MONDAY MORNING, MAY 10, 1858. THE MILITIA BRL. — The last legislaturo did eme good things the best of which the Gor-ernor hesitates to approve; they also passed some revery poor bills, all of which the Gor-ernor hesitates to approve; they also passed some revery poor bills, all of which the Gore-root hesitates likely to be generally read-for thar treason is not likely to be generally pro-the conneg is multitudinous sections; but the chances are tent on one he will on thave the brains to comprehend it. Efforts will doubles be made to put it in operation, and the public may chtain, by degrees, in that way, some idea of the outlines of the cumbrous concern. We are tot so sure that, after they have become ac-tor that, after they have become ac-tor that, after they have become ac-tor that in the specified at the result as the English people think is no longer a matter of much consequence. For one, from our having an opinion of their own, take more pains nowledge of its contents we are constrained to regard it as a very unwise, oppressive and mis-ebond there be, perchance, any of his Majesty's togard it as a very unwise, oppressive and mis-chiovous piece of legislation. It rovives the old and exploded system of mil-itla trainings, dooming us to the reaping of con-tinual crops of colonels, majors and captains without end, and compels every man between the ages of 21 and 45 to train either in a militia or volunteer company, or pay a commutation tax our volunteer companies. We take a just pride in them, and juey exciteour admiration by their millitary bearing and perfection of discipline. Bat, the State can provide for their encourage-ment without resort to this questionable method of tarailon, and can do it all the better by abol-ishing at once and forever the cumbrous and worthless, yet torribly expensivo, militis sys-tem. This bill is a step backward instead of forward. LECOMFTON LITERATURE.—The Hon. James Foley, Lecompten member of Congress from In-dians—the individual who occasionally boasts of his four-fathers—seems to be so much pleased with his official duties at Washington, and the et cetters, that he is making arrangements to have mised the resonable time, and with private assenabled pri-ing for after in the rear, had an attack been made. This, ensys of one error in their calcula-tions. They had usually believed that the et comps abuilt would stand alout en cound, and if his constituents, announcing this intention, is the acoushick wo publiah below. Hoseems re-joiced that he is reinstated in fall fellowship with other "poor devils" who are now booked in the service of the administration. This scion of four-fathers will discover, before he is many months older, that the people will exercise their "rite to select" their representatives, and that his "fellowship" with dough-faces, his quartette of papas, and his "principles of non-interven-tions," will not save him from the fate in store for him. The "masses" will not dispute his right to be a "candudate," but they will nover-theless "chuse for themselves," when the elec-tion day comes. The complacency with which he speaks of his personal popularity and his ability to bring the people up to the "poles," is about as refreshing as his orthography is origi-nal. Hear what this "poor devil" of a Lecomp-tonide has to say for himsolf in the epistlo to which reference has already been made: Wasmincros, April 22 58.
