New York Correspondence.

Conversation of Local Preachers—Dr. Stevens' New Work—House of Refuge on Randall's Island—Mayor Tinder—Stuyvesant Pear Tree—Rugian Frigate.

Editors of Pittsburgh Gazette: The great metropolitan city of New York is noted for being selected to hold important conventions and the anniversaries of mammoth religious and benevolent societies, that would seem impossible any new thing in that line could occur. But it even so.

Quite recently the anniversary of the "Local Preachers' Association of New York and Brooklyn," was celebrated with considerable eclat in the Allen Street Methodist Episcopal Church. The Association departed from their usual custom in observing this event. Instead of selecting the speakers from among their members, or of the Itinerant ministry in that city or neighborhood, they extended an invitation—pressing invitation—to all local preachers in the United States and Canadas, to come and participate in the anniversary exercises. In this invitation it was proposed, if the delegates from abroad deemed it proper, to hold a convention on the succeeding day. The anniversary exercises did not succeed on previous occasions before, but the convention was something new, and may be regarded as an era in the Methodist Church. Although there are over twelve hundred local or lay preachers in the United States, this was the first time they met in convention. The object will be named in another place.

These local preachers are not only called to exercise the functions of the regular travelling ministry, nor are they of the located pastorate, as in other denominations, but they are men engaged in professional and business pursuits. They are licensed to do a certain work in the church, such as organize mission appointments in the suburbs of cities, and supply pulpits in the absence or illness of the regular pastor. In the country, where circuits are found, consisting of several appointments, the local preachers assist the minister in charge, and are sometimes called helpers. This class of ministers perform a vast amount of labor, and rarely receive any compensation for their services. They are usually regarded as an important and useful ally to the travelling ministry, and are capable of wielding much influence with the lay membership. All the departments of professional and business pursuits furnish men for this work in the church. But to the Anniversary exercises—briefly.

The anniversary opened at 8½, A. M., with a love-feast (experience meeting) under the direction of Bishop Baker, who was en route for Perry, N. Y., to preside over the deliberations of the Genesee Conference, in the room of Bishop Simpson, who was unable on account of ill health to do so. The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. G. C. Roberts, M. D., of Baltimore. An hour and a half was spent in relating religious experience; during which time a large number from across abroad spoke. At 10, A. M., the annual sermon was preached by the Rev. Henry M. Harman, A. M.; one of the principal of the Light Street Institute, Baltimore, Md.; Rev. Henry M. Harman, A.
