PITTSBURGH:
MONDAY MORNING, MAY 2, 1859.

GOV. WISE ON BUCHANAN.—The letter of Gov. Wise to Gov. Hubbard, of Alabama, is very bitter upon the President. Gov. Wise, it is known, is an aspirant for the democratic nomination to the Presidency; and in this letter he goes the full length of the new Southern doctrine—a National Slave Code for the Territories. He says he is for protecting the South "from Abolitionists and Protectionists, and land jobbers and Treasury Robbers," and adds:

"And from the treachery of sons of her own, and for the folly of her sincere friends too, I mean to try to protect her, as I have tried of late in vain. I would protect her from the authors of Kansas-Nebraska bills; from the Freesoilism of Badger amendments; from the effects of repealing laws establishing and protecting Slavery in the Territories; from the false protection of non-intervention, withdrawing all pretensions to protect all persons and property equally alike on the common territory of joint settlement; from Lecompton policy that had not the wisdom even of Æsop's cock in the fable; from the compromise of English bills, which stripped us out of every particle of prestige we had left; from the wickedness of "force and fraud," and the folly of a minority attempting to establish a rule of fas aut nefas in the face of an unscrupulous majority."

Having thus committed himself against Douglas' favorite theory of "non-intervention," he proceeds to castigate the President, and without the least delicacy for the President's political antecedents, all his leading measures are badly stigmatized as "a full scheme of Federal policy, which, in its whole outline and filling up, exceeds any federalism, in all its points, which a Hamilton or Adams, or any other latitudinarian, ever dared to project or propose." This is only the summing up of the case, but it covers sufficient ground, considering the author to be the democratic Governor of Virginia. Nor does he stop short with this bull of excommunication. He plainly tells the country, in so many words, that "the President bids high" for the Charleston nomination, by pandering to the filibusters through Cuba, Nicaragua and Northern Mexico; to the west by a Pacific railroad; to the north by promises of protection on iron and coarse woolens; and to the great cities of commerce the power of centralization, through the uses and abuses of a bankrupt law, to be applied to State banks; and that the country as well as the administration is disgraced by the corruption and extravagance of the government. The Governor evidently thinks his best chance of rising is by mounting upon the prostrate body of Buchanan; and as the latter has, beyond doubt, treated him most scurvily, it is small blame to him if he does stamp a little fiercely upon his fallen foe.

THE RAILROAD FIGHT.—The Cleveland papers of Friday contain the following:

"The Cleveland and Erie Railroad have made another reduction in rates to the East. The following are the rates now in force via Dunkirk or Buffalo: Cleveland to New York, $8,00; Cleveland to Philadelphia, $6,00; Cleveland to Baltimore, $6,00."

"FARE REDUCED VIA PITTSBURGH AND PHILADELPHIA.—Fare to Boston $10,00; to New York, $8,00; to Philadelphia, $7,00; to Baltimore, $7,00. Time as quick as any other route. Tickets for sale at the Union office, in the Weddell House, also at the Depot, at the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad office."

There being two routes from Cleveland eastward, the rivalry is to see which can carry cheapest. We see it stated that, if necessary, the fare from Cleveland to New York will be put down to $3,00.

Here we have but one route eastward; and the difference is shown in the following rates, which we extract from a handbill recently issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.:

"Fare from Pittsburgh—To New York, $13,00; to Philadelphia, $10,00; to Baltimore, $9,50."

Cleveland is 150 miles north-west of Pittsburgh; and yet this road is taking passengers to Philadelphia and New York from there—a distance 150 miles greater—at $3 less than from here. The fare from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, to those unfortunate passengers who wish to pass only from one city to the other, is $4,25; but the company which carries at this price, carries in the same cars passengers for New York and Philadelphia at $1,75. The fare from here to Philadelphia, if the passenger should have the ill luck to buy his ticket in Pittsburgh, is $10; and the man paying this price will probably ride all the way beside one who has bought his ticket in Cleveland, and from whom the company will receive only $5,25! Thus the company carries two classes of passengers in the same cars, from one of which it exacts full rates and from the other of which it demands only half rates. The Clevelander can ride from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia for $5,25; the Pittsburgher must pay $10!

