Pittsburgh Gazette.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY S. RIDDLE & CO., FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD.

Contentment.

BY THE AUTOCRAT OF "THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

[From the Atlantic Monthly.]

"Man wants but little here below."

Little I ask; my wants are few;
I only wish a hut of stone,
(A very plain brown stone will do,)
That I may call my own;
And close at hand is such a one,
In yonder street that fronts the sun.

Plain food is quite enough for me;
Three courses are as good as ten;
If nature can subsist on three,
Thank Heaven for three. Amen!
I always thought cold victuals nice;
My choice would be vanilla-ice.

I care not much for gold or land;
Give me a mortgage here and there
Some good bank stock—some note of hand,
Or trifling railroad share;
I only ask that Fortune send
A little more than I shall spend.

Honors are silly toys, I know,
And titles are but empty names;
I would perhaps, be Plenipo—
But only near St. James.
I'm very sure I should not care
To fill our Gubernator's chair.

Jewels are baubles; 'tis a sin
To care for such unfruitful things;
One good-sized diamond in a pin—
Some, not so large, in rings—
A ruby, and a pearl, or so,
Will do for me; I laugh at show.

My dame should dress in cheap attire;
(Good, heavy silks are never dear;)
I own perhaps a neighbor's sire;
Some shawls of true Cashmere—
Some marrowy crapes of China silk,
Like wrinkled skins on scalded milk.

I would not have the horse I drive
So fast that folks must stop and stare:
An easy gait—two, forty-five—
Suits me; I do not care;
Perhaps for just a single spurt,
Some seconds less would do no hurt.

Of pictures, I should like to own
Titians and Raphaels three or four—
I love so much their style and tone—
One Turner, and no more,
(A landscape—Morning effect; golden dirt;
The sunshine painted with a squirt.)

Of books but few—some fifty score
For daily use, and bound for wear;
The rest upon an upper floor;
Some little luxury there
Of red morocco's gilded gleam,
And vellum rich as country cream.

Busts, cameos, gems—such things as these,
Which others value show for pride,
I value for their power to please,
And selfish churls deride;
One Stradivarius, I confess,
Two Meerchaums, I would fain possess.

Wealth's wasteful tricks I will not learn,
Nor ape the glittering upstart fool;
Shall not carved capers serve my turn,
But all must be of bull?
Give grasping pomp its double share—
I ask but one recumbent chair.

Thus humble let me live and die,
Nor long for Midas' golden touch:
If Heaven more generous gifts deny,
I shall not miss them much—
Too grateful for the blessings lent
Of simple tastes and mind content.

OLIVER CROMWELL'S HEAD.—A correspondent of the New York Express, who is now traveling in England, has seen the head of the Great Protector, of which he gives the following description.

Before leaving England I had an opportunity of seeing a great curiosity, a relic of antiquity, which few Englishmen have seen. You will be surprised, and perhaps incredulous, when I say I have seen the head of Oliver Cromwell—not the mere skull, but the head entire, and in a state of remarkable preservation. Its history is authentic, and there is a verbal and historical evidence to place the thing beyond cavil. Cromwell died at Hampton Court in 1658, giving the strongest evidence of his earnest religious convictions, and of the security as a christian.—After an imposing funeral pageant, the body having been embalmed, he was buried in Westminster Abbey. On the restoration of the Stuarts, it was taken up and hung Tyburn. Afterward his head was cut off, a pike driven up through the neck and skull and exposed on Westminster Hall. It remained there a long while, until, by some violence, the pike was broken and the head thrown down. It was picked up by a soldier and concealed, and afterward conveyed to some friend, who kept it carefully for years. Through a succession of families, which can easily be traced, it has come into the possession of the daughter of Hon. Mr. Wilkinson, ex member of Parliament from Buckingham and Bromley. It was at the residence of this gentleman that I saw the head, and his daughter, a lady of fine manners, and great culture, exhibited it to Rev. Mr. Verrell, the Pastor of the Bromley Dissenting Chapel, and myself.

This head of Cromwell is almost entire. The flesh is black and sunken, but the features are nearly perfect, the hair is still remaining, and even the large wart over one of the eyes—such being a distinctive mark on his face—is yet perfectly visible.

HON. HENRY D. FOSTER AND LECOMPTON.—Many of the good people of this Congressional District wish to know how the candidates for Congress stand on the Lecompton question. When inquiry is made respecting the Hon. John Covode, we are able to answer knowingly, that he is the strong opposer of the English-Lecompton-bribery-swindle.—That his vote stands recorded against it—that every vote he has cast upon the Kansas question has been on the side of right for the people, in settling their own affairs in their own way, and in opposition to the fraudulent attempt upon them by the executive influence of the National Government.

But how is it with Mr. Foster? Does he yet manfully, and boldly defend the position assumed by the Democracy of Westmoreland county on the subject? does he comeout publicly and fearlessly, and denounce the Lecompton swindle, and carry out the principlesso ably set forth by Mr. Stokes, in his speech on thatsubject? Or has his counsel with the President on his late visit to Bedford Springs sealed his lips upon this subject, above all others, in which this great nation is just now most deeply interested? The great question whether the pioneers who endure the privations of border life, and by their labor and enterprise, transform our new territories from the wilds of an unbroken wilderness to highly cultivated fields and gardens, and change the habitat of the savage to that of civilization and Christianity, shall have an odnoxious constitution forced upon them, or be allowed to choose for themselves whether they shall come into the Union with or without slavery? What has Mr. Foster to say on this engrossing subject? Will he stand up for the anti-Lecompton doctrines of the Democracy of Westmoreland county, or will he remain silent on the subject, that he may be supported by both Lecompton and anti-Lecompton Democrats?

What say ye, Mr. Foster? Are you Lecompton, or are you anti-Lecompton? The people wish to know; and it is but right that they should know.—Greensburg Herald.

A LETTER OF NELL GWYN'S.—The Nell Gwyn letter was sold on Tuesday last for thirteen pounds. An extract or two will amuse the reader. After telling her correspondent (Lawrence Hyde, the second son of the great Lord Chancellor) that she can "hold" no longer to let him know that she has "never been in company without drinking his health, for I love you with all my soule," she continues:—"The Felmell is to me now a dismale place since I have lost Sir Car Scrops, never to be recovered again, for he tould me he could not live always at this rate, and so begune to be a little uncivell, which I could not sufer from an ugly baux garscon. Lord Dorset spiers wonse in three months, for he drinks nill with Shadwell and Sir Harris at the Duke's house all day long.', After mentioning Lord Burford and Lord Beauclere, she concludes thus:—"We are agoing to supe with the King at Withall, and my Lady Harvie, the King remembers his marvis to you. Now lets talk of State Affaires, for we never discurrial things so cunningly as now, for we don't know whether we shall have piece or war, I'm for war and for no other reason but that you may come home. I have a thousand merry conceits, but I can't make her write um, and therefore you must take the will for the deed. Good-bye, your most loving obedient faithful & humbel Servant, E. G." Sir Car Scrope, or Scroop, was a poet and gallant; Shadwell is the well-known dramatist; Harris is the actor at the Duke's Theatre so often mentioned in "Pepys' Diary."—Illustrated London News.
