EDITORS and PROPRIETORS. PITTBBURGE: SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 21, 1857.

A Remedy for Hard Times. Mis If we were desirous, says the Philifon of Bulletin, of picking out a good Md point to the benefits of advertising, wand New York the benefits of advertising, regardless of all those merchants in Philip, regardless of all who, during the lat duced their prices and boldly and freely, in order timid warning, increased sales on diminished relied on sel public are aware that those who o make not only generally extricated proclyes from difficulties, but actually made ncy. Some have been obliged to renew their stocks from other cities.

Advertise! There is no investment so abso lutely certain to pay ten per cent, and unwards. as advertising. The man who will only lay by a certain small share of his profits every year. as those profits increase, and will devote it sim ply to advertising will grow rich. At a time like the present, the advantages of advertising are seen in all their lustre. Confidence is what would get together and exchange briskly even without a circulating medium; if the farmer would "swap" with the merchant, and the capital equivalents or labor values, we should really be just where we were before-and of all things likely to produce such a blessed result, there is nothing to be compared to copius spirited and ingenious advertising.

THE SUPREME COURT.—The amendment to the Constitution by which our Supreme Court was made elective, provided that the five judges elected in 1857 should hold their offices respect ively for 8, 6, 9, 12 and 15 years, the terms to be decided by lot; that each judge thereafter elected should hold his office for 15 years; that the judge whose term would first expire should be chief justice; and that if the terms of two judges expired at the same time, they should decide by lot which of the two should be chief justice. The evident intention was to make the terms expire at intervals of three years way, be Chief Justice for the last three years of

But Judge Coulter died in 1852, and and Judge Thompson succeeds him; Judge Lewis' term also expires this year, and he will be succeeded by Judge Strong. The terms of the Judges, therefore, as the Court will stand after the first Monday in December, will expire as follows: Judge Lowrie's in 1863; Judge Woodward's in 1867; Judge Knox's in 1868; and those of Judge Strong and Thompson in 1872. Judge Black was Chief Justice from 1854 to 1854 and Judge Lewis from 1854 to 1857, in regular order; but Judge Lowrie, if he lives, will be Chief Justice for six years, from 1857 to 1863; Judge Woodward's in Thompson and Strong will have to toss up for that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 and then Thompson and Strong will have to toss up for that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 to 1807; Judge Woodward's in the ensuing four years, from 1868 and then Thompson and Strong will have to toss up for that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 to 1807; Judge Woodward's in the ensuing four years, from 1868 and then Thompson and Strong will have to toss up for that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 to 1807; Judge Woodward's in this Territory under any pretens whatever. Second. That all the forces in march at a moment's notice to repel any and all the force in the first of the first All armed forces of every description from coming into this Territory under any pretens whatever. Second. That all the forces in that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 to 1807. In the meaning, however, one sell that honor in the ensuing four years, from 1868 to 1872. In the meantime, however, one or all of these judges may die or resign before the expiration of their terms; and in that not unlikely case, the terms will get so mixed that it will refer the publication of the recognition of their terms; and in that not unlikely case, the terms will get so mixed that it will refer the publication of this proclamation, and no person shall be allowed to pass or repass into or through or from this Territory without a permit from the proper officer." case, the terms will get so mixed that it will require the special attention of some State officer to keep the run of them. Instead of an orderly succession, we have a confusion which destroy the purpose originally in view, and which indither a want of foresight or an inability. on the part of the framer of the amendment, express a plain idea in plain words.

FILLIBUSTERISM .- The National Intelligences speaking of the course of the governmen towards Gen. Walker, says:

"The great rigor with which our Government "The great rigor with which our Government interpreted the obligations of neutrality in the matter of the Enlistment Controversy between the United States and Great Britain has naturally crected in the eyes of foreign nations a severe standard by which we must consent to be tried on all occasions which involve an infraction, real or supposed, of our municipal laws and of our "sovereign territorial rights." That both of these sanctions have been violated by Gen. Walker in the present instance cannot be doubted, if the positions sasumed by our Government against certain functionaries of Great Britain are still to be teken as the measure of our duty and obligations under this head."

Our government, in the British enlistment case, had no fear of offending the South, for the sympathies of the South were with Russia, and it was rather to conciliate the south that such a sympathies of the South were with Russia, and it was rather to conciliate the south that such a stern course was pursued. But in Walker's case, the sympathies of the South are the other way. Mestrs. Editors—I coheur with you as to the importance of having the office of Controller well filled, especially at the outset. Permit me to suggest a name which, I am convinced, will command general confidence and approval—that of Henry Lambert, of the Sixth Ward. Mr. Lambert has served two years in Councils and on the Finance Committee and is well acquainted both with the finances and general business of the city. He is an excellent accountant, and would make a firm, impartial, watchful and colliging officer. He seems to me the right man for the right place. For the Pittsburgh Daily Gazetie.

The Press does not over-estimate the importance of the Utah rebellion, and we agree with it in the opinion that, "much deliberation and caution" will be required in its management. In the suggestion that the Mormons are the "Sepoys of civilization" we trust our cotemporary entertains no thought of submitting them to the dreadful warfare now being carried on in India. The handful of men who are now battling with the climate and the Indians, as well as the Mormons, should be reinforced by the world wants now, and nothing is so likely to the addition of thousands at the earliest possi-re-establish it as a stirring retail business, and ble period. > Now that the Mormons have grown troublesome on our hands, let us not despise them as an enemy so much as to underrate their strength and resources. Let the administration go to work and prepare to fight them in a manner that will teach these domestic traitors that the government is in carnest, and that it is determined to make up for lost time by a resort ever at this late day, to decided measures. This course adopted, we have an abiding confidence that the Mormons will be subjugated according to the usages of civilized warfare.