It would be useless to multiply words in exposing such injustice as this. The facts speak loudly enough.

There is but one way to remedy this injustice, and that is to send to Cleveland for tickets to Philadelphia and New York so long as this insanity prevails. The Pittsburgher who wants to go east will be a fool if he pays full rates when he can go for half price by sending to Cleveland for his ticket.

THE TEXAS OUTRAGE.—Our western exchanges all comment indignantly upon the outrage committed in Texas upon Bishop Janes and the Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North. It was one of those incidents which, in themselves, portray better than any language can, the wickedness of Slavery and its utter disregard of the rights of those who come in conflict with it. The Christian Advocate, of St. Louis, uses, in this connection, the following language:

"Has it come to this, that in our great, free and glorious country, a bishop of our church is to be arrested while conducting divine service, by a worthless mob of Border Ruffians, led on by the church south, and our ministers required to abandon their work?

This is not a question of mere Methodism or local interest. It is a question in which are involved the principles of civil and religious liberty. We assert and maintain the doctrine, that we have the right to go into any State or Territory, north or south, and preach the Gospel, and administer our Discipline, without "let or hindrance." We hope our brethren in Texas will stand by the church. They have our sympathy and prayers; we know what it is to pass through the fiery ordeal they are called to experience.

The conflict in reality is not with the citizens of Texas, but with the church south. That church is vanquished on the arena of fair argumentative conflicts. The decisive proof of this position is, she has to have recourse to physical force—pistols and bowie-knives. The church south, after this Bonham affair, cannot say, 'The weapons of our warfare are not carnal.'

We hope our brethren throughout the church will pray for the brethren on our border work. It is a trying time. Our trust is in God—the God of our fathers, the same God that sustained them during persecution and death, while engaged in planting our beloved Methodism in this land. This is the hour of suffering, but the day of triumph is not far distant."

THE COSHOCTON JAIL SET ON FIRE BY THE PRISONERS.—The Coshocton jail was set on fire on Monday night last. It seems that there are now five persons confined in the jail—Bell and White, for the Treasury robbery; Smalley, under sentence for life for rape and incest—and two young men of that place, very respectively connected, sentenced for ten days on a charge of getting on a spree and kicking up a riot. The plan of Bell, Smalley and White appears to have been to set fire to the jail, supposing that with these two fries. Young men in with them, upon the alarm o[ur]s, the Sheriff would not hesitate to open the door and hand buckets of water —when they would kn[ock] them down, rush out and escape. For this p[ur]pose they had broken an old split-bottom chair, and had its largest rounds ready to use as bludgeons. The Deputy Sheriff, however, did not open the door as expected, but rang the bell to alarm the neighborhood, and kept the prisoners secure until relief came. The fire was soon extinguished.

THE NATIONAL DEBTS OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE.—The amount of the English funded debt is £780,119,722, held by 268,995 persons, being an average of £3,000 each; the amount of the French debt is £336,833,863, held by 1,009,682 persons, being an average of £334 each. The amount of interest payable on the English debt is £27,411,895, giving an average dividend of £102 to each holder; the amount of the interest on the French debt is £12,435,280, giving an average dividend of £12 to each holder.

[Correspondence of the N.Y. Commercial Advertiser.]

LONDON, April 15, 1859.—It is of little use to write by the present mail, since the importance of any news it takes out must depend upon the revelations to be made in Parliament on Monday next, (the 18th), which were originally intended to have been furnished this evening.

It will suffice therefore to mention that the "tranquillising" assurance received from Paris, to counteract the effects of the recent announcement of the further movement of Austrian troops on Italy, were immediately followed by the usual fall and that French Rentes were quoted yesterday at nearly their lowest point.

