Pittsburgh Gazette.

PITTSBURGH:

FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 16, 1859.

WAGES OF ENGLISH OPERATIVES.—The London Quarterly Review, in a long article upon the late strikes in England, gives some interesting facts to show that strikes have always injured labor, and that the only true way to improve the condition of the laborer is by co-operative effort, industry and economy. In proof of what workingmen could accomplish, the writer says:

Let it not be said that the working people cannot save, money, and become capitalists if they will. Have we not the fact that the operatives of Blackburn alone sent not less than £30,000 out of their earnings to maintain the Preston operatives during their fruitless strike? And why should they not in ordinary times invest these surplus funds in savings banks, or in co-operative associations, instead of spending it in public houses?

The laboring classes do not yet know the mighty power which they possess. The annual wages of the working people of the country is estimated, on good authority, to amount to not less than one hundred and seventy millions sterling. But notwithstanding the increased remuneration paid for labor during recent years, and the generally reduced cost of living, the savings of the working classes invested in savings banks have remained almost stationary, and are under eight millions. Will it be believed that the annual earnings of many families engaged in the cotton manufacture amount to more than the average income of the clergy of England; and that there are few skilled operatives whose individual earnings do not exceed those of the great body of clerks and shopmen?

When the builders lately struck they were earning 5s. 6d. a day, which is equal to the pay of the subaltern and lieutenants of our infantry regiments, without the cost of mess or uniform. Erectors and fitters in the shops of London engineers receive from 35s.—37s. a week; or perhaps a higher average rate of remuneration than is paid to the whole body of dissenting ministers. The operatives employed as ironrollers earn in ordinary times from 12s. to 16s. a day, or equal to the pay of captains and army surgeons, after ten years' service. That trade is brisk, the ballmakers men of Staffordshire, with their families earning from £300 to £400 a year, which is a larger income than falls to the lot of most professional men, and yet the houses of those favored artisans are scenes of disgusting squalidness and squalor.

If working people are powerless, it is too often because they are thoughtless and improvident. If they are driven into bad bargains with their masters, it is mainly because they have not taken care to provide a defence against destitution in their day of need; by a store of frugal saving in prosperous times. Those who spend their money as they earn it will always be at the mercy of others; and it is melancholy to reflect that when a time of adversity comes they are scarcely a week ahead of actual wants.

If the laboring classes would gain a firmer footing in the world, they must exercise economy, self denial and forethought, the basis of all steady and truly independent character.

For proof of our assertions read the following certificates, most of which are in our own city:—

DR. KEYSER:—Although I am also an associate of Patent Medicines, in general, I affords me pleasure indescribable to recommend your Pectoral Syrup. As a medicine it will attract the attention of any person who may in any manner be afflicted with coughs, colds, cough and hoarseness of any kind, and for its peculiar qualifications for removing all that disagreeable sensation attending a severe cold.

I have seen, more or less, in my life affected with the severest of colds and hoarseness. At times my throat would become so closed as to prevent my speaking above a whisper, and by taking a few doses of the above Syrup it would entirely relieve me.

In recommending this medicine, I must unhesitatingly say that it is the best remedy I ever found, purporting to be as the above, nor should any family be without this remedy for diseases so prevalent.

Yours, most respectfully,
EDWARD D. JONES,
Cashier Citizen's Deposit Bank.
STEUBENVILLE, O., March 14, 1859.

I have used Dr. Keyser's Cough Syrup for a bad cough of several years standing, and can cheerfully say that it is the best medicine for the same that I have ever taken.

COL. PRATT AND DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP.—Dr. Keyser—Dear Sir: Having a day of my own acknowledging the excellence of your Pectoral Cough Syrup sooner. I take great pleasure in saying that it is all you say it is. It worked for me out of my cough and cold almost one I was ever afflicted with. I have not used more than one-half of the bottle, and I can and do say that all who are afflicted would give it a fair trial as I have done, and they will be proud to say, "it is no quack medicine." I would not suffer another sitch an attack for any consideration, or at any cost. I am confident I can breathe more freely than I ever did. I shall always acknowledge a debt of gratitude for your medicine, as being so excellent a remedy. You are at liberty to use my name, in this regard, as you think proper.
E. F. PRATT,
Messenger Com. Conn., Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, May 11, 1859.

N. B.—I am no stranger to my fellow-citizens, and all who entertain doubts can consult me personally.

PITTSBURGH, April 24, 1857.

READ THE TRUTH.—Dr. Keyser:—Sir:—I have a daughter who has taken several medicines for a bad cough, without benefit—among them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I purchased from you a bottle of your PECTORAL SYRUP, and before she had used half a bottle she was relieved. The second bottle cured
