The War in Italy.

OFFICIAL DIARY OF OPERATIONS.—Tuesday, May 3—A. M.—About 15,000 Austrians arrived on Sunday evening at Sannazzaro. General Schwartzenburg passed the night at Lomello. A heavy requisition was made at Mede; the Syndic had his hands tied, and was conducted to the head-quarters, for having been unable to deliver in time all the provisions required. The valley of the Scrivia is strongly occupied by the French.

Tuesday, May 3—P. M.—The Austrians have crossed a branch of the Po at Cambio, and have also attempted to throw a bridge across the Sesia, but the swelling of the waters prevented them. Wherever they pass they exact heavy requisitions, threatening pillage and fire, and the penalty of five times the value of the provisions required. No news from the Vercelli side. Our troops continue to occupy their positions, together with the French troops.

Wednesday, May 4—A. M.—Last night the Austrians were constructing bridges over the arms of the Po, one of which is called the Tanaro, being the old bed of that river. Bridges are being built on the high road leading from Tortona to Alessandria. Yesterday 150 Austrians crossed the Sesia at Caresanan, and advanced to Villanova, near Casale, where they stopped a few hours, and then recrossed the Sesia river. Towards evening a picket arrived at Terranova, and exacted a heavy requisition of provisions and carts. French troops and war materials continue to pass through Turin, and to arrive at Susa.

Wednesday, May 4—P. M.—The Austrians, who had crossed the Po in small numbers at Cambio, and pushed their vanguard as far as Sale, have recrossed the river.

The Austrian division posted on the right bank still threaten to attempt the passage of the Po at Frassinetto, but the river which is much swollen by the rains, would at present offer a difficult obstacle to their crossing.

The rain continues to fall, and the low grounds are covered with water.

Friday, May 6.—The Austrians have increased their forces at Vercelli, and have constructed their defensive works. They have also occupied Trino and Pobbietto. Their vanguard is at Tronzano. During last night the enemy withdrew from Tortona.

Yesterday evening they burnt seven arches of the bridge over the Scrivia. At Piacenza they have ordered the demolition of houses erected upon the fortifications.

Saturday, May 7.—General Della Marmora has made the River Dora his strategical line.

The enemy has made no move of any importance.

Sunday, May 8.—The Austrians continue to commit ravage and depredations along their line of march. They have imposed on the town of Vercelli a contribution of 300,000 f.

The council of war at Bielsa has ordered an Austrian spy to be shot.

The Austrians have finally evacuated Voghera and after recrossing the Po at Gergia, (?) remained in the wood on the left bank of the river. The Austrians who were at Vercelli directed their march this morning towards Gattinara, under the command of one of their Generals and have been replaced at Vercelli by other troops. The Austrians are endeavoring to fortify their position on the Sesia.

The attempt to cross the Po at Frassinetto took place on the 3d. The Austrians opened fire at 3 P. M. and kept it up during the day, until 8 at night. They commenced again on the 4th. Some of our men were wounded.

The Austrians are 1,000 strong at Castelnuovo

Monday, May 9.—The Austrians have advanced from Vercelli towards Buronzo and Saluzzolo They continue to fortify themselves on both banks of the River Sesia, and also at San Germano. The Austrians threw out reconnitering parties, which advanced as far as the head of the bridge of Casale, but finding attacked with energy by our soldiers they withdrew

The enemy, to the number of 2,000, after occupying Biela for a short time, withdrew.

Austrian reconnoitering parties had advanced to Ferrera, but seeing preparations for defence withdrew.

The command of the troops for the defence of Turin has been given to General Sonnaz

Tuesday, May 10.—The Austrians withdrew yesterday from Tronzano along the road to Vercelli, to which town they were going with a force of 9,000 men and 26 pieces of artillery. An ineffectual attempt was made to construct a bridge over the Po. Several carts carrying wounded Austrians have returned to Gravellona, where the invaders continues the defensive works.

Thursday, May 10.—The Austrian army had taken up its positions between the Po and Sesia, to await better weather before renewing offensive measures

Austrian troops have destroyed the railway bridge at Valenza.

Turin, Tuesday, May 10.—The enemy evacuated Livorno, Tronzano, Santhia, Casaglia, Saluzzolo, and Vercelli, and recrossed the Sesia in great haste, leaving part of the forage, &c., which they had demanded, behind them. Yesterday a strong Austrian column, with four Generals, was at Stroppiana. This morning they withdrew hastily from Pezzano and Stroppiana

The Austrians continue to pillage and burn the villages on their line of march.

Austrian Movements.

(Correspondence of The London Times.)

