ILLINOIS.—Mr. Douglas has opened the campaign in Illinois by a speech at Chicago, in which he takes direct issue with the noble Republicans of that State, and makes open war upon them and their principles. He permitted himself to assert that the Union could not exist if the doctrine avowed by the Republicans of that State, and maintained so nobly by Mr. Lincoln, that Congress has power to prevent the extension of Slavery and ought to exercise it, should prevail. This seems to us supremely silly. It would be simply ridiculous if uttered by some puny demagogue; but in the mouth of Mr. Douglas, who knows better, it is silly in the highest degree. The government of the United States was conducted upon that principle from 1787 to 1847—a period of sixty years, and during all that time the Union reposed more firmly upon its foundations than it has done since it was abandoned for the new-fangled doctrine of squatter sovereignty. The country was never so near the brink of danger as it has been under the practical operation of the new doctrine as administered by democratic exponents of it in Kansas. We have no hesitation in expressing our preference for the principle under which the government was so safely administered by Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison and Jackson, over the substitute as administered by Pierce and Buchanan. The five Northwestern States, together with Iowa and Minnesota, have come into the Union without a murmur of resistance or shadow of trouble, under the broad principle laid down by the Republicans of Illinois; whilst Kansas, the illustration and embodiment of the doctrine of Mr. Douglas, has been the victim of constant war and bloody contest, and is to be the theatre of a prolonged future conflict before it is marshaled into the array of States. To say, therefore, as Mr. Douglas does, that the doctrine of Washington, Jefferson and the fathers of the Republic, which has operated so peacefully, is dangerous to the safety of the Union; and that the Union can be saved only by maintaining a principle which, so far, has eventuated only in blood and the bitter hostilities of a sectional conflict, is simply to expose the weakness of his position. So long as Mr. Douglas warred upon the Buchanan wing of his party, he was not only strong but invincible; but when he turns to fight the Republicans, he betrays a weakness which is fatal to him.

The campaign, however, is opened, and it is to be a warm one. Mr. Lincoln, his competitor for the Senate, is ready to follow Mr. Douglas throughout the State, and to combat his arguments on every stump. The two men are well pitted, and it will be the struggle of two giants for the mastery. That Lincoln will be the victor we do not entertain a doubt.

THE ACQUITTAL OF LANE.—The acquittal of Lane on the preliminary trial for the murder of Jenkins may seem strange to many, but is not wonderful to those who have read the evidence thoroughly. It was a neighborhood feud, in which both sides came armed to the conflict, reckless of the lives endangered by the encounter. The Leavenworth Ledger says:

"The Court were unanimous in their opinion; and we feel fully justified in saying that the evidence adduced for and against the prisoner warranted them in arriving at the conclusion they did.

We have read the entire testimony carefully and impartially, and have arrived at the same conclusion several days since.

We defy any lawyer in the country to come to any other conclusion, after a careful and impartial reading of the testimony.

We are no political friend of General Lane's. We despise every political sentiment that he ever uttered, at the same time, as a political journalist, feel it incumbent upon us as a public duty to assent to the judgment of the examining court, and to accord to them all praise. Col. Jenkins was a particular friend of ours, and we are free to confess that our sympathies are in that direction, but we determined to hear the final result ere we spoke one word.

The testimony proves conclusively that Col. Jenkins was the aggressor, accompanied by three friends, all armed; and that the party were closing in on Gen. Lane, and actually shot at him twice ere he showed a signs of self-protection, and the man who would not protect himself, if in his power to do so, would prove to the world that he was unfit to live, and too contemptible to die. Gen. Lane acted just as every man should actuder like circumstances, and public opinion will sustain him."

MISSOURI.—Frank Blair is meeting his opponents before the people, each making an hour's speech at each appointment. The victory, in every instance, has been with Blair, who takes bold anti-slavery ground. Of the meeting at Carondelet the Democrat says:

"At the appearance of Mr. Blair it was very evident which was the favorite with the crowd. His speech was the best effort of the canvass. We have heard many who were present say that they never listened to a more compact, logical and stirring effort. The crowd stood perfectly chained by the speaker's reasoning, his gesticulation and the clear ringing of his voice upon the night air. Mr. Blair's speech turned chiefly upon the 'land-still' question. His review of the opinions of Senator Hammond, of South Carolina, as enforced in his speech against the white slaves of the North and his sarcastic handling of the two Missouri Senators were models of eloquence, and told with wonderful effect upon the audience. Other portions of the speech were equally pointed and felicitous.

The canvass, so far, has been most gratifying to the cause of free labor. The people seem to be awake to their true interests, and will undoubtedly give a larger vote for the ticket of the Free Democracy than ever before."

