Republican Meeting.

eon. Galusha A. Grow, The elequent and fearless champion of Republican principles in Congress, and author of the Homestead Bill, will address the citizens of Pittsburgh and vicinity at Lafayette Hall, Wood Street,

THIS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, CCIOBER 5th, AT 7 O'CLOCK. The public, generally, are invited to attend. REPUBLICANS: rally and give us a grand demonstration on this interesting occasion.

SPEECH FROM MR. GROW. Hon. GALUSHA A. GROW arrived in the city yesterday, from Minnesota. He has kindly consented to stay and give us a speech tonight at Lafayette Hall. Turn out, one and all, and hear the eloquent champion of Re-date for Treasurer. Hq is indefetigable in elecfloncering for Limself, and where he cannot make the point individually, he gets others to make the effort for him. Now, what claim has he upon Bepublican votes? He is a clever man, you say; so, also, we snawer, is his competitor.

There does not breathe in the county a better or a claverer man thah Goodman Y. Coulter. In all that goes to make up the man, he is the equal of any individual in the locofood ranks. The demoany individual in the locofoce ranks. The democratic candidate, clever and oily and smooth as he may be, now, is a bitter partisan. No one more so. He believes in his party and adheres to it. We question if he ever voted for a Republican in his life. He votes the whole ticket, upon instinct, no matter who may be on it, and goes the whole figure for his party, on all occasions. Suppose, through the folly of Republicans, such improbable thing should happen as his election; for whom will be vote for President next year? For the Charleston nominee. For his interests he will labor untiringly, and wield the whole in-

[For the Daily Pittsburgh Gazette.] Card from Dr. Gazzam.

THE MOST VIRITOUS WOMAN IN FRANCE—HER CORONATION.—The great annual prize show of the Virtuous Woman came off at Sureness with great colst. To those who had heard, a few days ago, the praise of virtuo pronounced in the stiff, pedantic cratory off. Guizot, it was quite a relief to hear it scothed, encouraged, and requested to call again, as it were, in the honeyed accounts of the Archbishop of Raris. Although the weather was anything but inviting, crowds went by the railway to Poris to behold this ever precious and delightful sight, and as a fellow-traveler informed me, with the greatest bonhommie; even those who had seen the Virtuous Woman before were only too glad to be able to show the sight to others. At three o'clock, hot scrutiny took place within the church. The Virtuous Woman was proclaimed, and was crowned with roses by the Archbishop, who was really much more leainnt toward her for being virtuous than M. Guizot would have been. His Emineer then gave a long allocution in favor of virtue, wherein Le exhibited-to the light all the good points of the woman's virtue-, whowing how we he first came by it, (in this case by inheritance—ther mother had possessed it;) then how she halls, and never reading romances, which latter self-denial proved beyond a doubt the divisit would be and only the divisit would have been. His Dimineer there wherein Le exhibited-to the light all the good points of the woman's virtue-, whowing how we had maintained it—by never frequenting the Sunday balls, and never reading romances, which latter self-denial proved beyond a doubt the divisit would be an one coly proved theme-free tonk in the content of the proved beyond a doubt the divisit would be a content and the content of the disease was mastered the sufference which have been one cell proved th Nothing. On the contrary, much may be lost. In contests which are waged upon principle, no Republican should permit himself to vice for a candidate who represents opposite principles. No matter how elever or nice a man he may be; a candidate upon the democratic ticket is put forward as the representative of democratic principles, and every vote given to him is a vote practically, whather so intended or not, for the practically, whather so intended or not for the virtue of Surgenses. The village, however declared with one voice that there were other now pending, of Republicans who are disposed to vote for losofoco nominees because they know a made for them on the ground that thoy are olever fellows, or members of some old and wall known family. Particular interest has been made in this campaign for the damocratic candidate for Treasurer. His is indefatigable in elections of the contents of the polar provention. On the 16th of last month, Mr. Alexander that terminated in his death three days after and in making a turn the log flew around striking him on the leg and fracturing it. The limb was set by Dr. Pistt, and shortly after the sufferer fell into a slumber, in which state ho remained until Saturday, when he died.

last week, who were in attendance at court, all mained until Saturday, when he died.

We conversed with quite a number of farmers is should Bepublicane put such influence and patronage into his hands? Why should they load a ropolitical enemy with power to be used against themselves? We put these questions in this pertinent shape, that they may be pendered upon. Nottrue Republican can vote for Mr. Blackmorn, or any other locofoco nominee, when he recollects that such a vote will not only be construed as an endorsement of democratic principles but contribute to the aid of locofocoiem in 1860.

We cite the Treasurer nomination, not as a special case, but as an instance in point. What is true of that office is true of every citer; and we trust that no Republican will suffer himself to be tempted into voting for any locofoco. We should bend our whole energies, this year, to the saucess of our ticket as itstands, for the sake of the great advantage it will give us in 1860. Nothing could be more suicidal in spirit than the election, this year, by Republican votes, of can
