Wm. Larimer, jr., Pierce Brennan, and many others.

We have seen the signature of Mr. M'Elhinny to this call, and know it to be genuine. There is no escape for him from responsibility for that act. The subscription to the Steubenville Raility road was, in our view, the one of all the rest that had the least to justify it; and that one, it will be seen, had Mr. M'Elhinny's deliberate sanction. It is to him, therefore, and to his locofoco coadjutors on the anti-railroad ticket, that we have to look for the difficulty in which

The Philadelphia Press asks Republicans to vote for Hickman, Haskin and Montgomery, because they voted against Lecompton; but refuses to support E. Jor Morars, the only member of the Philadelphia delegation who voted against him. If, Forney cannot afford to support an Anti-Lecomption Republican, the Republicans are justified in running candidates against Hickman, Haskin and Montgomery.

the National Administration, but the old grudges
"Mewling and puking in its nurse's are were too strong, and like all first efforts in the same direction, it failed. The N. Y. Tribuns says:

"The attempt to combine the two parties represented at Syracuse in united effort against the abhorred measures and the corrupt and faithless mean of the Buchanan Democracy, appears to have failed. We regret this result, but are have failed. We regret this result, but are not-surprised at it. A little more expended with masses or to rlence seems to be necessary to the masses or to the leaders of the two parties. A combination of them is inevitable, but the time for it has not of them is inevitable, but the time for it has not yet arrived. But though the anticipated co-operation has thus been prevented so far as the State ticket is concerned, we trust it may yet be found practicable in the Congressional Districts, especially where the two parties acting separately are sure to be beaten by the common foe."