Austria proposed a general disarmament as a positive condition that must precede the assembling of the contemplated Congress. This was so perfectly fair and rational, so thoroughly in accordance with the desires of the honest friends of peace in Europe, and France could not openly reject it. The course, therefore, was to accept it. "By all means," said the Pays, "no one can object to such a proper request. As for France it cannot effect her in any way. There will be no alteration in her conduct, because she has not armed and does not intend to arm." On this announcement there were few persons in England who failed to see that all probability of negotiation was at an end. If a man takes your watch from your pocket and holding it before your eyes triumphantly declares he has never touched it, there is an end to expostulation. All that can then be done is to adopt instant measures to protect what yet remains to you.

The belief is that the vigorous resolve of Austria to make preparations for striking the first blow, so as to defeat the Piedmontese before the French could join them, disconcerted the Emperor and caused him to redouble his efforts to induce an impression that he still desired an honorable adjustment, until the lapse of a week or two would enable him to meet this new movement. If Austria could thus be beguiled and induced to hesitate—well. If not France could proclaim to the world, "Behold, Austria has struck the first blow, at a moment when we were prepared to agree to everything that could promote an amicable solution. The sin be on her own head."

That the stroke of the policy thus resorted to produced in some degree the desired effect, was shown in the circumstance that Rothschilds immediately commenced buying largely, their purchase of various descriptions of securities—such as Consols, French Rentes, Lombardo-Venetian railway shares &c.—having on the afternoon of Tuesday last been to an amount ranging from half a million to a million sterling.

From the knowledge that the information of this house is usually extremely accurate, the operations in question led even the most incredulous to suppose a possibility of hostilities being averted might exist. Other persons, therefore, were induced to buy, and the market generally assumed the appearance of returning firmness.

Yesterday however came a check, such as has already been witnessed about fifty times since the last of January. A fresh decline of three quarters per cent. was telegraphed from Paris—reports were circulated that the Emperor was about to start immediately for the camp at Lyons, and the advices regarding the urgency with which preparations were being pushed forward, at all points were more abundant and serious than ever. This morning the signs are of still greater gravity. Austria, it is declared, has firmly refused to join the Congress unless a simultaneous disarmament is previously consented to.

The wise firmness thus exhibited must be expected to bring matters to a crisis. France must meet it by something better than open falsehood. She will still it is thought, make every struggle to mask her purposes if she can even gain a week or two by so doing, and the aid of Lord Malmesbury and Mr. Disraeli will doubtless be invoked for the purpose. The Marquis D'Azeglio is at this moment on his way to London, on a special mission from Turin, to assist, it may be inferred, in some scheme of that description. That he will momentarily succeed is not considered improbable, and a general fear prevails that before the question is resolved, from its present stage, our Ministers will allow themselves to be duped into some complication that may greatly embarrass this country in its desire to exercise a salutary and independent influence.

Meanwhile there are considerable symptoms of the extent to which the dangers that surround us are perceived. The dock yards are active night and day, artillery is being despatched to all our home stations, the fortifications of the coast are carefully strengthened, and troops and guns have been sent to the Channel islands. In the House of Commons, the first Lord of the Admiralty has stated that he could not permit Sir Richard Dundas to retire, as he had wished, from the Admiralty Board, information having reached him within the past few days to render it most undesirable that the country should lose for a moment the naval experience of that officer. In the House of Peers, Lord Ellenborough, last night, uttered a wish that we had 10,000 of our courageous Indian troops at home, in order to support our plenipotentiary at the coming Congress.

Still the probability is that the next steamer may carry to you news of some fresh patch-up. If the Emperor Napoleon desires a further delay of a week, a fortnight, or even a month or two, he is pretty sure to get it, because he will not scruple to make whatever assurances may be requisite for that purpose.

Consuls at the last date were quoted at 95¼. They have since touched 94¾, and have closed this evening at 95.