PARIS, Monday, May 9—6 P. M.—The junction of the Austrians has surprised every one after their peremptory summons to Piedmont. A French General writes that they seem to have recklessly thrown away all their advantages. They were first on the ground, before the French had yet moved the support of their allies, and to make that support efficient, troops have had to be sent in hot haste from every available quarter. The priority in time, of which they do not seem to have made much use, is more than counterbalanced by the rapidity with which the French are swarming to the theatre of war. The artificial inundations, they must, from their knowledge of the country, have been prepared for; and the floods caused by the heavy rains, as well as all other accidents of the seasons, ought to enter into the calculations of the commander of an army which is about to manœuver against an enemy. No strange is this inertness, even to novices in warlike operations, as to give rise to the suspicion that the apparently retrograde movements, as mentioned in the Moniteur, cover some deep strategic plans slowly developed and which are not obvious to people at such a distance as we are from the scene of operations. I have heard military men express their astonishment—the same who believed that the Austrians had, by their being first on the field, the opportunity of attacking the Piedmontese before their auxiliaries came up, beating them, and then taking up a strong position, awaiting the French. The official bulletins from Turin of the 8th inform us that the Austrians have advanced from Vercelli on Buronzo and Saluzzola, and that they continue to fortify themselves on both banks of the Sesia and at San Germano; that a reconnoissance was carried on the tete du pont of Casale, where they were attacked by the Piedmontese, and retired. Private accounts of the 7th from the seat of war state that the Austrians, finding the banks of the Po too swampy for their operations, have recrossed the river, and are moving on Turin. They add that the French Generals earnestly desire to see them advance on that city, as in that case they express their confidence that the combined armies will give a good account of them. Another, and a private dispatch, seems to corroborate the fact of a movement on Turin. We are so far from the seat of war, and the information allowed to transpire is of so meager a kind when there is any information, that we cannot give an opinion on what passes just now on the banks of the Ticino or the Po.

A Vienna letter of the 1st says:

"It seems now to be understood that the troops who crossed the Ticino in three corps on the 29th ult., will be in sufficient to give battle with any chance of success to the combined armies of France and Piedmont. Orders have therefore been sent from Vienna to advance into the Sardinian territory another corps of 50,000 men, now concentrated round Pavia. They will be replaced in their positions by troops drawn from Bohemia and Hungary, the first portion of which will be sent off to-morrow by the Southern Railway. The military authorities reckon that the last levy ordered to be made throughout the empire will bring out about 100,000 men. They will be sent to the depots in Hungary and Bohemia. In those two extensive divisions of the empire there are now only six or seven Italian regiments, which were sent there in March. These regiments appear to be intended, with those of Hungarian origin, to be formed into brigades in three federal contingents, which Austria must place at the disposal of the Germanic Confederation. Orders have been given to the Austrian Lloyd's to suspend the navigation of its numerous steamers in foreign waters. It is said that the Government intends to arm a certain number of these steamers with cannon, and to employ them in defense of the coasts of the Adriatic."

A MANIFESTO FROM GARIBALDI.—The Gazette de Liege publishes the following document. It purports to be a set of instructions addressed by Garibaldi to the chiefs of the "National Society of Italy" in the different Italian States:

"To the National Society of Italy:

"In the present state of Italian affairs the President considers it his duty to transmit to the Society the following secret instructions:

"1. No sooner have hostilities commenced between Piedmont and Austria than you will at once rise in insurrection to the cry of 'Viva il Italia e Vittorio Emanuele—Out with the Austrians!'

"2. If insurrection should be impossible in your own town, all young men able to bear arms will leave it, and proceed to the nearest town where insurrection has been already successful or is likely to be so. Among neighboring towns you will choose those nearest to Piedmont, where all Italian forces should be concentrated.

"3. You will make every effort to vanquish and disorganize the Austrian army, intercepting its communications, destroying its bridges and telegraphs, burning all depots of provisions or clothing, and making prisoners of all important persons in the Austrian service.

"4. Do not at first fire on Italian or Hungarian soldiers, but, on the contrary, endeavor to induce them to follow your own flag, and receive with open arms all who give way to your exhortations.

"5. Regular troops who will embarrass the national cause will be at once sent into Piedmont.

"6. Wherever the insurrection is successful the man who stands highest in the popular estimation will assume military and civil authority, with the title of Provisional Commissioner for King Victor Emanuel, and will maintain it until the arrival of the Commissioner dispatched by the Piedmontese Government.

"7. The Provisional Commissioner will abolish the taxes on bread, corn, &c., and in general all taxes which do not exist in Sardinian territory.

"8. A levy will at once be made, by means of conscription, of young men from 18 to 20 years of age, in the proportion of 10 to 1,000 of the gross population. All men also, from 20 to 35, willing to bear arms in defence of the national independence, may be received as volunteers being at once dispatched to Piedmont.

"9. The Provisional Commissioner will appoint a council of war, with power to try and punish, within 24 hours, all who may be guilty of crimes against the national cause, or against the life or property of pacific citizens. The council will make no distinctions of rank or class but no person may be punished for crimes committed anterior to the insurrection.

"10. He will not allow of the establishment of political journals, but he will publish a bulletin of all facts which it is necessary to make public.

"11. He will dismiss from their posts all magistrates or officers who may be opposed to the new order of things, always proceeding with prudence and caution.

"12. He will maintain the severest discipline, applying to all the laws suitable during a time of war. He will be inexorable to deserters, and will give the strictest orders on this subject to all his subordinates

"13. He will send to King Victor Emanuel a precise description of the arms, ammunition and money found in the various towns and provinces and he will await commands on this subject.

"14. In case of necessity he will make requisitions for money, horses, carts, shoes, &c., always giving a corresponding receipt; but he will punish with the utmost rigor all who shall make requisitions of this kind without the most pressing necessity, or without making a definite contract.

"15. Until the time referred to in the first article of these instructions, you will use every means in your power for manifesting the aversion which Italy feels for the Austrian domination and for the Government dependent on Austria, as well as her love for independence and her confidence in the House of Savoy and the Piedmontese Government; but you will do all in your power to prevent untimely or isolated movements.

"For the President,

The Vice President GARIBALDI."

Turin, March 1.
