"The Democratic leaders made a tremendous effort to make a break among the Republican Germans. They nominated three Germans on their ticket, hoping to seduce them from their allegiance to Freedom. But all in vain. It will be seen by inspecting the returns that the German candidates on the Douglas ticket got no more than their party strength. The Republican Germans voted the straight ticket without a scratch or cut.

The ressions of the Legislature are to be shemnial, and are limited to forty days; but the Storman may call extra sessions, not to exceed twenty days at any one session. The total yearly is well provided with gold and silver, and the State pays nothing but the "hard" out. The State Treasury is well provided with gold and silver, having more than will keep the Government for two years.—Phila. Ledger.

Why does not this rich State, with an overflowing treasury, pay the interest on its bonds?

Republicans of New York have been beaten on years ago. The investment proved a dead loss, their State ticket, but have carried the legisla- and the United States government has been ture. The vote is light; but it is apparent that oted with the Democrats and so turned the balance in their favor. The Republicans suffered, plus for the relief of her cheated creditors? also, from the clamor that was raised against a tax levied to complete the capals. The democrats now have control of the Canal Board, and they

Times says:
"The Republicans were undoubtedly damaged somewhat by their responsibility for the legis-istion of last Winter. The imposition of a tax, however necessary and unavoidable it may be, is always unpopular, and it is very easy for skillful and unscrupnious demagogues to make it odious and effective as an electioneering weaskillful and unserupnious demagogues to make it odious and effective as an electioneering weaton. It has been so used in this case. The imposition of the tax hast year was demanded by every consideration of justice, good faith and good policy; and the Republicans were no more responsible for it than either of the other parties. They were clamorously assailed for it, however, by both of them—and, as was perfectly natural under such circumstances, they lost many votes in consequence of it.

in consequence of it.

The result of the election can have no marked effect upon State legislation. The power of the Canal Board passes into the hands of the Demo-crats at a time when it involves more than usual responsibility, and brings with it less than usual political advantage."

Tue National Era invokes a more hopeful spirit for the New York Tribune, and those who are familiar with the downcast tone of the latter "Considering the extent of the circulation of the New York Tribune among Republicans, and its influence, it is to be regretted that its tone is not more hopeful. It seems to be always calculating on the worst, and, when disappointed in this respect, accepts victory almost as doublingly and relactantly as other people accept defeat. Mr. Chase having been renominated for the Governorship of Ohio, it sulogized him warmly, but lamented that he was too good a man to win success in such times as these; and for some time it was united by a keptical as to the encouraging results of the elections in Iowa and Ohio. It was the last to believe in the triumph of Mr. Chase. The opponents of Republicanism take courage from its melancholy tone.
