Deadley Vicars.
BY JOHN R. HOLMES.

I have not read
It must miss more grandiosely good—
Mid's earnest in pursuit of glory!—
More blameless is a most heroic soul—
More eloquent the manner of his telling—
Than was this Man's. He became in whom
The soldier's courage took the form of love;
And, for his friend, as sure as day is light,
Descended from the ships, that blessed ray,
Undivided, and but unknown as by a charm
Set still blood of noble athletes.
Thus rendering him at once a paragon
Among whom love hath call'd exalted men
Does it not dwell on such a life as this
Against which against hath no way to strike—
Is calm in goodness—so unbending still
Among the blazing battle's dreadful jar,
In every gathering danger and alarm
Possessing fortitude beyond romance,
Beyond all question glorious,
I feel that only now and then such stars
Flash on the dark completion of this world

[For the Daily Pittsburgh Gazette.]
The Parting.
BY C. H. LIGHTNER.

Fare thee well, and if forever,
Still forever fare thee well!—Byron

'Tis for ever o'er the magic spell is broken,
That bound me madly to thy shrine
Love's arrows are over, take again this token,
Thou gav'st in days I calls I thee mine.
My blissful dreams have vanished, wild as a Poet's dreams, they were.
And my once bright Future darkened
Cost or Levant

Other forms may love before thee, other hands be deck thy brow.
Other hearts may still adore thee, other lips thy praises tell
Other thy Eyren charms, may vanquish charms no longer for me now;
And you whisper at our parting, my only fault I love too well.
Yet I'll think of thee, oh often of the the cottage by the rill.
Of the flowers by the wildwood, of the bower on the hill.

Pittsburgh, May 18th.

FROM LAKE SUPERIOR.—The fine screw steamer Iron City, Capt. Turner, arrived in port Saturday morning from Ontonagon.

She brought down 114 bbls. copper weighing 82,425 pounds from the Central mine; and 222 masses weighing 256 015 lbs. and 313 bbls weighing 278,260 lbs. from the Cliff mine.

National mine have about a hundred tons of mass and barrel copper at Ontonagon ready for shipment, and about 100 tons at the mine on the surface, but the roads have been so bad they could not get it down to the "mouth." It is supposed that this mine is one of the richest on Lake Superior. In one of the shafts, sunk in what is known as the disputed territory, there is a mass of copper, and what is already exposed of its estimated weight 200 tons. The other two shafts sinking close by to the same territory are rich in mass copper.

The Rockland is doing well. Capt. Jenulage says he will get out 60 tons per month for the next six months

Toltec has done well this winter

The Mass mine has been worked on tribute during the winter. They have 50 tons at the mouth ready for shipment

The Ogima mine has done very well. W W Spalding says that he has ready for shipment from that mine 35 tons of mass and barrel copper

The Adventurer has 60 tons at the mine ready to send down when the roads improve.

At the Cliff and Minnesota mines the yield is not as large as formerly. The Cliff has about 700 tons ready for shipment from the dock at Eagle River, and a large amount which has accumulated on the locations. The average yield last year was 136 tons per month. About 500 men are at work there now.

The mines at Eagle Harbor never looked better. The Copper Falls are working 150 men. They are now sinking in the sub belt or belt of Copper bearing rock, running east and west.

The back yields about 2 p c of Copper and the supply may be considered inexhaustible.—Ball's stamps are now in operation and kept going night and day. The North West have also this Belt of Copper bearing rock running east and west. They are to put up 48 head of Stamps in addition as soon as possible, which, when working 24 hours per day, will produce about 20 tons copper per month. The Central has got out and ready for shipment 70 tons of mass and Barrel Work this winter. It is looking well at present, and working about 75 men. The Connecticut also looks well and will have about 30 tons of Copper to ship this Spring.—Clev. Leader

