Third—It is true that, at one time, Pittsburgh manufacturers did maintain agencies in western citter, and sell their wares there at Pittsburgh prices; that they found, eventually, that it was a ruinous husiness, both to themselves and Pittsburgh, and with a few exceptions the practice, we believe, has been abandoned—an example we urgently recommend to the Pennsylvania. Road. But, supposing it were true—what then? Does it warrant the inference drawn in the Pressident's letter? Not at all. An individual, whose capital is limited, and whose capacities for mischief are comparatively small, may safe by be allowed to do as he pleases with his own. ly be allowed to do as he pleases with his own, and sink his capital, if he chooses, in a ruinous and sink his capital, if he chooses, in a ruinous competition with others; his money is his own, and he is not a proper subject of legislative restraint, however injurious, commercially, his the retreat of Mr. English and others, if possible commercially his commercially his commercially his commercially. case may be; but it is different with a railroad company. It is not only the creature of the Mr. Stephens made an urgent and imploring legislature and subject to its control, but, as in the case of the Pennsylvania road, its capacity for mischief is so great, through its immense capital of twenty millions and the gigantic powers it possesses, that it ought not to be permitted to use those powers injuriously. It has no right to do us a wrong. It may, unrestrained, not only crush the life out of the business of this city, or out of that of any other town on the facts and arguments of that report stand, not only impregnable, but virtually unassailed Insunondination.-A telegraphic dispatch to the associated press, bearing date of March 27, says that one hundred of the students of Columbia College, S. C., have been suspended until In a Southern exchange paper we find the following: "A School Teachen Killed By a Pupil.—

Mr. Brawmer, a school teacher, was fatally stabled, near Berlin, Ala., on the 15th inst. It appears that Brawmer undertook to chastise one of his pupils, a lad named Collins, about twelve years old, when the latter drew a knife and indicated a wound, gion Brawmer. After he was stabbed, he pursued the lad for a short distance, but his strength very soon gave out, and he fell dend. Collins made his escape."

A Kentucky friend once told us of a school he undertook to teach in Helens, Arkansas. The was to search the desks of his pupils for deadly weapons. Mr. Olmsted, in his valuable history of a Journey through Texas, gives an account of a boy twelve years old, whom he encountered, who becam's partially intoricated, and by his horrible oaths and cursings, kept the "public house," where Olmsted was stopping, in an uproar until midnight. At length a traveller in an other room, oried out to the boy and told him to stop or he would come in and take care of him. Mr. Olmsted then details the conversation which ensued, and which the boy accompanied on his part by the clicking of his revolver and opening and shutting his knife, all the while swearing in oaths, we dere not repeat, the most terrible vangeance upon any man or person who should approach his door. So this boy, 12 years old, raved until he raved himself into stupor, broken ever and anon by dreamy blasphemy as he rolled about in his sodden sleep, as we may well imagine just on the verge of hell from which on might suppose him an emanation.

If they are low enough, then the rates charged to others are too low and ought to be raised, so as to bring our people upon an equality with their competitors if they are not low enough, then they ought to be reduced to the level of those charged to our competitors. There is no logical escape from these conclusions.

Washington, March 28.—John Cochrane was Chairman of the Democratic caucus on Saturday, evening. Stephens, of Georgia, made a strong speech to show that the only hope of the Union was in the unity of the Democratic party, and that everything possible should be done to preserve this harmony.—

English, of Indiana, an Anti-Lecompton democrat, seconded Stephens, and made a speech in a similar vein, suggesting the propriety of adopting some amendment to make the bill acceptable to Democrats who wanted to support the Administration, but could not agree to the unadulterated swindle.

Stephens moved for a Committee of twenty, half Lecompton and kalf Anti, to dovise some plan of agreement, and to report of Tuesday evening. English seconded the motion, and it was carried. John Cochrane appointed the Committee.
