THE GALLEY SLAVES AT TOULON.—It is not to be expected that one can speak of Toulon without saying a word of the galley slaves or forcats. There are, in the arsenal and yard, 4,500, who do all the heavy work. They drag the materials about, and some are employed in sawing timber. The forcats are unchained in couples by heavy chains passing round the ankles and waists, and linked together. The better behaved are allowed to go singly, ironed in the same way, with the exception of the connecting chain. They are clothed in coarse canvas trowsers and shirts, branded with their numbers, and a woollen jacket. Those who are condemned for life wear a long, green, woollen, pointless cap, something like a nightcap with the top cut off, and made square. On the front of the cap is a tin plate with the number of the wearer punched out. The convicts who are condemned for a number of years are distinguished from the others by red caps, and those who have been more than once to the Bagne, by yellow sleeves to their jackets.

Their faces, close shaven, bronzed by exposure to the sun, and brutalized by crime, are fearful to behold; and their repulsive appearance is heightened by their hair being notched short, in lines running round the head, in order to facilitate their recognition should they escape. At night they lie down on inclined lengths of planking, without mattress or covering, in twenties or thirties, and an iron rod is run through the leg chains of each, so that no one can move without the rest. Their food consists of brown bread, oil all wheaten flour, soup, and haricots et fèves, beans. No wine or tobacco is allowed, but the convicts are permitted to receive 10f. a month from their friends, with which they may purchase any eatable they please. The greatest and most degrading punishment, which must also be the greatest obstacle to reformation, is obtaining the men in couples. Youths over sixteen may be seen chained to old men tainted with every vice.

Walking or sleeping, the compagnons de chaine are never separated, until freedom or death removes one of them. In spite of the hideous costume and revolting appearance of the forcats, there were some who still exhibited traces of their former position, whose gentility, so to speak, pierced through their convict garb. One in particular, standing nearly six feet high, and who intently watched the arrival of
