ESTABLISHED IN 1786. PITTSBURGH, THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 7, 1859. VOLUME LXXII---NUMBER 179. "He's Drivk."—The editor of the Hornellsville Journal, while on a "train" the other day, says he had a good laugh over the following anocdote told by a gentleman on board at the expense of an old Conductor on the Eric Road.
Several years ago, when Geo. Goff "run the Royal Mail Train" between Hornellsville and Dunkirk. Smith was one day seated in a passenger ocach of that train, then stopping for a few minutes at Genesce stailor. An old lady, leading a little child, entered the car, and her wild excited look convinced him that this was her first venture upon a railroad. Presently the train a stated, and Geo. Goff, stepping into the car, in his usual prompt and busness style, uttered the word "Tickets." The old lady kept her eye on George, closely watching every movement. At length he stood beside her. "Tickets, madam," said the old lady, convulsively clutching the piece of paste-board. "I must insist upon seeing your ticket, madam," was the polite but firm reply. The old lady slipped one corner through her hand, which George seized, and adrolity transferred the ticket into his possession—examined it—found it was for Soio, three miles and a

And it is doubly gratifying that we have not only news from the country through our exchanges printed in the smallest towns, but good nows. The reports from the harvest fields through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, are full of encouragement. The almost universal statement regarding the wheat crop, is that it is better than has been known for many years. Some say that a greater breadth of land was sown than ever before, and that such weight of heads and plumpness of berry was never seen. He had lived in this country a num-OIL CLOTHS, TREDWELL & SCHELL. GAS PROM ROBIN OIL MATTINGS, HARLOTTE BLUME, MANUFACTUR FATTY FLUID MATERIAL ABERTS, APRIL CO, 1859. WINDOW SHADES, interested. He had lived in this country a number of years, was naturalized and had his papers with bim. Letters have been received by his brother at Portsmouth containing information that he had been seized by the government officials, and forced into the army, as a regular soldier regardless of his citizenship in this country. His naturalization papers were sent back. The absent brother leaves a family here; and is thus torn from the country of his adoption and his family, to the military service abroad. But according to the idemocratic doctrine, as put forth by Secretary Casa, there is no help for him. A. M. MARSHALL & COL.
