Among other items added to the appropriation by the Senate, is $80,000 for three regiments of Missouri desperadoes mustered into the service of Shannon and Woodson and called "Kansas Militia." These are the same cut-throats who sacked and burned Lawrence and Osawatomie. These are samples of those extras which have swelled the expenditures from about fifty two millions under Mr. Fillmore to $83,000,000 under a simple minded Democrat like Mr. Buchanan.

Each act of the Administration is the protracted and terrible Kansas tragedy seems to accumulate crime. Mr. Buchanan has just been guilty of a repetition of the outrage with which he stained his Administration at the outset. He has appointed one of the most savage and atrocious murderers belonging to the Border Ruffian organization to Governor Western Missouri, to a life office George W. Clark, who in 1855 shot Mr. Barbour, of Ohio, through the back and killed him, has been taken from the place of Land Receiver at Fort Scott, and made a Purser in the Navy. This is office in the gift of the government more coveted than the Pursership in the Navy. It is said that his friend and patron in procuring the appointment was Senator Johnson of Arkansas. The President is responsible for his own acts, without regard to the influence which controls him. But this appointment is totally disgraceful to all concerned in it, including that majority of the Senate which confirmed it.

The next movement, doubtless, will be the concession of Brockett, who is charged, without denial upon any respectable authority, of having been Clark's lieutenant in many very recent murders and robberies in Kansas, and of Hamilton, who committed the massacre of the Pottawatomie Indians. It is these men who have governed Kansas, through the money and the favor of the Administration, during four years and its influence alone has saved them from summary punishment by the people.

Later developments have exposed a conspiracy which for deep laid wickedness and for foul and bloody execution, has no parallel even in the sanguinary annals of Kansas. It would appear that this man Clark, Acting Receiver of the Fort Scott Land-office, with a salary of $2,500, determined to expel the Free State settlers from Lynn and Bourbon counties by directing against them a renewed crusade from Missouri and the pro-slavery districts adjoining Fort Scott. He was ably sustained by Brockett, who it appears to have been retained, since his murder of Bailey, last summer, as a land-office clerk, at $1,600 per annum, by H. Clay Pate, a mendacious correspondent of the St Louis Republican, and by three men, named Hamilton, from Georgia, the last two sons of whom one was the leader in the murders of the 19th May. They commenced by making a descent upon the Free State settlements along the Osage, calling the settlers to the doors of their cabins, and shooting them as they appeared. In this way Brockett is alledged to have killed three men with his own hand. They next called a pretended meeting of prominent Free State men, and in their names passed very violent pro-slavery resolutions, forbidding Judge Williams to hold his Court, and warning all pro Slavery settlers to leave the Territory on pain of death. To these resolutions were affixed the forged signatures of Capt Montgomery, Boyne, and other well known defenders of the rights of the Free State residents. These forged accounts of our proceedings were sent by the confederate Pate to the St Louis Republican, and copied thence into the majority of Administration prints. They were soon followed by equally false and fabricated reports of Outrages, by Capt. Montgomery. The ground was now well prepared for the seed, and gangs of outlaws from Missouri joined certain bandits in and around Fort Scott, consisting for the most part of soldiers who had been drummed out of the companies at that station for their excesses. These had been originally recruited from Buford's gangs of adventurers. These allies proceed at once to the duty assigned them. They began to clear the country, as they said, of the Yankees and Abolitionists, in retaliation for the falsely pretended expulsion of members of their own party by Montgomery's men. Their crimes culminated in one of the most bloody, treacherous, and abominable massacres ever committed among civilized people.

There can hardly be a doubt that Hon. Jacob Thompson, who has chiefly managed Kansas affairs under the present Administration, was sufficiently informed of the facts of this conspiracy to know where responsibility for it lay. He doubtless knew that Clark was one of its authors, and there are probable grounds for believing that he was the man in the Cabinet who procured Clark's appointment. But Mr. Buchanan could not have been ignorant of Clark's character. Knowing this he had never sought out the proofs of his criminality, the man's reputation was as notorious in Pennsylvania before Mr Buchanan assumed office, as in Kansas. He was just as notorious, even more so, than Emory, who was appointed to office fourteen months ago. The facts justify the charge that the President has either fallen into imbecility and inanity, or that he has deliberately assumed responsibility for the crimes of his creatures in Kansas. Judging James Buchanan by his conduct he appears murder, he rewards those who perpetrate it, and he adopts it as a useful means of governing a territory, of which he and his fellow-partisans have solemnly asserted its people should govern themselves. Sing Bombs has done something to outrage the sentiment of Christian Europe by his tyranny over the people of his kingdom, but he has done nothing like this. He has not made his government a government of bravoes and assassins.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Com.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 16.—8 P. M.—The size of the Republican State Convention is enormous. There are fifteen hundred delegates in attendance. All the counties are represented except five, the delegates from which being detained by the shockingly bad condition of the roads. Several hundred delegates and alternates have been unable to reach here in time for the session of
