The following are some of the troubles that the chivalry are subject to, as described by a Charleston correspondent of the Police Gazette. This correspondent proves his respectability beyond question by stating that he is proprietor of twenty-five women and children, besides men.

After complaining that two-thirds of the police are Dutch and Irish, "another great evil," says this indignant gentleman, "is that if one goes out after 10 o'clock at night, he runs the risk of being stopped by any of these policemen for a pass. He may have ladies with him, and yet he is suspected of being a runaway negro, which is harrowing in the extreme."

"Last week," the correspondent states, "one of the corps was discharged for stopping and asking a certain gentleman (passing through the street at night) for his ticket. In 1850 I was stopped in iron, one side being furnished with American, and the other with English rails. They were both identical in size and appearance, and care was taken to procure from the English market the best kind of iron. After an experience of two years, and finding out, if possible, what would be the intruder's design, and not take time to see if the man was white or black?"

But it seems from this correspondent that the time will soon come when the proper distinction of colour will be regarded even in daylight, from the fact that all distinctions of color are fast being abolished. He says:

"If the morals of the city continue as at present, in a century there will be no negroes here. At present you will see yellow girls in this city that cannot be told from white women. When it becomes general, slavery is but in name, for being white they are less submissive, and of less value. Among my own slaves there are ten females who have fifteen children, and but two of the number are black. I would wish to know what was the cause of this change of color. I think some of the sergeants on the police could solve this problem. They are at least in actual value three thousand dollars out of my pocket for not being a shade darker."

If this bleaching process goes on, the time will soon come when a white complexion will be no evidence of freedom; then it will hardly be necessary to open the African slave trade to supply the South with laborers, as it will be near enough for a trader to make affidavit in some court—no matter where—that a citizen of Ohio is a fugitive, and have him delivered up at Uncle Sam's cost, than even to steal him on the African coast.

A SNAKE STORY.—A couple of weeks ago we noticed the fact that Mr. John White, Jr., of this borough, came upon a den of rattle snakes, on Warrior Ridge, and succeeded in killing four of them. This week we are able to chronicle a snake slaughter that exceeds anything of the kind we ever heard of. One day last week, whilst Messrs. James Watson and Conrad Buff were engaged in plowing a field belonging to the farm of the former, in Woodstock Valley, about six miles from this place, they plowed up a nest of snakes, and from the appearance of the ground, as the reptiles made for safe quarters, in all directions, they thought that they had trespassed upon a world of snakes, as the earth was completely covered for the distance of several hundred yards. They immediately stopped their horses and made an onslaught on them, and after about fifteen minutes hard labor, counted the killed, and found that they had the number of eighty-two—sixty-two vipers and twenty black snakes. We have never before heard of so many snakes being seen and killed in this neighborhood in any previous season. Almost every person that travels in the woods, reports having seen one or more of these reptiles.

Since the above was in type, Mr. John Stonebraker, of Franklin township, has informed us of a snake story that takes the "spots off" the above, and anything we have ever heard in the snake line. Mr. Hampton, of the above township, one day last week, was engaged in quarrying stone, in a quarry close to the turnpike road, and observing two or three snakes lying on a rock, he started to kill them, but as he approached they secreted themselves under the rock. Not wishing them to escape, he got his hammer and broke off a portion of the rock, when he beheld a den of copperheads. He procured a club and went to work at them, and succeeded in killing one hundred and eight! He says that as many more got away.—Hunt. (Pa). American.

