GOVERNMENT BOOKS.—Every report of an ex-pedition, or from the Patent Office, being now published by the government in elaborate book form, with costly plates, diagrams, maps, etc., Senator Brown, of Mississippi, recently made as speech in the Sonate denouncing the practice in the following terms:

"What are all your picture books, but books to amuse children? What is the use of volumes or ammed full of pictures of birds, snakes, lizards, and all manner of things of that sort, printed in the most artistic style, with pretty little, stories about the habits of the birds, snakes and reptiles, but as mere play books?

They are not printed for men; because they contain no information that would be of any value to a man with a beard upon his face, or a woman that was fit to be the mother of children. They are mere playthings, got up at an enormous expanse to the government. Take your books about the exploring expedition; and instead of giving a history of the expedition, you find the queerest pictures, and most outlandish things meaning nothing—no historical statement that amounts to anything. There is one volume of this exploring expedition the queerest book that ever was put inside of lids. Take a box of common blacking, and a brush, and a little white paper, smear it all over, and then take a pepper box of white sand and sprinklo it all about, and you will have as good a book as that."

The Vicksburg (Miss.) Whiy publishes a letter from a Pro-Slavery man who was a member of the late Lecompton Constitutional Convenion, yet who has recently returned to Mississippi. Being asked why he did so, he replies:

"My reason! for leaving is, I think, a good one. I cannot stay any longer. I have been, as overy one must be, identified with politics. I unfortunately for my future prospect in Kanssa, have taken an active and rather prominent part. And now, to confess the truth and shame the devil, we, the Pro-Slavery men, cannot expect any mercy or favors from the d—d Abolition its; for although we have been in a minority ever since I came to Kanssas, we have denied this, to prevent discouraging emigration from the Boath, and have builled and swindled them in our elections, until even I admit they have a right to feel outraged. this, he will probably hear nothing worth retailing of the British army has created great surprise and regret. It appears that shome in barracks the mortality of troops of the line is three times as great as that of most abort-lived classres—as the olerks or Spitalfield weavers even; that, too, while they are well clothed, carefully dieted, skilfully treated in siokness, and warmly housed, besides being regularly exercised. The confinement in barracks, the irksome routine and the simless life the private soldier leads, have all something to do with it. The diet is also too uniform. Officers attribute it to night duty, and point to the fact that the mortality is greatest in the foot Guards, whose night duty is the heaviest. Letters from India report the mortality of the Indian army to be very great. The arrivals, it is essented do not fall the gaps made by disease. It is even asserted that the waste will require a thousand fresh troops per week from the mother country. A company is generally provided with two boilers, in one of which the soldiers boil their meat, in the other their potatoes; they have nothing else. A man goes on with it from the day he enlists till he jis discharged. He lives on boiled meat for twenty-one years.

The Mobile Advertuer, speaking of Parson Brownlow, holds the following complimentary language:—"What must be the impression as to the character of the Southern people upon the minds of the ignorant masses of the North when they behold and listen to this blackguard Tennessean, and are told that he is a minister of the Georgel, and the chosen champion of Southern the character of the Southern people upon the minds of the Ignorant masses of the North when they behold and listen to this blackguard Tennessean, and are told that he is a minister of the Gospel, and the chosen champion of Southern institutions, sent among them by the people of the South' It was an unfortunate joke for Southern institutions, sent among them by the people of the South' It was an unfortunate joke for Southern institutions, sent among them by the people of the South' It was an unfortunate joke for Southern institutions and religion, to go into the fun of the thing, to have encouraged this coarse brawler in politics and religion, to go into the North and expound the merits of Southern institutions and Southern society. The triumphant Buchanan, who commenced the session with flying colors and with the ranks of his supporters unbroken, having overwhelming majorities in both Houses, is now on his knees, imploring those whom he lately spurned to save him from ignominious defeat.

What will be the result? We fear the worst while we hope for the best. Our faith in the triumph of the right leads us to hope for the virtual defeat of Lecompton; but our knowledge of the arts and appliances of power leads us to fear for its success. Other great wrougs have triumphed before; and there will be nothing marvelous in the triumph of this. But one thing is certain: that, whether Lecompton succeed or fall, it seals the fate of that party which has assumed 'its guilt.