HON. JOHN HICKMAN was to open the canvass in Chester, by a speech on Saturday night last. We are sorry to see that he puts himself on the Cincinnati platform, and claims a re-election on that ground. If he can take no higher ground than that he ought to be beaten.

DEATH FROM ASIATIC CHOLERA.—The Asiatic cholera has again made its appearance in London. "This time," observes a contemporary, "it has not been wafted hither from Continental Europe, but has arisin spontaneously in our midst. its first victim perished on Monday, the 21st inst., and before his death he attributed his malady to the poisonous stench arising from the Thames, on which river he was employed as a lighterman. An inquest was held upon the body on Tuesday, and the jury returned for their verdict that his death was occasioned by an attact of Asiatic cholera.

THERE is nothing over which a certain class gloat so ravenously as scandal against clergymen. Rev. Mr. Corbett, an estimable clergyman of the M. E. Church in New York, has recently been made the subject of scurrilous comment. From a mischievous whisper of "indiscretion," the subject has been blown into a heinous crime:—while the whole story is as baseless as it is cruel. The case is under investigation at Mr. C.'s request. The very first step furnishes him with a triumphant vindication.

The Free Banking law of Iowa, which was passed by the Legislature last Winter and approved by the Governor on the 22d of March, has been confirmed by a popular vote of the people. The Iowa system is based upon that of New York, Wisconsin, Missouri, and other States where the free banking system is maintained, but it requires each bank to hold a certain amount of specie according to its abilities (say 25 per cent). It prohibits the partial withdrawal of collateral stocks.—Tribune.

CASES IN CUMBERLAND CO., PA.—The Carlisle (Pa.) Volunteer says:—"Our farmers have pretty generally housed their hay crops during the past week, which have been unusually heavy in this county this season—probably the heaviest ever gathered. Many persons have already commenced cutting their grain, which also promises an abundant yield.

[From the New Orleans Delta, July 1.]

EFFECTS OF THE FLOOD ON THE CROPS.—We are under many obligations to Mr. E. H. Augamar for the following report on the effects of the high water on the crops, in some of the parishes of this State:

Gentlemen—Having just returned from my visit to the inundated parishes, where I have seen many of the planters residing between St. Charles and Lockport, I deem it my duty to you and others, to submit for your consideration the facts:

The crevasses affect, sensibly, the following parishes: Jefferson, slightly, (most of the damage in this parish being done by the Bell crevasse;) St. Charles, very badly; St. John Baptist, very badly; St. James, the lower part, badly, the upper part, slightly; Assumption, badly; Lafourche, very badly.

TABLEAU SHOWING THE EFFECT OF THE FLOOD ON THE SUGAR CROP.

| Last Year's Crop | Prospect of This Year's Crop before the Crevasses | Probable Crop if the Crevasses be stopped within twelve days. |
|---|---|---|
| Jefferson.....6,555 | 8,000 | 7,500 |
| St. Charles.....6,620 | 10,000 | 1,550 |
| St. John's.....4,702 | 7,500 | 2,750 |
| St. James.....10,972 | 15,500 | 7,500 |
| Assumption.....7,740 | 11,500 | 6,000 |
| Lafourche.....12,017 | 18,500 | 6,000 |
| 47,610 | 72,000 | 24,300 |

Thus showing a certain loss of 47,600 hhds. of Sugar.

What cane is not under water yet is protected on the swamp side, by levees built some distance from the woods in the fields; but the back water rising steadily, some of the levees are breaking every day and as a consequence the amount of cane and corn destroyed is daily increasing. The back water has been rising regularly for the last six weeks at the rate of one inch and one-eighth in twenty-four hours. Since the opening of the second crevasse at St. Charles, on the 19th of June, the daily rise is a little over one inch and a half, the breach widening every day, and the natural consequence will be that the water will rise at the rate of two and three inches in twenty-four hours. If such be the case, scarcely any cane or corn will be saved this season.

With the exception of three or four plantations, there is no crop that levees and draining machines will save, if the back water be allowed to rise two or three feet more—and I am sorry to say that it is the opinion of a number of intelligent planters that unless the crevasses be stopped at once, the whole of that rich basin bounded by the Mississippi, the Bayou Lafourche and the Gulf, will be under water within twenty-five days from now—and the reasons for fearing such a calamity are, that the Mississippi must fall twelve feet before the water will cease to rush in through the crevasses; it cannot begin to fall before ten days from now, and it cannot fall twelve feet short of twenty-five days; hence very plausible fears arise of a general and complete overflow of the parishes now affected by the crevasses. Respectfully,