PARLOUS BALLOON ADVENTURE.—The New Orleans Picayune, of the 3d, has an account of the aerial voyage of Miss Way and Professor Wilson, who left New Orleans in the balloon "Paul Morphy." It says:—The voyagers, after reaching the height of 13,000 feet, descended until they found a favorable current of air to go northeast, as they desired to reach Jackson, Miss. They crossed the lake in half an hour, in the direction of Covington, enjoying the sight of the waves rippling its surface, with the white foam dimly visible through the veil of night; sailed over the pine woods, where several fires afforded them a grand spectacle, and were conversing about the magnificence of what they had seen, when their course was suddenly checked. They had come down too low, and their anchor had got caught in a tall pine tree. The balloon got entangled in the trees, and the two adventurers had to remain all night, suspended at some forty feet above the earth, and not able to see enough to descend, on account of the darkness. Finally, when day came, Miss Way let herself down by the aid of a rope, and went for help. She reached Dr. McQueen's house, about half a mile off, and with his assistance the balloon was got down safe. They then found that they had landed in Pike county, Miss., one hundred and thirty miles from New Orleans.

THE SICKLES JURY.—They had two large rooms on the first floor of the National Hotel, on the side next to Sixth street, in which they took their meals and lodged. They were in charge of two officers. We were staying at the National the last three days of the trial. One morning, about eight o'clock, we were going to the barber's shop, which was next to the room occupied by the jury, our ears were saluted with the sound of a violin, and we heard the tramp of men as if marching in quick step. The door of the room whence those sounds came was opened, and a colored boy was looking in and laughing; we went forward and looked in also, and there we saw about a dozen men marching in single file around the room, in front of whom was a man playing the violin, another who had command was giving orders "file left," "file right," "forward, march," &c. Finally they marched into the adjoining room and took seats at a table on which breakfast was spread. We asked the colored lad if they were soldiers, and if this was a recruiting station. "Lord no, massa," was the answer, "dem am de Sicklesjury."—Boston Atlas and Bee.

THE HUDSON BAY COMPANY.—This large Corporation which has so long controlled the Trade with the Indians, on the Northwestern frontier, will be shorn of its ancient privileges in that region within the coming month. It is, like its prototype, the East India Company, an institution of the past—indispensable, perhaps, in the early stages of commerce—but rendered superfluous and irksome by the growth and development of individual enterprise. The English Government, wisely conforming to popular necessities, abrogates the privileges, first of the one, and then of the other, of these Corporations which had come down to us almost unaltered since the days of King Charles the Second.

The Indians of the Northwest will be sufferers probably, by the change. The Bay Company has furnished them with steady and profitable employment as trappers; has, in some measure, civilized them; has compelled them to peaceful pursuits, and has excluded the temptations and destruction which seem to follow in the wake of unrestrained traffic with white men. With the opening of the Indian trade to everybody, rivalries, quarrels, rum and cheating will probably ensue, as they have among our own Indian Tribes at the West.

The United States, however, will be largely the gainers by the abrogation of the Bay Company's sway. It will open to the emigrant, the miner, the trapper, the fisherman, broad tracts from which they are now excluded. It will create new communities, who must buy and sell in our markets, and competition will probably reduce the price of furs, &c., below the points at which the monopoly has long held them.—Alb. Eve. Journal.

SHAKESPEARE ON AUSTRIA.—If this war does nothing but crush out Austria, the most brutal, stupid, despotic, bigoted monarchy in Europe, it will pay. In an article giving an account of her resources the Boston Transcript quotes what Lady Constance says of that country in Shakespeare's "King John:"

"O Austria thou dost shame
That bloody spoil. Thou slave, thou wretch, thou coward;
Thou little valiant, great in villainy!
Thou ever strong upon the stronger side
Thou fortune's champion, thou dost never fight
But when her humorous ladyship is by
To teach thee safety! Thou art perfect too,
And scruth'st up greatness. What a fool art thou,
A ramping fool, to brag, and stamp, and swear,
Upon my party! Thou cold-blooded slave,
Hast thou not spoke like thunder on my side?
Been sworn my soldier? bidding me to depend
Upon thy stars, thy fortune and thy strength?
And dost thou now fall over to my foes
Thou wear a lion's hide! Doff it for shame,
And hang a calf-skin on those recreant limbs!

A SIDE HILL NOT REAL ESTATE.—A tax-payer in Cincinnati objects to being assessed upon side-hill property, upon the ground that it is not "real estate," within the meaning of the law. He claims that it is moveable property, as during the recent rains, some half acre or less made its way into the river, and contends that if a mortgage will not hold it, the side hill should not be taxed.
