THE MAIL CHANGES .--- The Washington En ner trica to make out that it is the fault o the Republicans in the last Congress that the mail facilities are now everywhere out down. 88Y8:

"Had the Republicans in Congress, asalate by a few individuals claiming to be Democrats not set themselves to embarrass the administra not set themseives to embarrass the administra-lion, or force the passage of a bill increasing the tariff, the wants of the people would have been provided for. But no, the lordly, purse-proud, eabed manufacturers had demanded that the people should be taxed for their benefit, and that demand must be obeyed. The lords of the Pennsylvania Road, and would therefore be at its mercy. The other route would be an indeloom and the forge, appointed by their crighty arguments, prevailed. The government was driven to the wall, Congress refusing the sustependent one, and would be just as good, and as short, and would cost no more to build it.

The Tariff had nothing whatever to do with has become an old story, but it is not generally the failure of the Post Office Appropriation bill. The House passed the bill, and the Senate mended it by inserting a provision to increase the rates of postage. The House, regarding this amendment as a measure to raise additional rev enue, and the Constitution providing that such back to the Sensito with the information that it The Order The Chief Executive of this great nation. was a breach of the Constitutional privilege of weah side, and adroitly took advantage of this the bill accordingly fell." A new bill was intro-duced on the last day of the session, and could in which he is held at "Buckingham palace:"

have passed by general consent; but the friends of the administration in the Senate were mulish in the extreme and refused to let the rules bo suppended, and the new bill also fell. This is the true history of the Post Office Ap-cratic majority in the Senate were determined to have an increase in the rates of postage and would not let the bill pass without securing that the respect of her ministers, he was enabled to repose that wise confidence which has not been clamor. So great is the respect and friendship and cratic majority in the Senate were determined to have an increase. They had the opportunity to pass a bill, after the old one fell; but the rules gave bill, after the old one fell ; but the rules gave them the power to kill it, and kill it they did.

em the power to kill it, and kill it they did. But, upon what ground does any one pretend tion this is! How much more acceptable such that the outling down of daily mails to tri- attention is to cur President, than the approbaweekly ones, and so on, is the result of the fall- tion of common Republicans--- "vulgar people ure of the Post Office Appropriation bill ? There who have no ancestors." Old Buck should feel is no appropriation whatever to carry on the proud of his intimacy with the little "princess." Post Office Department, and that department is
