The Coal Trade of Pittsburgh,

refurns made by the weighmasters at these scales for the year 1858 we have, therefore, the amount of coal delivered to domestic consumers during that period within the nine wards of the city. This amount, according to figures obtained at the Controller's office, was 2,669,720 bus. Outside of the city, coal is delivered by the measure of the vehicles delivering it, of which no record is kept; but as the population onliaid as about equal to that of the city proper, we set down the domestic consumption at the same as the city proper, making the total 5,339,440 bus.

The amount consumed by manufactories, we are eanabled to learn pretty correctly by the statistics constinated in Thatsalor's "Fittaburgh as it is." From that we learn that in 1857 therolling mills consumed 6,187,616 bus.; the glass factories, 2,820,668 bus. There has been an increase, gince then, both in the number of factories and the amount consumed; allowing 1,000,000 bus, for this increase, and 1,000,000 bus. for the amount cond by stamboate, gas factories, 2,820,668 bus. There has been an increase, gince then, both in the number of factories and the amount cond by stamboate, gas factories, 2,820,668 bus. total of 14,855,767 bus. used in manufacturies, &c.

The Monongahela Navigation Co. brought down, in 1858, 25,696,669 bus., of which 21, 371,669 bus. were for export below. There was also shipped in boats and barges, from below the dame of the Navigation Co., 3,291,666 bus., making the total shipped below 25,163,235 bus. In addition to these totals, the Pittsburgh, Pt. Wayne & Chicago R. R. Co., carried West from the city, during 1858, 22,250 tons; the Pittsburgh & Cleveland R. R. carried west from the city, during 1858, 22,250 tons; the Pittsburgh & Cleveland R. R. carried west 23,885 tons; the Pennsylvania R. R. carried east, not exactly from Pittsburgh, but from local stations not far from the city, 37,995 tons, and 80,000 tons for its own use; and the Besver and Erie canal carried to Erie 128,000. Total, 32,133 tons; which at 261 bushels to the ton, gives us 8,409,423 bushels.

We have not included in this estimate the amount mined and used in manufacturing in the large number of factly ries and farnaces scattered over Western Pennsylvania within 50 miles of the city; because firstly, we have no data, and secondly, it does not appear to the close of como and the Adds. In these to appear that to go bedond the limits of the Valteline. There exists between that country and the Tyrol high mountains, on the top within is a plateau called the Tonala. The conclusion of peace between France and Auntris, of which we have just received the first notice from Paris, will undoubtedly become the signal of a great internal movement in Germany, the final issue of who it is impossible to foresees at the present moment. Expiter says, the total is a large one from any point of view, and there is nothing to be gained by either magnifying or underraing it. We have given nothing upon conjecture, the domestic consumption of the city we have obtained from well authenticated returns; the consumption in manufacturing was obtained originally from the books of the manufacturers themselves; and the amount exported has been accretabled by reference to the reports and books of the manufacturers themselves; and the amount exported has been accretabled by reference to the reports and books of the transportation companies. We can see no reason, therefore, for doubting our figures; particularly as the only estimate given which is not hased on actual returns is more likely to be over than under the mark.

There is another item which might be added—the consumption of cannel cost for the manufacture of oil; but as, we have shought it safest to omit it altogether.
