J. D. BALDWIN, Secretary delocity Reassembling of the County Convention The delegates to the late County Republican Convention, will reassemble at the Court Room on Wednesday the 6th of January, 1858, to put immomination a candidate for Assembly, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the death of J. B. Backhouse.

By order of the Ex. Co. Com. THE PRESIDENT AND THE BANES.—The hardmoney utterances in the Message are evidently mere Buncombe. They are put forward as so much party capital, the idea being that, in the present unsettled condition of the finances of the country, too people will turn to the democratic party, in whose name these sentiments are put forth, as their only relief from the trought forth for the forth forth for the forth forth for their only relief from the trought forth for the forth forth forth for the forth forth

In New York the citizens had the further protection of a provision in their State Constiution to the same effect—a provision which no legislation could suspend; yet the Courts put a construction upon it, to suit the public necessi-ties, which completely nullified it. The laws of ties, which completely nullified it. The laws of trade are as unvarying and unyielding in their operation as the laws of nature. They will assert their supremacy in spite of all human legislation; and when great commercial catastrophes, overtake a nation, in consequence of a violation of the laws of trade, the human laws enacted to prevent them are sure to be found buried in the general ruie. If we had such a National Bankrupt Law as is proposed, and such another revulsion should come upon us as the one we are now experiencing, the very first step would be to summon Coupress in special session to surpend the operation of its penalties. It would be with the nation as it has been with a round of applause by the crowd-greet with a round of applause by the crowd-g

Pennsylvania and Now York.

But there is a most ridiculous conclusion to the vaporings of the President about paper money. The Secretary of the Treasury asks Congress to authorize him to issue $20,000,000 of Treasury notes—paper money, not redeemable in gold and silver, mind you, but merely receivable in payment of public dues, to be paid out again as often as convenient. Thus we find an administration, while clamoring against all paper money, asking for the privilege of issuing twenty millions of it; and while protesting that gold and silver is your only ourrency, demanding the power to issue a tremendors batch of in-Pennsylvania and Now York. ing the power to issue a tremendous batch of in-

The tone of the independent press of the ISTELLIOENCE reaches us to-day from reliable country towards the President's message is anything but flattering. The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, which has no sympathies with the Republicans, but rather inclines to the democracy speaks thus of the Kansas part of it:

| REFELTIONSEE FEACHER US to day from reliable sources that the Pro-Slavery Party in the bord counties in Missouri are organizing for an irruit of into Kansas on election day. Secretar Stanton fears they may swell the vote for the Constitution to six or seven thousand.—Dispate to N. Y. Times.

speaks thus of the Kansas part of it:

"We cannot say that he has treated the subject with any approach to the fairness which would have become so high a functionary as the Chief Magistrate of this Union. On the contrary, there is an amount of partiality and special pleading positively painful. The real issues of he matter are slurred over and other points not directly bearing upon the causes of dissatisfaction are magnified so as to conceal this evasion. We are glad to see that some leading Democrats have announced that they disapprove of this part of the President's message, and are resolved that the professions made in the President's inaugural, the promises given by the Governor whom he appointed, and the principle of popular sovereignty shall be maintained even though the President has repudiated and abandoned them."

has had readers, although we know that that is assuming a great deal) will not fall to have noted that the President, while giving full vent to his denunciations of the paper money system, takes good care to propose no practical remedy. The party may profit by the denunciations: it could hardly profit much, we imagine, by any effort on its part to reduce the denunciations it oacts of a consistent nature.

The only measure proposed or hinted at is the enactment of a National Bankrupt Lawby which any cilizen may wind up and put out of existence any bankrupt bank. Experience has already shown the uselessness of such a law. We have on our statute book a law by which any citizen could, for some time after the late suspension, have forfeited the charter of any suspended hank in the state; yet no one availed himself of the privilege, and the legislature, under the general pressure of public opinion, was compelled to suspend and nullify the penaltics. We have startling news from Washingto

From this we are led to infer that the Message was written at the Union office, and that on its reaching Washington City the President presumed to alter it in one point, without, however, seriously disturbing the coincidence of sentiment between the editor of the Pittsburgh Union and the President. We are not sure that the President ought not to be censured for entertaining a different opinion from the editor, even on the one point named. It will not do for him to be cutting loose from the establishment on the corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets, especially since the defection of Douglas has left him rather short of powerful defenders.

The N. Y. Leening Post, speaking of the removal of McKeon, in New York, for opposing Wood, 2438:

full of patent schemes by which failing is ren-dered impossible, the laws of trade reversed, and insolvent merchants raised to affluence—all by a magical touch of a pen.

Wood, says:

"If the reason assigned for the removal of Mr. McKeon be the correct one, it is certainly calculated to shake the confidence of the most confiding in Mr. Buchanan's patriotism, and we may add, in his good sense, for no President in his senses, one would approse, would deliberately undertake to carry Wood upon his shoulders, since his defeat. Such a burden would have broken down the administration of General Washington. If Lonis Napoleon has ever attempted a more direct or shameless interference with the elective franchise than this, the evidence of it has not yet transpired, so far as we know."

The packages supposed to contain President's Messages for the press, sent out by special messengers to Boston, Columbus, Cincinnati and elsewhere, proved, when opened, to contain and elsewhere, proved, when opened, to contain and Secretary of the Interior. Resumption of Specie Payments in New York.

We are indebted to John Harper, Esq., for a copy of the following dispatch from New York:

New York, Nov. 11th, 1857.

To J. Harper, Cashier: The Bank of Commerce in New York has to-day voted to resume specie payments on Monday, the 14th inst. The other banks will do the same. H. P. Vall, Cashier.

This is an important step. The banks of that city are now in a very strong position, and have been, practically, paying specie for some time past. Their ability to resume is unquestioned. Our New York papers of Thursday say that a meeting of the banks was held at the Clearing House on Wednesday, at which a resolution to resume on the 14th was voted down—14 to 24.
