A THEATRICAL INCIDENT.—Some years ago the manager of a "well-regulated Theatre," somewhere along the line of the Erie Canal, engaged a good looking and brisk young lady as a supernumerary. It happened that the young lady in question, had formerly officiated in some capacity as a "hand" on board a canal boat, a circumstance of the boatmen slapped his shoulder and with an emphatic expletive exclaimed, loud enough to be heard over half the house:

"Bill, I know that gal!"

"Phaw!" said Bill, "dry up."

"But I'm d——d if I don't know, Bill. Its Sal Plukins, as sure as you're born. She's old Plukins' daughter that used to run the injured Polly and she used to sail with him."

"Tom," said Bill, "you're a fool, and if you don't stop you're infernal cheek, you'll get put out. Sal Plukins! You know a sight, if you think that's her!"

Tom was silenced, but not convinced. He watched Miss Plukins in all her ingloius with intense interest, and ere long, broke out again:

"I tell ye, Bill, that's her—I know its. You can't fool me—I know her too well!"

Bill, who was a good deal interested in the play, was out of all patience at this persistent interruption on the part of Tom. He gave him a tremendous nudge in the ribs with his elbow, as an emphatic hint for him to "keep quiet."

Tom without minding the admonition said:—"You just wait—I'll fix her, keep your eye on me."

Sure enough, he did fix her. Watching his opportunity when the actress was deeply absorbed in her part, he sung out in a voice which rang through the galleries,

"Low hellidge!"

From force of habit, the actress instantly and involuntarily ducked her head to avoid the anticipated collision. Down came the house with a perfect thunder of applause at this "palpable hit," high above which Tom's voice could be heard, as he returned Bill's punch in the ribs with interest:

"Didn't I tell ye, old boy. I know'd 'twas her. You couldn't fool me."

IMPORTATION OF IRON AND STEEL FOR 1856–'7.—The report on Commerce and Navigation, just issued from the Treasury Department, gives the following returns for the importation of iron and steel for the year ending June 30, 1857:

Railroad Iron:	TONS.	VALUE.
At New York	80,054	$3,416,255
New Orleans	51,900	2,032,116
Detroit	9,790	415,432
Boston	7,816	307,138
Charleston	5,255	202,623
For all ports in U. S.	179,505	7,455,596
Pig Iron:
At New York	28,940	563,011
Boston	11,097	211,038
New Orleans	5,953	112,097
Philadelphia	1,320	27,793
For all ports in U. S.	51,794	1,001,742
Old and Scrap Iron:
At New York	4,261	53,758
For all ports in U. S.	8,253	111,680
Cast, Shear and German Steel:
At all ports	8,760	1,775,292
All other Steel:
At all ports	6,574	558,329
Of both imported at New York	9,874	1,778,704
Of both imported at Philadelphia	869	182,902

All the railroad iron above mentioned is from British ports, though over 10,000 tons came through Canada, entering at Detroit. The amount sent from Liverpool, in 1857, to the U. States, was about 28,000 tons only. Old and scrap iron is mainly from the West Indies and Canada. Of the pig iron, 220 tons is from Russian ports, 258 tons from Hamburg, and the remainder from British ports. The first is exceptional, or results from mere accident of shipment, since there can be no export of Russian or German pig iron. Of the steel, 700 tons is from German ports, and the remainder British.

The seven and a half millions of dollars' worth of railroad iron which we imported for that year might, without the least difficulty, have been supplied at home. The average price of Staffordshire rails, at Liverpool, for 1857, was £8 4s. 9d., ($39 87;) the lowest £7 15s., ($7 50.) As
