SURREL SERRIT, D. F. WILLIAMS, D. L. RATOR, D. S. FERSTRON

A NAWSPAPER AT PIKE'S PEAK.—The printing press has become a great necessity to the American engage in any movement without calling to their aid its invaluable: services. The press, with its editors and reporters, accompanied our army, on its march to the very heart of Mexico, in the late war with that country, and thus the valor of our soldiers, and the grim cascastites of the campaign, were duly recorded on the spot, and without deloy. In this manner was civilization heralded in California, ten years ago, and mow we find the gold seekers of Pike's Peak already supplied with an "organ." On the guidness of the miners, a neat little journal called the "Gold Reporter." Its publisher amounces his intention to issue his paper regularly once a week having and to the summer of a new line of monarchs, cannot in onesistency descerate the tomb of a legitimate bounder, in one sistency descerate the tomb of a legitimate bourband. It ratified, and the campaign, were duly recorded on the spot, and without deloy. In this manner was civilization heralded in California, ten years ago, and without deloy. On the guideness of the miners, a neat little journal called the called ces his intention to issue his paper regularly once a week, having made all his arrangements to that effect. His printing office has become an "institution" in the embryo city, which now basks in the rays which emanate from it. The editor in his inaugural states that the arrival of his press, which was attended with many difficulties in its transit across the plains, was greeted with oheers from the hardy miners, who surrounded his little log office in order to extend a hearty welcome. We wish the "Reporter" all manner of success.

ties:

"The war now going on in the American party betyeen the conservative and rowdy elements is to decide its fate. If nominations can be sold: if they can be purchased only by contributions can be and decading services then the day s, then the day of the American party is sealed. When rowdles controlled elections merely, in good old Whig times, and contented themselves with driving off Whige from the polls, the Democratic party flon ished. When the Whig opposition was killed off, and there was no need or necessity of driving them away from the polls, or breaking their heads on election nights, by way of amusement, the rowdy clubs of the Democrats began to conrats began to control the party, and bestowed its nominations on those who come down handsomest in money and whisky. Finally, the nominations were put up at audition in agreement and selected the honor of a gentleman, lost the confidence of the Christian brotherhood, enhangered the dense of the Christian brotherhood, enhangered the coverthraw that party and gave good officers and honest men in the place of Dowling & Co.

It is now threatened to try the same game in the American party. The rowdyism which has awakened lately to dieplay itself in senserion, outrages on exacuration parties, and the behavior we have lately seen in conventions, is provoked and kept up by largess in whisting and money—in free board and weekly slipend from those who have their interest to serve. If the American party cannot prevent its own degradations to such low unes, and by such means, which are even more discreditable, and it is their duty to put down all rowdylam within its ranks. Their success hitherto has been from the unexceptionable character of their nominees, and this success will continue unless improper names are placed upon their ticked. Men have sought the suffrages of the people who more richly desorve prison and ponishment the suffrages of the people who more richly desorve prison and ponishment the suffrages of the people who more richly desorve prison and panishment the surfaces of their nominees, and this success will continue unless improper names are placed upon their ticked. A correspondent of the National Eta, writing from Oregon city, says:

"General Lane has spoken very often during the coaves, and his special appeal was based upon the fact that he had picked the State for tempysrs, as around in its Democrate to the sound for its admittance; and who, but for that pledge, would have defeated that measure."

The General ceems to have been a little previous in making such a promise, as the people of Oregon are not disposed to ratify the bargain; but the promise itself discloses the rottenness of the party. Oregon, with only forty thousand inhabitants, was admitted as a State because Gen. Lane had promised to keep it democratic for ten years; but Kaassa, with eighty thousand inhabitants—double that of Oregon—was excluded because her population was too small: Any population is large enough for a democratic for ten years; but Kaassa, with eighty thousand inhabitants.—double that of Oregon—was excluded because her population was too small: Any population is large enough for a democratic for ten years; but Rapublican States are to be kept out of the Union as long as possible.

SECOND CROF OF STRAWBERRIES.—The Patterson market is plentifully supplied with strawberries, which readily bring eix and eight cents per backet. This is the second or fall crop, and the berries are remarkable for their sweet, delicious superiority over the spring crop; and as the second bearing season is never very prolific, the price is high. The Guardian thinks there is littledoubt but berries could be produced, with care, to supply the market during parts of August and September, were the growers to undertake the culture of the plants for that purpose.

For many mouths my hair had been falling of, until I was fearfol of loding it entirely. The skin apon my head became gradually more and more inflatured, so that I could not touch it without pile. This irritated condition I stributed to the use of yarious advertised hair washes, which I have sloce been told contain camphone spirit.

By the advice of my physician, to whom you had shown your process of portifying the Oil, I commenced its use the sat week in Jone. The first application allayed the liching and irritation, in three or four days the reduces and tender, ness disappeared—the hair ceased to fall, and I have now a thick growth of say hair.
