MESSES. EDITORS: In a former article we spoke of farming generally—crops, stock, and fruit. This morning, March 19th, looks a little squally for the fruit, the peach and early cherries are nearly in blown and would have been full blown in a few days if the warm weather had continued. The, fruit here is the subject of innumerable comies. Peach worm, apple tree borer, curculic, pear blight, are some of the difficulties we have to encounter. Their depredations are so strong and successful that they have a great tendency to disdourage the efforts of fruit are thuse that are the mest subject to attacks from their various enemies. Insects, worms not all that class of depredators are like another class of enemies—I mean the beham a species of operators. Last Saturday the steamers Landis and Baird arrived at this port from New Orleans, and the former had on board 642 bbls potatoes, and the other 185 bbls, all shipped from New Orleans to this place to find a market. The potatoes having spent the winter in the sunny South, are sent back to the North, to give them a little of their naive air, we suppose. About 3,000 bbls more are on the way from thence to this market, we understand.—Cin. Price Cur.

M o B A N E & A N J E R, CHECKER OR DRAFTSMEN.—Ebot was reported "drowned" out, and in others frozen out; and speculation in flour was stimulated by these reports, to no inconsiderable extend. It is rarely that wheat is winter killed, and it the strange that farmers should so dread that which experience shews but seldom takes place. From the time wheat "shoots" until it is out and saved from the action of the weather, is that in which it is in greatest danger, and in which the crop is injured, or destroyed, almost, whenever such is the case. whenever such is the case. The advices we have from the various sections of the country, leave no doubt in our minds that a large quantity of wheat has been sown, and that it looks well; and in point of growth, is a month earlier than it was at this season the last three years. From present appearances, a dry, cool May, will be absolutely necessary to mature the crop property, and with favorable weather during that month and June, a large wheat crop may be expected.
