As to his finding money, it is enough to say that in 1855 6, while the connect for Freedom in Kaness agginst the sitempts to force Slavery into that Territory was undecided, Gov. Chase, in common with his fellow-citizens in this and other States, contributed according to his ability, in sid of the Free-State cause. For no other purpose with which Old Brown was connected was any money ever found or furnished by him.

We make these statements upon the authority of the Governor himself."—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

no liddrent, and the state of t should roll over them also, they may have engulfed the liberties of our country. If these two States should decide in favor of the Sward agitators by elevating them to place and power, a deep gloom will spread like a pall over the country. The heart of the Sward agitators by elevating them to place and power, a deep gloom will spread like a pall over the country. The heart of the spread of the country the country the country the state of the spread of the country should perch upon the Democratic beance, thousands will feel as if we had except a great disaster. Business will revive; confidence will be restored; the pulse of the commerce will beat with renewed vigor; the head of labor will receive new employments and angmented wages; and all will feel as if New York and New Jersey had re-signed and re-realed the guarandass of the constitution. The chies around Davenport, Iowa, are now lighted up every evening, in every direction, by the prairie fire. A belt of fire appears to surround the earth, gaine makes the nights appear even darker than they scrilly are. A great deal of damage is some every fall by these fires, many of them being set agoing by malicious persons, with a view of burning down their neighbor's fences and hay stacks.
