PROF. GARDNER lectured in Birmingham, last night, to a very large and highly delighted audience. All Birmingham turned out to hear him, and the wonderful soap went off like hot cakes. The Professor is doing a land office business.

BOILER EXPLOSION IN SOUTH PITTSBURGH.—Four Persons Seriously Injured.—On Thursday morning about ten o'clock the boiler in the works of the Spike Manufacturing Company of Dilworth & Bidwell, situated between the river and Bingham street, on Fourth street, in South Pittsburgh, exploded with a tremendous report. In fact the noise was plainly heard on this side the river, the fire bells rang the alarm and some of the engines turned out.

We visited the place of the accident within half an hour after it occurred. The boiler was what is known as the Barnhill boiler, and had been in use seven or eight years. It stood, when in place, under one of the river corners of the building, in which the business of making spikes was carried on. The ends were torn out of the boiler. That end toward the river ejected its iron door over the bank, blasted the stone wall on which the corner of the building rested into a heap of ruins, knocked away the foundation of the building right under the boiler and propelled all the machinery in the factory, and split and fractured the end of the building in all directions. The supports once removed from the engine it is supposed, and breaking through the floor was only prevented from completely turning inside down by the end of the building to which it stood and against which it fell. A new boiler, which was soon to be put in place of the one which has just exploded, and which was lying near the river end of the factory, was buried over the bank, and one end of it passed over the head of Mr. John Lattker, who is a pattern maker and carpenter. He was not in the least injured, simply covered all over with dirt and dirty water. The pieces of board, window frames, braces, bits of timber, a wheel-barrow and other rubbish that were lying on the river bank was blown about in all directions and much of it into the middle of the river, a distance of three hundred feet or thereabout. All this occurred from the tearing out of the river end of the boiler.

But the other end, towards the inferior part of the basement in the boiler stood, appears to have been torn out at the same instant. The effect of it was to blow off the lower portion of the end of the factory, which is of wood, some feet or two from its foundations. At the west side of the building it tore and split, the windows ejected, the stone wall thrown from its perpendicular, and the whole caused to present the semblance of a structure wrecked and torn by an internecine storm. The boiler in basement contained beside the boiler a vast number of kegs of spikes, empty kegs and other material. These were hurled about in the greatest confusion. The heavy beam which was the main support of the floor above, was broken and fell in, leaving the upper room, with all its vast weight of lathes, iron and machinery, to rest upon a row of iron pillars under alternate beams, which fortunately prevented a worse catastrophe.

The boiler itself appears to have turned entirely round. It lies in the middle of the basement, having been blown by the force of its own explosion about twice its length. The internal tubing and work of various kinds is mingled up like a bit of paper; the screw bolts are drawn through the external coat with the greatest apparent ease, and the ends of the boiler in some parts torn out of the solid iron as a person would rend a bit of paper.

The Second Floor.—On the floor immediately above the cause of this ruin, no one was injured and but little damage done. A man who was filling a saw on a sort of bench in the upper floor immediately above the boiler, was tossed up nearly to the roof, but not hurt. The floor sagged and cracked, and the heavy lathes and stamps were in momentary danger of caving in and ingulfing everything in a mass of ruin into the basement. As soon as the workmen had sufficiently recovered their senses after the shock, they set to work removing the machinery from the tottering floor, and everything else was saved, uninjured.

The Engineer's Statement.—The engineer is Mr. George Brown, who resides with his family in this city. He has been employed as engineer for a-long time, and is considered a capable and faithful man. He says he had just gone upon the engine to oil her or put on a band, the machinery was stopped and the steam not all using at the moment of the explosion. He had the usual "full" of water, and she was carrying 70 lbs. of steam, and blowing off at the moment of the accident. The engineer did not state to us any thing further, but after a careful examination of the boiler, we are of the opinion that it had been in use about nine years, and had done enough of good service to have received an honorable discharge before its explosion. As above stated, a new boiler was just about to be put in its place.

The Injured.—It is wonderful to relate that no one was killed. There were two men and two boys in the same room with the explosion. Wm. Leo, who lives with his family in South Pittsburgh and who was employed in the works, is injured worst. He is scalded from his waist all over his body upward, by the steam. It is feared that he may have inhaled steam. If not, his injuries are not considered dangerous, by Dr. Wolff, who tends all the patients.

Philip Lowe, who lives on Carson st., also lives in South Pittsburgh, in Chestnut alley, is badly scalded, principally on the left arm and hand. He is not dangerously hurt, unless the fact shall develope itself that he inhaled steam.

Two German boys, named John and Conrad Smith, who live in Birmingham, were at work in the basement packing spikes. The boiler seems to have gone around them as it were, for around the space where they were at work, it revolved when it exploded. Yet they do not appear to be dangerously injured, only considerably scalded on the face, chest and arms. They are doing well as could be expected.

Loss.—The loss to the proprietors of the concern will reach about $2000, and the damage it will take some time to repair. They had just put up a new spike machine, their present works not proving sufficient for the demand upon them. The new boiler was about to be put in place in view of the increasing steam power demanded. The merciful part of the whole accident is that no one was killed where it is difficult to see how any can, in the presence of such a destructive element, escaped.

