The same complaint has been preferred in Philadelphia; and in this city we hear constant outcries against a system which says the reartife foundation of legitimate business. There appears to be but one remedy—a resort to the law which compels every such peddler to obtain a license. Public opinion has no effect upon the offenders, and all sense of medesty is gone before they enter upon their task.

The democratic papers still harp upon old John Brown. Now that the elections are over, and the democratic party is done brown, it might naturally be expected that they would drop him. Since there is no party capital to be made out of the continuous properties. The continuous properties are realized, this victory will be received that they would drop him. Conversion of Cook.—Charlestown, Wednesday, Nov. 9, 1859.—The confession of Cook, which was yesterday read in Court, is jealously guarded, for purposes to be hereafter developed. It importance is hardly sufficient to warrant such care. The document, which filled twenty-one pages of fooleasp, threw comparatively little new light on the liarper's Ferry affair. It was mostly a record of Cook's personal experiences. It related how he first became acquainted with Brown in 1850, just after the bailto of Black Jack; how ho was induced to join Brown to comperate with him in bis labors for securing the freedom of Kansas; how certain expeditions for rescaing slaves from Missouri, and setting them free in Canada, were accomplished, and similar details equally irrelevant. The more important portions were those which told of the Convention held in Canada, at which the well-known constitution was framed; of the military training under Elevans, which Brown's party went through, altering their original intention, which was, to be instructed by Col. Forbes, and of his was, to be instructed by Col. "During the season, and even up to the present time, the Eastern commission houses, agents of the manufacturers, have been largely represented here. The objects of the virit have been various. With some it, was merely a pleasant call; with others a quiet examination into the condition of things in the West, and with the greater number the two foregoing objects were kept in view, and also the sale of goods by sample." The Western jobbers are well known as gentlemen of excellent social qualities, hence are always glad when their Eastern friends make them a friendly call, and come to our city on legitimed business, but they have a right to object to the extravagant mode of breaking down the market by the indiscriminate offering of goods by sample, as it has been dobe this seazon. Lest this generalizing might load to wrong impressions, we will state the ease as clearly as possible. A large number of our wholesale houses have resident partners East, while all of them are in the Eastern markets twice or three times.

sale houses have resident partners East, while all of them are in the Easterd markets twice or three times during each season. This enables them to keep their stocks well assorted. No sooner, however, do their purchases arrive at home, and, outcomers make a liberal demonstration upon the stock, and this fact becomes known to our Eastern friends above alluded to, than the sample men are on hand. And here we cannot refrain from suggesting as modestly as postible to all whom it may concern, that first class house

In a few instances, parties have gone to boarding houses for weeks—the two-and-a-hail per day at the Burnet House being too expensive for the business to be done—and watched the market for an opportunity to 'make expenses.' Daily they would make the rounds of the wholeale houses, and their business would become known even to the country merchants, whose natural enquity would bo, 'Are good declining East, that so many ure out here preddling!' The effect produced upon the market, any one interested can see at a glance.
