JOHN M. READ.—On the 14th of July, last, John M. Read, of the city of Philadelphia, was unanimously nominated by the People's Convention, associated at Harrisburgh, for the office of Judge of the Supreme Court. The convention passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That the revenue necessary for a judicial and economical administration of the governments should be raised by the imposition of duties upon foreign imports, and in laying them such discriminating protection should be given as will secure the rights of free labor and American industry;" which resolution was approved by Mr. Read in his letter accepting the nomination.

Some weeks ago we received a letter from a friend in the interior, stating that it was asserted that Mr. Read had signed a letter to Mr. Dallas, congratulating him for having voted for the tariff of 1846. Since then the same assertion has been made in an editorial of the Lancaster Intelligencer, of the 21st inst., and in other papers, and we have been informed that secret circulars, conveying the same information, have been sent privately to the leading men in the State.

The files of the Pennsylvanian have been searched, and the following appear to be the facts:—On Tuesday, 28th July, 1846, Mr. Dallas, as Vice President, gave his casting vote in favor of the tariff of that year. On Wednesday, the 29th, a letter was written by Athanasius Ford, signed by him and a number of democratic citizens, to Mr. Dallas, approving his vote of the preceding day; to which Mr. Dallas replied, in a letter dated (Saturday) August 1st; which correspondence was published in the Pennsylvanian of Wednesday, August 5th. Amongst the signatures to the letter of the 29th of July the name of John M. Read does not appear, but there is the name of John F. Read, a respectable democratic citizen, who then resided in Chester street, in North Mulberry Ward, but who now resides at No. 240 Madison street and who approved the conduct of Mr. Dallas in giving his casting vote for the tariff of '46.

In addition to these facts we are authorized by Mr. John M. Read to say that he was not in the city of Philadelphia when the letter of the 29th of July, and the answer of Mr. Dallas of the 1st of August, were written; and that he never saw the original of the letter of the 29th of July, nor did he ever sign it, nor authorize anybody to sign it for him.

Mr. Carey furnishes us with the following: I have examined the Pennsylvanian of Wednesday, 5th August, 1846, and attached to the letter of 29th July, 1846, Mr. Dallas signed by Athanasius Ford and others. I find the name of John F. Read but not the name of John M. Read. —Phil. N. American. HENRY CAREY.

THE EPIDEMIC.—We are again disappointed in the weekly mortuary returns, having anticipated a decided decrease in the number of deaths by yellow fever, last week. It will be seen from our report that the mortality is very nearly equal to that of the week before. Nevertheless, there is a decrease; not very marked, it is true, but sufficiently to show that the disease has at last attained its culmination, and sufficiently encouraging in view of the fact that it is the first week which has exhibited any decline in yellow fever mortality since the appearance of the epidemic. We are, therefore, led to entertain sanguine hopes that the slight improvement now manifested will soon become decided and progressive, and that a few weeks, at farthest, will relieve us of the presence of the yellow fever, whose unwelcome visit has brought disease, and death, and grief, to so many heartstones.

The daily mortality for the week was as follows:

From Sunday, Sept. 12, at 6 A. M., to
Monday, Sept. 13, at 12 M		58
" 13, " 6 "		63

GOVERNMENT CREDIT.—Speculators in the late United States loan seem likely to be disappointed as regards the appetite of European capitalists for its purchase. The late steamers having brought very few orders to it. The cause of this may, perhaps, be found in the following facts, of which the money lenders of Europe appear to have a better recollection than our citizens.

The last years of General Jackson's administration were remarkable for the adoption of free trade theories, and a plethora of money in the Treasury.

Mr. Van Buren succeeded to an overflowing treasury, which he speedily reduced to a state of bankruptcy. He then enlarged the expenditures, while contracting the receipts—filling the vacuum thus created by millions of loans.

He retired from office, after having so effectually destroyed the credit of the country, that his successor was unable to effect a loan at any price, until after the passage of the tariff act of 1842.

President Pierce, like Gen. Jackson, left behind him an overflowing treasury.

Mr. Buchanan, like Mr. Van Buren, has dissipated all the money left by his predecessor. Like him, too, he has enlarged the expenditures, while the revenue has largely diminished. Like him, further, he has contracted heavy loans.—Like him, to the last, he will probably leave a treasury so utterly bankrupt, as to destroy the power to effect any loans, until after the passage of a protective tariff like that of 1842.

The coincidences, thus far are very striking. Need we wonder that foreign bankers have remarked them?—Phil. N. Amer.

A man who has been West, and been chased by an Indian, makes the following matter-of-fact observations to Lamberton, Iron Masters and Settlers in new countries, for sale at No. 310 Liberty St., Pittsburgh, Pa. W. W. WALLACE.

A Mich has been said by poets and romantic young ladies about the picturesque aspects, and the noble form of an unlassoed, untamable warrior of the prairie, and far be it from me to gainsay them. An Indian is a noble spectacle—in a picture, or at a safe distance—but when this noble spectacle is moving his moccasins in your direction, and you have to do some tall walking in order to keep the capillary substance on the summit of your cranium, all his "nobility" vanishes, and you see in him only a painted, greasy miscreant, who will, if you give him a chance, lift your hair with the same Christian spirit, compassed and mesmerized, with which he would ask another "spectacle" for a little more of that "baked dog." I used to think like the poets; now the sight of an Indian gives me a cramp in the stomach.

Mississippi Justice.—The Choctaw (Miss.) Herald gives an almost incredible account of a homicide in that vicinity. It appears that a Mr. A. V. Brown killed a man named James Pickens, mistaking him for Johnston Pickens, a brother of James, against whom he had a grudge. Brown, after doing the murder, fled, but soon came back, gave himself up, and was bailed. Johnston Pickens then went after Brown, found him, shot him with a double-barrelled gun, came upon him when he fell, took from his (Brown's) saddle-bows knife and revolver, and with the knife cut Brown's throat, with the pistol (if not also first) shot him in the head, killing him in the most foul manner. He left this self-acting in one of the wounds and then gave himself up to the law. He was tried and acquitted.
