CAPTURE OF HORACE BELL.—An affair transpired at New Albany on Saturday which has caused unusual excitement there. To give our readers a clear understanding of the case, we shall briefly re-capitulate some matters which occurred some months ago.

It will be remembered that last winter a negro slave was run off from Brandenburg by a free negro who resides in Indiana. The latter had been engaged in this nefarious practice for some time, and circumstances transpired which led to the discovery that a white family named Bell, who have a farm opposite Brandenburg, had been aiding and abetting it. In March last one of the sons of Bell was caught in Brandenburg and arrested, and subsequently the father was by stratagem, induced to go to the river one night and he was then also arrested by a posse of Kentuckians and taken across. The two Bells were brought before the county judge on a charge of running off negroes, and in default of giving bail in $5000, for their appearance at the circuit court were committed to jail. The next March term of the court was continued to a subsequent term. Whether the continuance was obtained on application of the Commonwealth or of defendants we know not.

Last summer, Horace Bell, who, it is stated, had been to Nicaragua, returned. In July last while a barbecue was held at Garrettsville which was attended by the jailor and most of the citizens of Brandenburg, Horace accompanied by two men, armed to the teeth, crossed in a skiff to Brandenburg, proceeded to the jail in which had been left in charge of the jailor's wife and a young man, and demanded the release of his father and brother. The young man fled at the appearance of a six shooter in Horace's hand, and the jailor's wife (who by the way is related to the Bells,) and was not gagged by the party as was reported,) surrendered the keys. The party then released the father and his son and took them back in their skiff to Indiana. Several citizens of Brandenburg got wind of it, and a number of shots were exchanged between them and the party crossing the river, but no one was hurt. The citizens of Brandenburg thereupon offered a reward of $500, for the delivery of Horace Bell to the jailor of that county. These are the circumstances in brief out of which grew the affair on Saturday.

Horace Bell has been attending the fair at New Albany, and it is stated was in this city one day last week. He has been in the habit of bragging of his prowess, saying that no Kentuckian could take him. The officers here heard of his presence in New Albany, and no doubt made efforts to capture him.

On Saturday while Horace was walking on Main street in New Albany, (most of the citizens being at the fair grounds) five men who are reported to have been officers from this city, though we do not know that they were, walked out of a grocery, seized hold of him, and carried him to the ferryboat, which it is alleged was waiting to bring them across. He was handcuffed in the jail in this city, and a felony warrant sworn out against him by the chief police.

At a quarter before 12 o'clock on Saturday night, Mr. Wolfe, Bell's attorney, called at the jail and procured his (B.'s) signature petitioning Judge Scott to issue a writ of habeas corpus, directed to the jailor, and chief of police, requiring them to bring Bell before him on Monday morning. Mr. Wolfe, after obtaining the signature, left for the Judge's residence, but before he could return, Officer Bligh came to the jail took the prisoner off, and we understand started with him for Brandenburg, accompanied by the chief and Officer Merrill. When Mr. Wolfe returned, he found Bell gone. Several citizens of New Albany were here and of course were informed of it. This was the last of it in this city.

At New Albany on Saturday evening, when the affair of Bell's forcible capture became known, a tremendous excitement was caused.—The fire bells were rung, and a large meeting was held. The ferryman who is supposed was privy to the affair, was arrested. Governor Willard was in the city, and our informant states that he promised to issue a requisition to the Governor of Kentucky for the men who captured Bell. Expresses were sent to Corydon to raise the people of the affair, and it is believed that parties started off from New Albany to rescue the prisoner from the officers.

P. S. Since the above, we learn that a party of about a hundred at New Albany had chartered the ferryboat Empire, and left on her about 2 o'clock yesterday for Brandenburg, with the avowed purpose of rescuing Bell. It is understood that an express was sent from here to Brandenburg to place the citizens on their guard against this hostile expedition.

We are also enabled to state that the ferryman had no agency whatever in securing Bell, but that after he had been taken aboard, his capturers compelled the ferrymen vi et armis to coast the boat from her moorings.—Lou. Jour.

THE Albany Evening Journal says:

An important case (Bank of Rome vs. Village of Rome) in regard to the liability of cities for subscription to Railroad enterprises, was decided at the recent term of the Court of appeals.

A railroad scheme was projected a few years ago in Rome—one of that swarm of Railroad schemes which sprung up like mushrooms and disappeared almost as suddenly. The village by a popular vote, subscribed for Stock and issued Bonds to pay for it. The railway was never built and the Stock proved worthless. Thereupon, the Village declined to pay interest on its Bonds The Bank of Rome, holding one of them, whom one of the coupons fell due, brought suit to compel payment. The defence was that the law authorizing the subscription and issue of Bonds is unconstitutional, on the double ground that the operation of the act was made to depend upon an appealing vote of the tax-payers of Rome, and that the legislature has not the power to authorize a municipal corporation to engage in the construction of a Railroad outside of its limits, or other industrial enterprise which may result in involving a burden on the property of its citizens against the will of a minority.

The act was sustained against both objections It was held not to be within the decision holding the Rome Railroad unconstitutional, because the question whether it should become a law was submitted to the whole body of electors. In this case the propriety of acting under the law—not the operation of the law itself—was submitted to a local constituency and was a matter of local concern. The other objection to the power by a plenary power of the legislature to authorize taxation for works of public utility which may be executed either directly or through the agency of the municipalities supposed to have a local and peculiar interest of the work.

THE ROOSTER PLANT.—We have been presented by Mr. G. De Forest, with two specimens of a marvelous production of nature, entitled the rooster flower. It is a flower neither bright nor gaudy, but still rich in its texture, singular in its formation, and wonderful in its resemblance to a chicken-cock, minus the head. It consists of a bulb, precisely the shape of a fat chicken's body with a gracefully curved spear, and a rich double leaf growing out of the lower end, the spear standing erect, and the leaf hanging in such a manner as to convey at once a striking resemblance to the bird from which it takes its name. The whole is of a pale green color, whilst all the fibres are marked on the surface in a delicate chocolate brown, with fancy interlacings and dots of the same color, the distribution of these markings being accommodated to the different structures of the bulb, spear and leaf, in the most beautiful and tasteful manner. Each would make a right pretty calico pattern. This plant, Mr. Forist informs us, is a native of the mountains of Cuba, and is with difficulty raised north of that Island. He has had considerable trouble to bring the plant to bloom in New Orleans, and is the only possessor of the plant in the United States. The rooster flower is certainly a great curiosity, and to those who admire the wonderous fine arts of nature, as developed in the floral kingdom, it will well with the speaker's making.—*N. O. FALL PASTURE.—October Butter.—We don't like to tell too many secrets; but when we say that October butter, rightly made, is the very best for winter use of the whole season, we know what we are talking about. We say "rightly made." And that is not simply in setting the milk, skimming off the cream, churning and working it, and then packing it down, but depends also on keeping the cow properly while yielding her milk for the purpose. Some have a notion that moving grounds should never be fall pastured. Such may be, or may not be. We assume, however, that, after the hay is carried off, and the meadow has la