INJUNCTION ASKED FOR.—The Lawrenceville & Sharpsburg Plank Road Company ask for an injunction against the Citizens' Passenger Railway, to restrain them from laying their track on that portion of the road extending from Butler street to the Cemetery gate, in the borough of Lawrenceville. The petition came up before Judge Hampton on Thursday forenoon. O. H. Rippey, Esq., appeared for the railway company and Geo. D. Hamilton, Esq., for the petitioners.

Mr. Rippey opposed the granting of the injunction, on the ground that the road claimed by the plank road company really belonged to the borough of Lawrenceville; that the plank road company had done nothing towards keeping the roadway in repair; that the right over the road had already been granted in the Quarter Sessions on the ground that the franchises of that portion of the road were really in the possession of the borough of Lawrenceville.

Judge M'Clure in that Court refused to pass upon the grant of the right of way over a part of the L. & S. Plank Road, and yet granted the Company the right to lay down their rail to the Cemetery gate, the road in connection with Butler street to be paved by the borough and the railway company, half each, simultaneously.

Against this view of the case, Mr. Hamilton contended strongly. The question raised was not decided by the Court yesterday, but will come up for decision before Judge Hampton today at 10 o'clock.

TERRA-CULTURE.—By invitation, Professor Comstock will give three more lectures, where he has lectured once, twice or three times before, namely: At Bentleysville, on Friday, September 9, at ten A. M.; at Monongahela City, on Monday, September 12, at ten A. M.; and at Pittsburgh, in the Iron City College, on Saturday, September 17, at ten A. M., from the recommendation of all of the members of last Saturday's class at Pittsburgh, who gave their postoffice addresses at West Manchester, at Allegheny City, at Clinton, at Braddock's Field, at Saxonburg, at Newcastle, at Youngstown, O.; at Service, and at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Prof. Russell Comstock, whose postoffice address every day in the year is at Mabbettsville, Dutchess county, New York, intends to leave Pittsburgh on the 20th inst., for New York, and other States, where he lectured in 1852 and in 1853, and will return to Western Pennsylvania on receiving notice that a class of fifty persons is formed, at two dollars each.

THE CASE OF MRS. GALLAHER.—On Thursday (yesterday) Drs. Pollock and Bruce held a second post-mortem examination on the remains of Mrs. Margaret Gallaher, concerning whose death we gave the particulars on yesterday. It was their opinion that she came to her death from disease of the lungs and liver, which latter organ was very much enlarged; that these causes were not superinduced by external violence. In the first examination, Drs. Hopper and Gamble did not state absolutely that the state of the lung or the spot upon the liver were caused by external violence, but only that they might have been.

Is PENNSDAFT to be or not to be? The lumber, bricks, mortar and other building material, and men upon the premises raising houses and driving on the work of improvement, answer the question; while the echo of the clinking hammer sends back the sound to be.

PRELIMINARY HEARING OF S. D. DILLAYE.—At three o'clock on Thursday, Mr. Dillaye, of whose arrest at Syracuse we spoke yesterday, had a preliminary hearing at the Mayor's office on charge of being implicated in the late forgery of certificates of deposit, as before stated.

The affidavit of Mr. E. D. Jones having been read, that gentleman was affirmed as follows: I know Mr. Dillaye; first saw him on the 1st of October, 1858: Mr. Dillaye, S. G. Langdon and Mr. Kelsey, of New York, were introduced to me by J. L. Langley, Cashier of Monongahela Valley Bank, at about half-past ten o'clock on that day: had seen Mr. Langley before; from a previous conversation with him relative to negotiation of certificate of deposit, and upon his representation I handed the money over to him. On calling, Mr. Dillaye said they had a certificate on the American Exchange Bank of New York, which they wished to negotiate; these certificates were presented by S. G. Langdon, and upon receiving them I handed the money to Mr. Dillaye. The same evening I sent the certificate to New York, [certificates shown and and identified by witness.] Mr. Dillaye represented that the McKeesport Bank would keep an account with the Citizens' Bank, and would perhaps want some exchange. He said if they remained until the 4th they would need a portion of it for their own use. I made no promise to hold the paper, but sent it forward the same evening; I had said to Mr. Langley I presumed the certificates were all correct. He said they were. Mr. Langdon endorsed the paper, but I do not think he was present when I handed the money to Mr. Dillaye; the amount was $27,500; the certificates were forwarded to the Mercantile Bank, New York, and on the 4th received a dispatch informing me that they were forgeries; on receiving this information I went at once to McKeesport, with Reese Owens.

Mr. Miller, who appeared for the commonwealth, objected to going into all these matters, which were not properly before the magistrate.

Mr. Swartzwelder, for the accused, contended that it was only justice to his client to have the whole matter developed, and he wished to bring out all the facts.

