Ms. BUCHAMAN AND FORMET'S "PRISE."—The Ballimore American has a very pleasant correspondent at Bedford Springs, who tells us how the President enjoys himself in his rural retires ment, what the great man does, ele. From the following extract, made from one of bis lettors it will be seen that the Philadelphin Fress is, (to use a court phrase.) "in diagrace," and that those who lave the President, or rather the patronage at his disposal, must henceforth eschew Forney and ignore the Press. How they the office-holder who figures in this piece of gossip must have felt, when the profered paper was refused, and the fast was pronounced sgainst it by Presidential lips! Poor fellow he was on the wrong scent that run. If, as the washington Gnion asys, it "is sgood thing to chanan office-holder in these perileus times. But to the extract:

CONSTITUTIONAL AMEXDMENTS.—We cannot sgree with our intelligent neighbor of the Jour-nal in the construction which he sees proper to give to the article in our State Constitution, in reference to the submission to the people of proposed amendments; and a "re-examination proposed amendments; and a "re-examination" proposed amendments; and a of the subject," we feel compelled to say, has the losses of peace and what should be prosperhad the effect to strengthen us in the opinion the losses of peace and what should be prosper which we have already expressed. our side of the question, and we are further fordified by the general opinion of a "fair pre-ponderance" of the legal mind of the common-wealth. The intention of the framers of, the constitution, in adopting this provision seems to us so manifest that we are surprised that there is any difference of opinion in regard to it. Let us take a brief roview of the sub-ject. When the present admirable mode of amending the constitution was proposed as a substitute for the old system of calling a con-vention, objection was urged that the legislature world be constantly distracted, the organio law itself would become a mere patch-work un-der incessant tinkering. To meet this objection, which was not without great force, as subse-quent experience has shown, this provision way incorporated in the constitution. Under tit yneni experience has shown, this provision a seat at the Presiden's table, and Mrs. Van-war incorporated in the constitution. Under its operation the people are in no danger of being misled by a multiplicity of proposed anced-ing between the two wings of the party, and is inspite ween the two wings of the party, and is the ioglalature with their consideration. It was evidently the design of the framers of the cour-fram what is called "tinkering" as they could "make it, without curtailing on the rights and "make it, without curtailing on the rights and provide search of the Course of the beauty of the massage of the Barsa of the feels thankful for the course he pursued that be feels thankful for the East the Union from tran what is called "dinkering" as they could that he feels thankful for the course he puread in securing the passage of the English compro-privileges of the people.