THE SOILED LINEN OF THE UNITED STATES.—We perceive that some of the English journals have reproduced the account of "The Great Slave Auction in Georgia," which was so conspicuously paraded in the columns of our Republican papers some time ago. We are much given in this country to washing our dirty linen before the public, and some of our Republican organs always take care that the unsavory operation shall not escape the eyes of the entire world.—Herald.

Aha! are you there? Slave auctions are "dirty linen," are they? Then why have you so persistently and profitably contended for a quarter of a century that they are perfectly right and proper—that negroes were made to be sold and worked up as slaves in cotton and rice-fields, and are otherwise worthless nuisances? "Dirty linen," is it? Who more than you has argued and insisted that it should be kept dirty forever? And when the only sort of washing you will allow it is that of a Slave Auction, why should you complain of the exposure? Is it not worth something that our report has served to make even you ashamed of the giant iniquity you yet steadily uphold?—N. Y. Trib.

THE New York Herald thinks that there should be two Democratic conventions for the nomination of President. The place of the convention is fixed, Charleston; the time has not been agreed upon. The Herald thinks that a convention later than May may be fatal to some of the members, as the sickness often commences in June; and is evidently apprehensive that a nomination at so early a date would be fatal to the candidate. So it proposes that the first convention should be held in May to agree upon the platform, and the second, at some future time, to agree upon the candidate. Any way you please, gentlemen.—Prov. Jour.

SIR JAMES GRAHAM, in a recent speech in Parliament, arguing that the bulk of the taxation was paid by the working classes, he said that the duties on six articles, sugar, tea, coffee, malt, tobacco and spirits nearly covered the interest on the national debt. This is a remarkable fact, and the more so as none of the articles named are positively necessaries, and half of them are injurious luxuries. If the people of England would give up the last three, they might place themselves in a condition to pay the principal of the national debt. We would not, however, advise that any calculation be made upon the extinction of the national debt by these means.—Prov. Jour.

NOTHING has been done toward a settlement of the railroad war, although some negotiations have been going on, with but slight promise of success. A Committee of the Central Board were recently in town, by invitation, and met a Committee of Erie Board, at which meeting terms were agreed upon by which rates were to be advanced, cattle receipts stocked, &c.; but the agreement was rejected by the Erie Board, principally, we understand, in consequence of the opposition of President Moran. Consequently, the competition is now an open fight, and business is done by the roads upon the best terms they can obtain.—N. Y. Trib.

WE had heavy rains, followed by snow and a killing frost on Saturday night last. The streams have been higher than for many years, and considerable damage has been done to the Railroad, along Redstone creek, below this town, and along Shute's run. In some places where these streams have been turned into new channels, the cut-off not being sufficiently wide to contain the accumulated waters, they have in some instances, swept away the embankment, and to same extent, have re-opened the former channels.—Uniontown (Pa.) Standard.

LATEST FROM SAULT RIVER.—The Detroit Advertiser learns from Capt. Abeel, who left the Detour on the tug Bruce on Sunday last at 5 o'clock P. M., that the ice still retains its solidity, and is as yet from eighteen inches to two feet thick. The weather still remains exceedingly cold. On Thursday night the still water below the ice froze entirely over, this not even thawing out until an east wind and day or two after broke it up. People were coming down from the Sault all the way on ice in sleighs.—Cleve. Her.

ILLNESS OF HON. LINN BOYD.—The Tuscumbia Alabamian learns by a private letter to a gentleman in that office, that the Hon. Linn Boyd is afflicted with diabetes, and rapidly sinking under the disease. He commenced the canvass as Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, but it is thought will be compelled to decline. He represented the First District of Kentucky in Congress for sixteen consecutive years—to 1857 occupying the Speaker's Chair in that body. His residence is near Paducah, at the mouth of the Tennessee river.

LUMBER.—The rapid melting of the snow of last Saturday has produced a fine rafting freshet in the West Branch and its tributaries, and during the past two days quite a number of rafts have passed down the River. The price of lumber being good this spring, and the supply falling short of the demand, has had the effect of infusing new life into the business, and it is estimated that about 150 rafts have been constructed and will be run to market on the present rise.—Clearfield Raftsman.

