whether the admission of Kansas into the Union is abalt becomes a question of some interest, whether the admission of Kansas into the Union is abalt be authorised to form a State Constitution, it would be no compliance with the act of Congress. No such ceasus having a state in the Administration before the act which it ceat so much so trouble and treasure to pass. This will be mortifying to the Administration of the Constitution, no death, hat still we think they will have to come of the officers. The Administration has very little money at its command to operate with, and as to the officers, the tenure by which they are held is now so short that they are held is now so short that they are held is now so short that they in Congress as they sentenced in the constitution of the Constitution, in definition that the command to operate with, and as to more so short that they are by no means as now the constitution whether the party just thrown out, would its programme be in keeping with the Opposition. The constitution is the officers, the tenure by which they are by no means as the plantom before the public of the pass and through and through a magnifyth and and to company of the Administration has very little more at the theoretic that they are by no means as the plantom before the public of the house of Lords. Austria before he had rendered the military service imposed by the laws of that government on every citizen. He came to the United States, was maturalized, and a few months ago returned to Austria. He was there summoned to appear, on three day's notice, for military service. He immediately reported himself to the United States Consul, who roceived him as such. Mr. Straus had no more trouble.

We find the above article taking its rounds in the Administration newspapers. We cannot see what good it does to their side. The Consul anced according to his American instincts, without any knowledge of the viaws held by the Administration, and his-position being a sound one
