The Daily Union made its re-appearance, yesterday, under its new anapices, as the "True Press and Union." As our readers know it best by the latter term we shall continue to speak of it as "the Union." We do not see that the garge gained anything by the change in proprietors. It is the Lecompton organ, still, and pitches into the Republican party and candidates with all the malignity but without the ability) of its former cell-urs; but it is miserably got up, and in appearance resembles the pitches into the Republican party and candidates with all the malignity (but without the ability) of its former editors; but it is miserably got up, and in appearance resembles the "FIR County Reporter" or any other backwoods paper that is printed where the ink is bad and printing office facilities scarce. It looks a good deal like Lecompton itself—seedy and loaferish. If locofocoism cannot do better than this in making its best bow on its re-entrance before the public, the enemies of Lecompton need not be distressed about it. It is due, however, to the publicher to say that "much of the style is merely temporal." We infer from this that it will soon change into a religious paper, and give its attention to spritular diffure.

This prevalence of low prices is always an evidence of stagnation in trade and depression in industrial pursuits. To the unsemployed man, or the man who is earning but liftle, it is more difficult to buy cheap provisions than it would be if they were dear and every body fully employed. That condition of things is always the best under which every one's labor is well repaid—the producer as well as the consumer with it.

The agricultural interest is now reaping, along with its splendid harvest, the results of the depression which has fallen upon the manufacturing and commercial interests. Hence the policy of the Administration of rewarding new recruits to the neglect of the old stagers, and hence the enormous expenditure of $55,000,000 by the Federal Government in one year among its flunkles. We believe as mach as we believe any thing that a portion of this immense sum of money will be sent into each Congressional district in Indiana to carry the elections against the people.