Cross-examined.—I recollect the substance of conversation passed between the parties in the bank; all the parties, Dillaye, Langley, Kelsey and Langdon entered into conversation about the matter; Mr. Dillaye was principal spokesman; he said they had certificates on the American Exchange Bank, which they wished cashed; Mr. Langdon handed out the certificates and endorsed them; Mr. Kelsey gave me a certified check for $2,700, on a certain firm in New York, which was paid; the money which I paid to Mr. Kelsey and what I paid on the certificates was all the same bundle or lot; Mr. Kelsey asked if I would receive the certified check with the others: I said I would; Mr. Langdon handed out the certificates, and Mr. Foster, of New York, seemed genuine; then proceeded to count out the money; It was paid in the issue of Citizens' Bank; there was a suggestion made that the bank should hold the certificate till Monday; gave as a reason that the McKeesport Bank would not keep open on that account; also says that a full confirmation of this new order has been telegraphed to the English government. He remarks, Dr. Howard moved that a committee of three be appointed to select a permanent committee to consist of ten persons, for the purpose of devising means for the better observance of the Sabbath. Mr. W. Mair, Wm. Bakewell, and Mr. Renshaw were appointed said committee. The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of this committee, in this city.

PERJURY.—Owen Corcain made affidavit yesterday before Ald. Lewis, charging Mary E. Keefe with perjury. She made an information before Alderman Rogers on the 6th inst., charging Corcain with assault and battery and threats of bodily violence. He had a hearing at the time and was discharged. In fact he knew nothing about the woman, as appeared. On the affidavit before Lewis, a warrant was issued, Mary was arrested and committed for trial.

WESTERN UNIVERSITY OF PENN'A.—Mr. J. D. Hancock, of Wyoming, Luzerne county, of this State, has been appointed Professor of Mathematics in the Western University, and is now engaged in his labors. He is a young gentleman of fine scholarship, having graduated lately with honors at Yale College, Ohio. The old University, under the auspices of President Woods, will regain its past renown.

LATEST FROM EUROPE

SACKVILLE, N. B., Sept. 8.—The Cunard mail steamship Europa, which left Liverpool at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, the 27th ult., arrived at Halifax last night at 11 o'clock.

The steamship Bearer Queen, from New York, arrived at Southampton on the 25th ult., and the steamship Persia reached Liverpool on the 27th ult. The U. S. sloop of war Plymouth put into Cadiz on the 12th, in eight days from Cherbourg, and left the following morning, without being admitted, to Prague.

The news from the peace conference consists merely of rumors which state that some progress had been made, and it was probable that a successful conclusion would be arrived at early in September.

Sardinia refuses to accept, even provisionally, the annexation of the Duchess without consulting the powers, particularly France.

The Italians still maintain a firm attitude in relation to their national independence.

A telegram, dated Berne, Aug. 24th, says that the French and Austrian plenipotentiaries have regulated the settlement of affairs of Lombardy with the consent of the Sardinian plenipotentiaries, and the arrangement, it is expected, will be confirmed by the sovereign.

The affairs of the duchess are to be treated directly between the courts of Paris and Vienna.

The Austrian plenipotentiaries have modified her instructions to her plenipotentiaries.

The French and Sardinian representatives were in consultation on the 24th ult.

Republican Meeting in Kittanning.

Messrs. Editors:—In response to a call from the Chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, the citizens of Armstrong county assembled in Kittanning, on Tuesday evening the 6th inst., in mass meeting. It being the week of the September Court, the attendance was much too large to find accommodations in any house in town, and was obliged to assemble in the public square in front of the M'Comb House. The meeting was organized by electing a President, twenty-four Vice Presidents and two Secretaries. The Chairman of the Committee, Dr. Burleigh, being called upon, at considerable length stated the object of the meeting, the duty of the party and the certain success that would crown their efforts if faithful to the cause. The Doctor discussed at very considerable length, the question of expatriation and perpetual allegiance, and criticised the recent Cass heresy with that severity which its heterodoxy deserves at the hands of every honest man with an American heart in his bosom. Gen. John N. Purviance, of Butler, was next introduced to the meeting, who at length discussed the political questions of the day in that eloquent and masterly manner which his acknowledged ability as a lawyer and politician and orator so happily enable him to do. The General spoke from a feeling heart, the fountains of knowledge and the truths of history. Gen. P. had scarcely left the stand before the Hon. John Covode, our worthy member of Congress, was loudly called for. He ascended the stage amidst the cheers of the assembled populace, and made one of those powerfully telling, matter of fact speeches which his ability and long experience in the affairs of our government so readily enable him to do. Mr. C.'s familiarity with the varied interests and real necessities of Pennsylvania, his uncompromising fidelity to those interests, together with his thorough knowledge of business and the affairs of government enable him to discuss the great political questions of the day in a most convincing and familiar manner. If that speech could but be delivered in every county in this Commonwealth to its assembled citizens, the so-called Democracy would shrink from the gaze of honest men and hide themselves in the dark dens of political obscurity. The people wish to learn the truth, and I think Mr. Covode is just the man to send among them. AN AMERICAN CITIZEN.

These gentlemen have just returned from a mission to several cities in the West, to advance this cause. The Rev.
