with bonds, his organ says, and they will therefore give a corrupt decision.

The object of this is to provoke the decision which Mr. Williams desires—a decision against the county, out of which he hopes to make political capital. Instead of striving to save the county, he is doing his best to involve it, by provoking the judges into a decision against it.—
If the county loses, Mr. Williams hopes to gain by it. His whole efforts are therefore directed to the task of accomplishing the defeat of his olient, the county, that he may the better forward his own political interests. This is the secret of the attacks on the integrity of the Supreme Court in the True Preus & Union.
