CENTENNIAL COFFEE WORKS.—The proprietors of the establishment, Messrs. J. C. Hussey & Co., report their operations for the years 1856, '7 and '8 as follows:

	1856	1857	1858
Crude copper received—
Stamp and barrel...bbls.	1,125	1,231	1,707
Masses.....No.	627	981	697
Weight of crude.....Tons	956	1,036	1,127
Per cent. fine.....	62	70	71
Fine copper pro'd.....Tons	593	725	800

The whole of the crude material was the product of the Lake Superior mines; and in its reduced state nearly the whole was sold in New York by Messrs. Bacon & Hyde, Cliff street. The value of the copper at the average price of 25 cents per pound would be $1,059,000.—Cleveland Her.

At a meeting of the Westmoreland Presbytery of the U. P. Church, a few days since, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

WHEREAS, The American Tract Society at New York refuse to publish any thing which can be construed into a disapprobation of American Slavery as it is; and has thus proved faithless to the trust committed to it by the Christian public, to publish the knowledge of the Saviour that men might be holy; and this at a time when the advocates of slavery are successfully extending its limits and increasing its power over the government; and also, whereas, the system adopted for the publication and circulation of books and tracts is unnecessarily and ruinously expensive; therefore,——

Resolved, That the congregations of this Presbytery are recommended to withhold their contributions to it until such changes shall be made in both the financial and moral policy of the society as will be satisfactory.

LIFE IN VENICE.—The following is an extract of a letter from an English gentleman at Venice:

"We are in a comfortable state here, truly; a French fleet outside—proclamations inside, stating that, at the smallest symptoms of insurrections, the city will be subject to fire and sword; and that anybody ringing church bells, waving a flag, or making a signal of any kind, will be immediately shot, without the formality of a trial. The excitement I find to be a most excellent thing for a sluggish liver—it beats calomel hollow. * * The Vigilant, a fine vessel of four guns, is here, opposite the Piazetta and my residence. They have dances on board at times, and it is strange to hear and see English horns pipes danced by the light of the ship lanterns, with the old glorious palace of St. Mark in the distance. All the hotels are empty, and there is no 'table d'hote.'"

WHAT IT MEANS.—The readers of the current news of the day frequently hear of the mobilization of the Prussian army. A French military journal explains this as follows:—"The army of Prussia is said to be mobilized when the numbers of the landwehr (or militia) of the first levy are called into service in connection with each division of the regular army, and, as each division consists generally of 24,000, or 25,000 men, it is at once doubled by the process of mobilization. The regiments thus mobilized do not leave their military districts until orders are given to that effect, in consequence of further dispositions. By the term "mobilization," therefore, nothing more is meant than a simple summons to the landwehr of the first levy, to muster into the ranks of the military posts, where they hold themselves subject to further orders in connection with the regular army."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Sicele says that one of the best shots in Garibaldi's service, is an Englishman of fifty years old, who carries a capital Lancaster rifle, and, aided by a pair of spectacles of which he stands in need, brings down every Tyrolean chasseur that he takes aim at. Somebody lately asked him whether he had been attracted to join the volunteer corps by a strong feeling for the Italian cause or by a love for sport. He answered very coolly, "I have a great respect for Italian independence, but I am also very fond of shooting."

A BREACH between the Archbishop of Paris and the Court is talked of. The Archbishop is said to have given the request to officiate at the "Te Deum" for the battle of Magenta some such answer as this: "I cannot join in thanksgiving for the murder of 15,000 human beings, nor raise a hymn of joy founded upon the pain and misery of others; but I will sing a "De Profundis" and "Requiem" for the souls of the departed with the greatest pleasure."

3. Their prompt and easy touch.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING SAWYER'S CHEMICAL OLIVE ERASIVE SOAP.—A new and valuable article, which is fast receiving the preference over other family soaps, for Laundry and Family use. Being free from resin and other adulterations—economical and pure—suitable for washing with cold or warm, hard, soft or saline water.

It speedily removes oil, grease, paint, printer's ink, tar, pitch, etc., from the hands and from oily or dirty garments; all oils or stale grease, nor any ingredient that will injure the hands or the finest fabric. One pound will go further—make richer washing suds—than two to three lbs. of common brown rosin or palm soap.

It is the purest, best and cheapest Erasive and Laundry Soap now offered to the American people. It can be used for washing clothes same as other soaps, though it is better to follow directions:

Cut into shavings one pound lump of soap; dissolve it well in ten or twelve gallons of hot water; let the clothes remain as soon as to be immersed—soak in this solution, say about thirty minutes; wring out; rinse well in warm water once, in cold water twice. A dirty wristband, collar, seam or grease spot will require some rubbing, but otherwise the clothes will come out clean and white, without much rubbing or much boiling; thus saving time, labor and money—almost saving half the old-fashioned washboard.

Cold water may be used in place of hot, requiring about double time to soaking. If water is hard or salt, it will require more soap. Clothes washed in this way require little washing; those long worn without washing; and garments of mechanics, engineers, iron-workers, and of many other mechanics and artizans, may need more soaking and more rubbing than others. Attentive housekeepers will soon learn, by a few trials, how to suit it to different kinds of work. It is invaluable to those who are compelled to wash with hard or well water.

Cotton Prints and Calicoes, after being washed in the suds, and well rinsed, should be dried in the shade as soon as possible, to prevent colors from running.

Flannels and woolen goods should be soaked and rinsed well in hot or warm—not in cold—water, wrung out, shaken well and dried as soon as convenient. If washed in cold weather, they should be dried in a warm room, to prevent shrinking. Housewives will find this one of the finest and best soaps ever offered for washing woolen hose, under-garments, skirts, blankets, carriage robes, etc. Also, for every kind of white clothes, coarse or fine, cotton, linen or silk.

In washing colored clothes, make about the same suds, or solution as above, using a cloth or sponge, if paint is new or is best to be rubbed. We feel assured that no good housekeeper, after once learning its value, will wish to use any other soap.

Sawyer's Soap is free from the use of resin now so generally used in the manufacture of the best, cheapest and most delicate soaps. Its perfect freedom from resin and other adulterations—economical and pure—suitable for washing with cold or warm, hard, soft or saline water.