HOW OUR REVOLUTIONARY FATHERS SERVED THE TORIES.—Marshfield was the stronghold of tories in Plymouth county, Mass., during the revolutionary struggle. There was a band of 300 in Bridgewater, Halifax, and Middleboro, there were a few. They appear to have been a class of persons not highly esteemed nor kindly treated by our patriotic fathers. In 1774, one by the name of Jesse Dunbar lived in Halifax. He gave great offense to the people by his conduct, and on one occasion, having bought a lot of fat cattle from a mandamus counsellor, he drove them to Plymouth for sale. Having slaughtered, dressed, and hung up one of the largest, the Whigs of that village, by way of revenue or resentment cut it down, put the carcass into an ox cart and confining Dunbar in its belly, drew him in the distance of four miles, and having extorted from him the tribute of a dollar, delivered him up to a mob in Kingston. They drew him four miles farther in the same posture, and having demanded of him another dollar, delivered him up to another mob in Duxbury. These tender hearted gentlemen having several times slapped the animal's tripe across Dunbar's face, wrapping him up in the same, took from him another tribute and then drew him to the house of a hateful tory in the town, by the name of Ray Thomas, and before his front door dipped up the carcase with its living tenant, thus reversing Sampson's riddle, for, on reaching the ground, out of the meat came forth an eater. From this worse than John Gilpin ride, Jesse Dunbar had to make his way home the best way he could, with but little hope of redress under the then highly excited state of the public mind. —Middleboro Gazette.

SLAVERY IN WESTERN VIRGINIA.—A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Lexington, Va., says:

"I find a general unwillingness on the part of the people of Western Virginia, to employ slave labor. I heard a gentleman candidly avow that he would, under no circumstances, own a slave; and he remarked that there were thousands in that region who entertained a similar objection. Slavery in Western Virginia is merely nominal, and, limited, as slave labor is in this section, it is rapidly giving way under the influence and advantages of the free labor system. It is idle to say that Fresoilism constitutes any serious objection to a candidate for office in the west. If the truth were known, it would be found to constitute a very acceptable feature in his record; but this feeling is suppressed in deference to Eastern Virginia, and from motives of sectional interests affecting the progress of the internal improvements of this section, which rely on the East in a great measure for their completion.

THE Chicago Tribune speaks of a practice several banks of that State adopt to practically repudiate specie payments. When bills are presented for redemption they employ the smallest coin and use the utmost deliberation in paying it out. They use about a day to redeem $300 of notes. The matter is to be tested before the Courts whether this mode of doing business is legitimate and shall be tolerated, the Tribune entertaining the opinion that the decision will be adverse to the banks.

MRS. BOSTWICK recently gave a concert in northern Wisconsin, and her audience was principally composed of Menomonee and half breed Indians, who are said to have been first amazed and awestruck, and silent, as the heavenly sounds came from the lips of the singer; but their delight soon found expression, and they cheered and yelled and whooped their applause as if they never expected again to hear such tones of melody.

THE ILLINOIS WHEAT AND CORN CROPS.—The Prairie Flower of yesterday contains the following:

We are assured by men who have traveled extensively in this State, during and since harvest, that farmers have greatly over-estimated the yield of wheat per acre—that the thresher and cleaner tells them a far different story than the long heads and plump kernels had promised—that from one-quarter to one-third, and in some instances, one-half must be deducted from the estimated yield to approach reality. This is a serious disappointment, and we hope it is not general. One gentleman, whose judgment in such matters is good, thinks the corn crop will not reach the mark anticipated—that it and the potato crop in this State are to fall far below the usual yield.

Our neighbor's informant may be correct with regard to some sections of the State, so far as regards wheat, but the corn crop is conceded by most people to be very large, and with the exception of perhaps Winnebago and Boone counties, the yield will probably be as good as in previous years, should it not be damaged by early frosts.

DRAIN OF SILVER FROM FRANCE AND IMPORTS OF GOLD.—"The export of silver from France," says the Union, "has gone on so constantly during the last three years that a person might almost ask whether any of that metal still remains in the country. During the first six months of the present year, the exports of silver amounted to 228,858,880f. (£9,154,355.) while the amount imported was only 114,493,140f. (£4,579,725.) leaving a deficit of 114,365,740f. (£4,574,629.) It is true that the silver which is exported is largely made up for by the gold which is received, for there has been only exported of that metal during the first six months of the year an amount of 98,161,800f., while the imports have been 387,602,200f., giving a surplus of 289,340,400f. (£11,573, 616.) The general circulation of the two previous metals together has therefore increased 174,974,660f. (6,998,087.)"

AMERICAN RAILROAD IRON.—The assertion that American railroad iron is cheaper than that derived from England, in consequence of its superior durability, has often been made, but there have been doubts on the subject in some minds, the majority of men thinking that low priced articles are nec
