TOTAL PARTY AND THE ADDRESS AND THE ADDRES Iminary steps, had at length been convened. The collection of books, papers and historio records which had been collected by the old acciety were descreyed by the great fire of April 11, 1846, and it became us now to set on foot a society that might begin anew, as it were, and aid in contributing such memorials as they might be able to gather, for the use of the future historian. He was ready to listen to any suggestions.

These J. Bigham, Eq., of the Journal, stated that he had invited the Hon. James Veech, of Uniontown, who was ready to listen to any suggestions.

The South of the state of the Journal, stated that he had invited the Hon. James Veech, of Uniontown, who was a follows:

Monogoarthal House, Nov. 20, 1858.

Thos. J. Bigham, Eq., — Dear Sir. To stay for the senting to-night, to inaquerate a Wealter of the heart of the following in their rooms werey stole sough last night to sak my attendance—would keep me another day from home; and thave therefore to any lack of interest in the object of your meeting. On the courtary, I feel deeply, entousiastically and the stablishment of the Society and for its efficient eating socion until all the rich which Western Pennsylvania peculiarly abounds, shall be gathered up and garaered. I speak that which I do know and feel, when I say that we and our posterity have already lost much very much, by a too long neglect of this department of literary labor and research; and I do most sincerely hope that this effort to save what can yet be saved of our historical lore with which Western Pennsylvania peculiarly abounds, shall here certainly have already lost much very much, by a too long neglect of this department of literary labor and research; and I do most sincerely hope that this effort to save what can yet be saved of our historical lore with which Western Pennsylvania peculiarly abounds, that when the very much by a comple as factor and by a law for this infection and by a law for the second story, by seems of electron terry, and an export and and entirely and report of the second story, by seems of electron terry, and at a fature meeting to be held at the early and report of the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry to seem story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry, but the second story, by seems of electron terry by seems of electron ter lished here, the Colonel used to drink sie and beer to encourage home manufacture. The Judge went on to say that without the use of steam in locomotion no one can say what we could have done here. He remembered the time when an ear-propelled galloy landed at our wharf, six months out from New Orleans. Mr. Henry Shreve made the first improvement on this method of navigation, by substituting the rope and windlass and heaving the boas forward by attaching one end of the rope to a free. The next step was the introduction of steam. The first steamboat voyage from New Orleans to Louisville in 25 days was considered almost a miracle. Other interesting remarks were made by the Judge.

Ex-Governor Johnston having been called upon, said that he thought Western Pennrylvania had been grossly standared by the Philadelphia Society. He instanced the account of the Whisky Jusurrection in their last published volume, and remarked that although they doubtless will be contriced at once that they cannot do better in either of the cities.

After a very interesting session of more than two hours, the meeting adjourned to meet on Tabrisday evening, December the ninth.

Authority evening, December the ninth. CAPT. BIRMTROHAM is about retiring from the office of Prochamotary. We are not, politically, a friend of the gentleman above named, but we do say; nevirthelers, and believe, that he has been a thorough and careful officer, and that he has done his whole daty in that office conscientionally and saliafactory to all who have had business with him. The members of the Pittsburgh Bay have tendered Capt. B. a supper on the occasion of his retiracy, which he has declised, with due attestations of the high retiracy, which he has declised, with due attestations of the high retirada would have conferred upon him. It is rumored that the Captain is to be elected Warden of the Pennitential Pincrams was published from and troopey, as described in the state at great cost of time and troopey, as described in the state at great cost of time and troopey, as ine captain is to be elected Warden of the Pen-itentiary.

P. S.—Since writing the above we have re-ceived a copy of the correspondence between the bar and Mr. Birmiagham. We need not publish it. Saffice it to say that the entire har unite in extending to him the compliment which he very modestly declines.
