This is the only way in which that question can be put beyond the reach of bad legislation. We have such a clause in the constitution of Pennsylvania, and in accordance with that clause we have the best-registry law of any State in the Union outside of New England. No one complains of its operation; and although frauds may be and have been committed under it, the law itself furnishes the means of their detection, and no fraud under it was ever ultimately successful if the means of detection and exposure were properly used.

A SICKLES CASE IN INDIA.—The Bombsy A SICKLES CASE IN INDIA.—The Bombsy Standard of December 24, relates what our nawspapers generally would now call, "a Sickles tragedy." A Mr. Bease, a newspaper publisher of Kurrachee, in the province of Scind, discovered his faithless wife walking with her paramour in the street, repaired to his house procured a double-barrelled gun, and deliberately shot both the delinquents. This was making short work of it.