E. H. AUGAMAR.

N. B.—In the above remarks, Ascension is not included, it being almost free from any damage by the overflow.

EJECTION OF AN AMERICAN MISSIONARY IN SYRIA.—Beyrout, May 27.—There has been a disturbance at Zahleh since my last, which is likely to be attended with bad consequences to all parties. Zahleh, I must tell you, is the largest town in Mount Lebanon, and with its suburb, Muallakah, contains about 10,000 inhabitants. It is situated on the east slope of the range, just above the plain of the Bekaa, and is distant from Beyrout a day's journey of eight hours, or about half way between this and Damascus. It is considered the head-quarters of Romanism in this place, the people priding themselves upon all being members of either the Latin or the Greek Catholic Churches. The Jesuits, all Frenchmen, have a large establishment in the place; and the Greek Catholics—that is members of the Greek church who are in communion with Rome—have a Bishop, a convent and numerous priests in the town.—Some six months ago, an American missionary of the Presbyterian Board, took up his residence at Zahleh, with the intention of learning the Arabic language, and also of seeing whether in time, schools could not be established in the place. The people themselves were glad to see this gentleman, as all over Syria the American schools have a first rate name; but the priests were exceedingly angry at his presumption for coming among their flock, and several times wrote him letters warning him to leave the place. The missionary—whose name, by the way, is Dod—replied that he was in his own right in living where he liked; that he was not aware of having given any body any offence, and, that, with all due deference to the indignant ecclesiastics, he would remain where he was. For a time he was left unmolested; but upon his concluding a bargain for the hire of a house, which he engaged for a term of seven years, the storm burst on again. One of the chief Greek Catholic priests visited him at the small hotel where he was living, and said unless he took his departure forthwith, the people of the town would tear him out of the place. Mr. Dod answered that he did not think that likely, for the inhabitants of Zahleh had always shown themselves kind towards him. A few days afterwards (only a fortnight ago) some ten or a dozen of the chief Priests, headed by one with one of the French Jesuits, came to his house, and brought with them mules, upon which they said he must pack up his baggage and be off. They were not accompanied by any of the townspeople; but they said they were acting under the orders of the Bishop.

Mr. Dod said to them that if forced to go he could not help himself, but declared he would never move from what he considered his post of duty of his own accord. Upon this these gentle ministers of the Gospel, with their own sacred hands, threw out of the window all the book, clothes and furniture; as also all that belonged to his wife and child—the latter an infant in arms The French Jesuit took no active part in the proceedings; but he did not prevent—which he might have done by a word, as the native priests in Syria have the greatest fear and reverence for all European monks, and more particularly for those of his order—the others acting as they did. The woman—an old Italian, who keeps the small inn at Rahleh where Mr. Dod was living—remonstrated with them for treating her lodger as they did; but all she made by her move was to be beaten by them very severely.—They were then proceeding to eject Mr. Dod and his wife; but as the former did not wish to expose a lady to the hands of these fellows, he volunteered to move off of his own accord.

Mr. Dod, as a matter of course, could not allow the matter to drop. After taking his family to Dhamdoon, he came on to Beyrout and reported the case to Mr. Moore, the English consul general, who is acting as American consul, there having been no consul of the United States at Beyrout for sometime past. Mr. Moore has taken up the matter with great spirit, and through the Pacha of Beyrout has sent an order to Rahleh for the chief Shieks of the place to proceed to Dhamdoon and escort Mr. Dod back to their town, making them responsible that he will not be ill treated or molested for the future. To this the Shieks have agreed, urging that they had nothing whatever to do with the outrage, which was the work of the priests, and of them alone. But I question much whether the affair will be allowed to remain in statu quo. Brother Jonathan is not the man to allow his fellow-countrymen to be insulted with impunity. Mr. Moore has done all that he can in the matter: but I suspect the American minister at Constantinople will insist upon the ringleaders of this outrage being punished.—Daily News.

The Railway Conference, to which reference was made yesterday, adjourned to-day until Thursday next, July 15, to enable the President of the Erie Company to submit the propositions agreed upon, in his presence, by the other three lines, and which, we understand, have taken a form to meet, as nearly as may be, the views urged by Mr. Moran previous to the late disagreement. The officers present from the Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore Roads were ready yesterday to commit their several Companies to the proposed arrangement, but the President of the Erie declined to do so without advice from his Board of Directors, and the adjournment for a week was made to meet this suggestion.—New York Times.

WHEAT CROP IN VIRGINIA.—Half a crop of inferior wheat is reported in Caroline county. The same from Stafford. In King George, Westmoreland and the Northern Neck counties, generally; the accounts are gloomy. In Fairfax, Prince William and London there is a better yield than was thought there would be—but still some damage. In the Valley counties, generally, an average crop—in some of them still better. All over the State are counties here and there in which the harvest will be good—but for the most part the wheat has been more or less injured.—Alex. Gaz.

