could be made out of it, the President and his echoes in Congress and the press were excessively warlike in their tone, breathing forth threatenings and slaughter in the regular style of carnest belligerents; but when the Republican press took the same ground, and demanded that the Administration should defend the honor and the commerce of the country against the insults and outrages committed upon them by British cruisers, the Administration showed its utterlack of sincerity by completely backing down from its high pretensions. Its warlike uttermeanest and most contemptible kind, got up for the mere purpose of turning away attention from the other groes iniquities of this-most corrupt government. The Committee of Poreign Affairs in the Scante reports a series of granditoquent resolutions, which sound largely but mean nothing and propose nothing—a mere abstract declaration of opinions, which look to no practical measure whatever; and the similar technical measure the accommendation of the technical measure the meaner o readers to imagine how mean those locofocos must be with whom such a political outcast as Clay is ashamed to associate.

The simple reason for this disgraceful back was general.

Clay is ashamed to associate.

The simple reason for this disgraceful back allown is to be found in the fact that the Atlantic Elays States dread a war with England above all other things. They fear the effect of such a war upon Slavery, having every reason to naticipate that it would end in the abolition of that institution. Hence there will be no war. The South wens 'old hir. Buchanan,' and they will not englar filly to.provoke a war, even if he has the fullimation, which he has not. Atl the blusting for thing to.provoke a war, even if he has fullimation, which he has not. Atl the blusting for, that he and his party have initially allowed in must be taken at its true value—which is nothing.

Doublete there are many honest democrates who think truly that the honor of the country has been outraged and that it ought to be avenged but all such will look in vain to this dastardly administration for the vindication of the country's name. The craven soul that animates it is incapable of comprehending such a thing in sungitional honor. "Old Mr. Buchanan" is an old coward, who disgraces the government by his polyronorry.

The Crops.—Advices from the South report favorably of the growing crop where it has not suffered from the överflow, the weather having hecome very fine and very favorable for the young plant, and where the freet of 27th and 28th of April did no damage, it is considered about a forting the arriver thanks!
