LICENSES - Several men who hold a license to of their labors. April, and have since been selling in new places, under the old license, were up in Court yester day. It was explicitly since by Judge M'Cluster and may, we think, as well be understood, that a license taken out to day for example to run one year, protects the seller for one year, in the place mentioned in the license or on the Clerk's record, but it protects him in selling no where thee.

Several, men who were brought to one year, protects the seller for one year, in the place mentioned in the license or on the Clerk's record, but it's protects him in selling no where else.

Several men who were brought before the bar of the Court yesterday for selling liquor without a license, put on a hold face and said they had license, seach as we have mentioned above) and plead not guilty. Judge M'Clure then stated the law in the matter and remarked that those gentlemen who plead not guilty, knowing that they had moved their quarters since they took out their license had better not wanto the time of the county, which was worth a dollar a minute and they would have to pay for it. Several of the muither wither pleas and ponied over the fine.

A Queer Case — Charles Necting, who keeps an Eating House in the Diamond, Allegheny, took out a new license. Now the law says that the license shalb be left for five days in the Clerk's office after the usual formalities are complied with. While the five days were tramping, Necting was taken up for selling without a license, for which he had paid, but which he could not obtain. The case was stated to Judge M'Clure, and at once discharged.

Advertisine of the Coirt selling in one between the cliense shall be left for the bar.

The Strakosch troupe opened in Lucia, last evening, to a large, fashionable and delighted audience. The signs of a successful season are favorable. There will be a very large house to-night. Mad. Coisoo, the queenly prims donn in La Traviata, is alone sufficient to attract a large house.

cinnati Gazetta has an article full of sound, practical sense, to the manufacturers of that bractical sense, to the manufacturing their city, on the advantages of advertising their business, and this, too, to men who, as compared with our manufacturing houses, spend five dollars to Pittaburgh's one. Our Cincinnati namesake gives an instance showing the advantage accruting, in the following: "During the last twelve years they have succeeded in making the name of their firm a household word in the West. Purchasers in their line, on visiting our city, although there were several establishments of the same kind, knew of no other place than to one referred to. The consequence naturally was that the proprietors were fast accumulating fortunes, when on an unblucky night, about three years since, the whole establishment, with they gears aince, the whole establishment, with they years aince, the whole establishment, with the years aince, the whole establishment is of the same kind, knew of no other place than the proprietors were fast accumulating the proprietors were fas

Mr. Guld—It is time that objections be raised to these attempts to prove the alleged adultery between the deceased and the prisoner's wife. If this is a link in the chain of proof that it is designed to establish, all such testimony as this cannot be received as evidence.

Mr. Brady contended that they had a right to prove that Key and Mrs. Sickles were having adulterous communication, and he would iteist that Key was killed in an act of adultery wishin the meaning of the law.

between the deceased and the prisoner's wife.

If this is a link in the chain of proof that it is cannot be received as evidence.

Mr. Brady contended that they had a right to prove that Key and Mr. Sickles were having adulterous communication, and he would inest that Key was tilled in an act of adultery wishin the meaning of the law.

Mr. Carlisle rejoined at some length. He contended that actual, not presumptive adultery, would alone reduce the act of killing from murder to manelaughter. It is not done at the very instant of the seeing of the crime committed, but after waiting till it is over the motive and revenge and the killing is murder.

This discussion continued until the hour of adjournment.