PYROTECHNICS NOT DOWN IN THE BILLS.—In Cincinnati, on Sunday evening, a boy of fourteen, fired, a rocket which, in ascending, knocked a loose brick from the corner of a church, and the brick in falling, struck the boy on the neck, cutting to the bone, but not doing fatal injury. Another individual, on the same evening, fired a Roman candle directly into a confectionery store was which filled with fireworks, setting the whole stock in a blaze, getting up a pyrotechnic display "not promised in the bills," and blowing the sweetmeats in all directions.

NEW YORK CITY TAX LIST.—The City Tax Levy for 1858 was reported to the Board of Supervisors yesterday. Reform is again postponed, and this year's taxes reach $8,470,741 31, which is $604,174 79 more than in 1857. The taxable valuation is increased by the Assessors from $620,559,482 in 1857, to $631,194,290, an advance of ten and a half millions.—Tribune.

ROBT. MCALLISTER, a well known pork dealer of St. Louis, committed suicide on Wednesday morning, in a fit of delirium tremens. He was found lying upon the floor, bathed in blood, with his neck nearly discovered, and a razor still in his hand. On Tuesday morn. Mrs. Catherine Shaefer killed herself in the same manner. She had been partially insane some time previous.

RUMOR is afloat, says the Paris correspondent of the Globe, that British diplomacy having exercised some pressure at Madrid as to measures of slave trade suppression around the coast of Cuba, Spain had applied to Napoleon III. for support against any compulsory proceedings on the part of the British cruisers, and had met encouragement in that quarter. The policy of France is decidedly in favor of a disguised but effectual complicity in the transportation of negroes, whether kidnapped or "voluntary emigrants," and a proof of a disinclination to suffer search of a leader in the Debats. The transfer or purchase of land there is now subject to a most iniquitous tax, the object of which is to prevent a small proprietary from growing up among the liberated blacks. Large estates and small patches of waste ground are liable to exactly the same fiscal obstacle, which is on a par with the duty levied at Civita Vecchia on "foreign liquors," a bottle of Champagne, or of prime Barclay and Perkins, being taxed nothing more nor less than a bottle of Warren's blacking.

The Constitutionel has a violent article upon Lord Malmesbury's explanations in the House of Lords touching the case of the Regina Catli. It says:

"The pretended slaves on board the Regina Catli were not slaves; they were men who had been free for a long time past; they were citizens of two republics, exported from the United States to Liberia, who had freely contracted engagements for our colonies, and who had no other motive in enrolling than thirst of blood and love of pillage. Need we add that it is false, entirely false, that irons or chains are to be found on board our vessels employed in the emigration trade? It is a pure invention. Everybody is aware that recruiting of Africans is effected under the active and able surveillance of French engineers, under the immediate control of the administration, which places an agent on board every vessel employed, and under the eyes of the surgeon who has a responsibility to protect. The positive accusations made in the House of Lords were therefore void of all pretext as of foundation."

The correspondent of the Globe remarks:—"The violent article of the Constitutionel against Lord Malmesbury's speech on the slave trade question, which was signed by the chief editor of the Constitutionel himself, has created not a little sensation. It is prophesied that this article is only the beginning of a series of attacks on the Government press of England, with which attacks on Austria are to go hand in hand. But such prophets of evil have lost much credit of late."

The Univers talks in the same violent strain: "While the Government of England recoils before that of Washington, and before the menacing speeches of Congress, it displays a desire to interfere in France, with the view of preventing the emigration of free blacks on the African coast. Our neighbors too readily forget that Paris is not Naples; and they will doubtless very soon learn not to forget this fact."

THE Laporte (Ind.) Times says that the Prairie Horse Guards of that place, at a public drill one day last week, indulged in the luxury of a "charge," made by one division of the company upon the other. In one of their evolutions, two horses came together, breaking the necks of each, and killing both animals instantly. The riders were thrown fifteen or twenty feet, one of whom—young Donnelly—was severely injured. His life was for a while despaired of, but he is now convalescent and will probably recover.

A Minister's Testimony.

HOGSTOWN, Beaver Co., Pa., Feb. 6th, 1856.

We prefer buying Boerhave's Holland Bitters for cash, to save the discount. Hope to send you soon a recommendation from our Minister, testifying to the curative powers.

(Signed,) MOODY & CAROTHERS.

INDIGESTION.

DARLINGTON, Montgomery Co., Md., Jan. 31, 1857.

I never felt the benefit of any medicine so much as from the bottle of Boerhaave's Holland Bitters I purchased last fall. I wish to know where I can get it without fear of imposition. (Signed,) JOSEPH C. DELLETT.

CAUTION!—Be careful to ask for Boerhave's Holland Bitters. The great popularity of this medicine has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing.
