.

It will be seen from the dispatch first quoted that the President has already begun the vacil-lating course that was feared, and the chances are tant he will make a pretty sees of it. make matters interesting. Walker is coming to Washington to curry on the fight in person.— The correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes: "Governor Walker has usked and obtained teava of nbsence from Kansas for a month obtained two, to visit his family here, &c. He was to leave Kansas for this city to-day. Therefore he will in a few days be here to answer for him-self to any complaints that may have been or may be made of his administration. He will try to trim, as usual, and satisfy both, and end by satisfying neither. Already the leading men are beginning to take sides. The Press, Forney's paper, leads off in behalf of Walker, taking bold ground in his de-fence—so bold that, if the President takes the other side, the Press will be brought into conflict with him. At the risk of making this article too long we append a quotation from the leading article in that paper of Tuesday last. After enunciating, at length, the facts in the Oxford ease, it says.; " Opon both grounds, therefore—upon the mandates of the law, and upon the wantonness and openness of the fraud—and mainly upon the former—Alware in the sate of the fraud ingthied be-

We admit that it would require a grave cause to comple an Executive to overlook the law, and to go behind the returns ; hat we hold that upon the ground of non-com-pliance with the law itself, the false vote of Ox-ford was rightly rejected. And suppose Gov-ernor Walker, with the facts before his eyes-with the falso return, admitted, proved and con-fessed, by overy material and immaterial evi-dence - hud given the certificates to men who were not elected, and so decided the complexien of the Legislature, what must have been the re-sult in a region filled with armed men, and ex-citen hy inflammatory elements ?
