THE PEASANT REVOLT IN RUSSIA.—A letter from Brussels, July 8, says: "We have now received more accurate accounts of the outbreak of the peasantry in Esthonia, the importance of which can hardly be overrated, particularly on account of the neighborhood of that province to St. Petersburg. Serfdom proper was put an end to in Esthonia and in the rest of the Baltic provinces of Russia more than forty years ago under Alexander I. The present measures of emancipation do not affect the Esthonian peasant at all; but this seems only to have excited them the more, and what they now claim is free possession of the land which they at present hold on hereditary tenure from the nobility. The rising is general along the coast and has compelled the nobility to seek refuge in Revel. The engagement mentioned yesterday took place between part of the garrison of Revel and a body of peasants, about one thousand strong, who are reported to have had for their object to try and force the authorities to revolt. They as yet have no other arms than sticks and clubs, pitchforks and sharpened poles: but they are so excited that they were not afraid at all of the soldiery, whose numbers, it is true, were but small. The soldiers were soon overpowered by the large number of the peasants, and left altogether fifteen men, four officers among them, killed: while of the peasantry about forty may have been killed. The chief seat of the insurrectionary movement seems to be very near Reval itself; but even at Dorpat, which is situated at the northern part of Livonia, and which is likewise peopled by the Esthonian race, symptoms of an approaching outbreak have been observed."

MORPHY'S CHESS CHALLENGE TO ALL ENGLAND. The celebrated American chess player, Mr. Morphy, is now in London, and requests us to announce, in all courtesy and respect, that he is prepared to play any man living a match of chess for any sum from one hundred to one thousand pounds. The match to consist of twenty-one games, exclusive of draws; to be begun directly, and the money posted down. Mr. Morphy would like to commence at once, as he intends visiting Birmingham end of August, to play at the great chess gathering then and there to be holden. We believe Mr. Morphy's views as to desire to be gentleman-like and chesslike in every respect. He would object to playing in a private room, preferring to have his play looked over; he would leave the selection of the arena, we believe, to his opponent; but we do not bind ourselves to state more than an impression of his views. He would like to play daily—say from noon till the game be ended; but would, we hope, insist on some plan of regulating the time, which, without limiting the period really required by his opponent for the calculating his move, would prevent all shabby recourse to delay, such as sitting for hours over a single move when the king is in check and has but one square to go to. Mr. Morphy means chess, and nothing but chess.—Bell's Life in London, July 6.

"ME AND THE KING."—Did any of our readers ever observe particularly the Nota Bene to Wesley.—I have not, "going the rounds," a tiresome and laborious method of destroying those large weeds that are so apt to infest our lands, embracing the old
