Since writing the above, the Coroner has called upon us, in a very obliging manner, and stated that he had made a discovery subsequent to the inquest. We may add that the people in the neighborhood were quite troubled and excited about the matter, and the Coroner was obliged to see to the burial of the dead body, then in a horrible condition. A doffin was procured from the city, at d the Coroner staid behind us to see to the sepulture. Of course they were obliged to lift the body and place it in the coffin. In doing so, he discovered on the fore part of the head, and in the hair in a right line over the left eye, the builet hole through which the mesenger of death from the pistol had made its way. It appeared as if the bullet had been fired when the woman was down and had taken a dawnward direction into the cavity of the neck.

Lexinorox, Ky., July 10.—9 o'clock, a. m.—Jos. Beard, City Marshal, was brutally murdered this morning about four o'clock, while endeavoring to a fight in the market house. Barker stabled Beard, the knife entering the side, severing the lungs and entering the heart, tilling him instantly. The citizens were much excited. Barker was taken to the waith house, and thence to the jail. He was taken from the jail by the clitizons and marched to the court house window, and as X. m., Barker was awing off. The first rope broke and he foll to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, brusing his face considerably. He recovered in a few minutes and was again taken up to the window, another rope attached, and was then made to jump again from the window. He still hangs and will hang till 12 o'c'k.