THE Detroit Free Press states that a young emigrant for Pike's Peak, who put up at a hotel in that city, a few days since, was found to be a girl of eighteen or nineteen, who had run away from her home in Canada. She had procured money to pay her fare to the mines, and taken a suit of her brother's clothes, but she had no idea of the distance nor of the dangers and hardships she would have to encounter. She consented to return to her parents. Her story smacks of the long bow, but it may be true.

THE Buffalo Commercial Advertiser states that the general belief among buyers and speculators in wool appears to be that the new clip in New York and Iowa will be light, a large proportion of the sheep of these two States having died during the past winter. Such an opinion is very generally entertained among the dealers.

HOW TO KNOW A REPUBLICAN.—The editor of an Illinois paper, writing a private letter to a friend, says: "We are Republicans—of course. Everybody who fears the Lord and writes a legible hand, without running out his tongue, is a Republican."

MRS. JULIA BRANCH, who won some notoriety by a Free-Love speech at the Rutland Convention, last summer, was married in Connecticut last week to a New York reporter, said to be some years her junior. The bride has buried two husbands.

BOERHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS.—FEMALES SUFFERING WITH NAUSEA AND DEBILITY.—A Tonic Stimulant, suitable to those peculiar periods in the life of every female, more particularly every mother, has long been a desideratum in the medical world: something to be relied on as a necessary component of every well-furnished Family Medicine Chest, which, at those seasons, recourses may be had, with the confidence of finding relief from the nausea, and restoration of strength, with perfect fearlessness of any ill consequences, yet without having taken a medicine possessing antagonistic principles, to render dangerous another medicine, should it be subsequently required by the peculiarity of the disease.

All these conditions we believe to be perfectly fulfilled in Boerhave's Holland Bitters. From the nature of the diseases hereafter alluded to, we have not thought proper to parade the names of those ladies who have unhesitatingly afforded us the evidence of the truth of the assertions we here make—but all and every word can be substantiated to the satisfaction of the most incredulous.

We offer one of the most sure and certain remedies for this class of afflictions, and all those, whether peculiar to the sex or not, which result from weakness of any particular organ, or general debility of the system. Its effects are almost magical, yet the cure radical. It communicates no violent shock to the system, but gently insinuating itself through the whole frame, rouses the vital energy to normal action, and while enabling nature to throw off the cause, it thoroughly eradicates the effects of disease.

Are you nauseated in early morning, indisposed to rise?—We earnestly request you to try the half of a teaspoonful—It surely will not harm. Yet we positively guarantee new energy, and a cheerful, hopeful feeling forward to the duties of the day.

Are you subject to nausea before or after eating? Try the same quantity before each meal. As we said before, it will not harm: yet we assure you of relief from that distressing loathing at the thought of food, and also from the disposition to vomit after partaking. We promise perfect digestion of what has been eaten.

If you find that the dose prescribed has been too great, diminish the quantity to suit your constitution.

READ CAREFUL.—The Genuine highly Concentrated Boerhave's Holland Bitters is put up in half pint bottles only, and retailed at $1 per bottle. The great demand for this truly Celebrated Medicine has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Beware of imposition! See that our name is on the label of every bottle you buy.

The Perfection of Dental Art.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH WITH PLATES OF PORCELAIN AND CORALITE.

DR. N. STEBBINS having opened an office in Fifth street, is prepared to manufacture and insert teeth of the above description.

In introducing these new and improved styles of Dental Work to the citizens of Pittsburgh, Dr. S. feels assured that they will meet the same favorable reception which has been accorded to them in New York and other localities where they have been tested; and he furthermore believes that they are destined to supercede, as they certainly excel all other styles in LIGHTNESS, DURABILITY, BEAUTY and PURITY, and in every quality which renders Artificial Teeth desirable, and are at the same time much less expensive.

Specimens of this work may be seen at his office, No. 191 PENN STREET, NEAR ST. CLAIR.
