OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY R. ERRETT & CO., FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 19, 1860.

THE EYE.—S. A. Sterrett, M. D., devotes special attention to all diseases of the Eye. Cataract removed by a new operation, causing but slight pain or risk to the eye. Many interesting cases in the city and elsewhere, who have submitted to the operation, can be seen and consulted. Residence and office 277 Penh street.

NEVIN & CO.'S WHITE LEAD WORKS, ALLEGHENY CITY.—We took our first ride in the beautiful cars of the Manchester Passenger Railway yesterday, and stopped on the way to take a survey of the new White Lead Works of THOMPSON H. NEVIN & Co., the celebrity of which is commensurate with the fame of Pittsburgh as a manufacturing emporium. These celebrated works have their northern front on Central Avenue, and cover an area of near three-quarters of a square. The old works have given place to entirely new structures, built upon the most improved modern principle and containing all the valuable modern improvements in machinery and the processes of White Lead manufacture. The main structure is 65 feet long, 40 feet wide, three stories high, and each story twelve feet. The steam engine by which the principal manufacturing processes are carried on is an admirable one, built by W. W. & J. Wallace, of this city. It has alike met the expectations of the builders and owners, to the full. The manufacturing operations are under the special superintendence of Mr. Edward Owen, a practical, scientific chemist, thoroughly skilled in the modus operandi of lead manufacture. Mr. O. has been in the employ of these works for a period of 20 years, and to his experience and proficiency, in a good degree, is the celebrity of the Lead manufactured there attributable. There are some 600 kegs of White Lead and one ton of Red Lead manufactured daily (twelve working hours) at this establishment, which employs some twenty hands in its various operations.

These are the most extensive White Lead Works in this city, or indeed in the West, since the discontinuance of those of Avery & Ogden, so long in the ascendant in that line of manufacture here. They supply the markets of the West, South and South-West, below Maysville, of St. Louis, Cincinnati and other large Western cities give it the decided preference over the article made at home. The extensive Potteries exclusively use Nevin & Co.'s Lead for glazing their earthen ware. The works are overrun with orders, to fill which they are taxed to their full capacity constantly. This fact is mainly owing to the general popularity and unexceptionable quality of the lead manufactured by this firm.

The process which the oil undergoes, by which it is thoroughly bleached and purified from the dark coloring matter which it usually contains, imparts the lilly whiteness for which the Nevin Lead is distinguished everywhere. This bleaching operation, as, indeed is almost every thing else appertaining to the lead manufactory, is done by steam.

From 20 to 30 bbls. of vinegar of the best quality are consumed in this establishment every week in corroding the lead. Another building in addition to the extensive one now employed in the corroding process, will be erected in the Spring, together with an extensive ware house, fire proof, for the repository of manufactured lead and oils.

These works were originally conducted by Theodore H. Nevin and his brother R. P. Nevin, but since the last year or so the name of Mr. S. M. Finley has been added to the concern, thus constituting a corps of active, experienced and most efficient business men, whose whole time energies and activities are devoted to the prosecution of the Lead manufacture. Their warehouse in this city is at No. 24 Wood street, between First and Second streets, where one or the other of the firm can always be found.

We could greatly amplify this notice, were it deemed necessary. We have but simply alluded to the establishment, as were we to elaborate the facts it would extend our remarks to too great a length. Suffice it to say the works of Nevin & Co. stand unrivalled in the west for the superiority of their manufacture of lead. Each keg contains full 25 lbs., and challenge comparison for whiteness and purity with any made in the country.

It is the only establishment that manufactures lead from the pig corroding, washing and grinding in oil — all the different processes required to produce pure White Lead.

THE Printer's Banquet and Ball, in commemoration of the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, came off at Lafayette Hall, on Tuesday evening, the 17th, and was one of the most happy and pleasant affairs of the kind that has occurred for several years. It was under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Typographical Union, No. 7, and of course on this occasion the fair ladies graced the festivities. The banquet was prepared by Col. Fricker, of Walnut Hall, and was enjoyed by a very large assemblage. Young's band furnished music for the dance.

The company having been seated after the banquet, the following officers of the evening were announced by A. P. Callow, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements:

President—Wm. H. Mosdy.

Vice Presidents—A. P. Callow, J. H. Foster, J. P. Barr, D. O'Neil, D. L. Eaton, Jas. McMillan, F. E. Foster, John Roth, E. A. Myers.

Secretaries—John M. Foster, F. B. Plimpton, H. H. Smith, W. M. Hartzell, J. T. Ben-Gough, Wm. Anderson, J. C. Harper, J. H. Siebenick.

After the guests had been welcomed by the President, seven regular toasts were announced.

1. The Day we Celebrate—That which gave birth to Benjamin Franklin. [P. E. Foster responded to this in a neat speech.]

2. The American Republic—Its Army and Navy; its Executive and its Government—May it remember the glorious axioms and sayings of its lamented founders. [Judge Shannon spoke eloquently in response to this; his speech was applauded throughout.]

3. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—Still the Keystone of a noble arch. [James Onslow responded in a good-natured speech.]

4. The Press—The Printer, and the Art whose infancy was nurtured by Faust, Gutlenberg and Schæfer. [The response of Thomas Howard, Esq., was beautiful and appropriate, and a synopsis would do injustice to his eloquence.]

5. The Ladies—Those whom the printers are present, and the mothers, the sisters, the daughters and the wives of the world. [R. C. Fleeson responded feelingly and pleasantly.]

6. The Iron City—Its government, its manufactures, its merchants and its mechanics—May its smoky fames never dim the lustre of its fame. [The speech of Alex. M'Elwaine, in response, was pointed and admirable.]

7. The National Typographical Union—May its efforts to elevate the craft be crowned with abundant success. [Guyan M. Irwin made a neat and pithy response.

A letter was read from Horace Greeley stating his inability to be present, and closing with sentiment—"Honor to Labor."

A number of volunteer toasts were then given. We give a few.

The Retiring Mayor of Pittsburg—A good will of all attend him in his retirement. [Mayor Wilson never responded, but a pleasant relation always existed between the printers and himself. He concluded by giving the following sentiment:

The Journeyman Printer,—Now, as in the days of Franklin, the true type of nature's Republican Philosopher who relish Epicurean Philosophy and despises "rats" in any guise.

The Railroad, the Telegraph and the Press—A glorious trinity in the progress and improvement of the age—may their usefulness never be diminished, nor their influence be perverted to improper purposes.—H. H. Smith.

The Typographical Union—May the Union of States be as enduring and indissoluble as the fraternal bonds which bind in fraternal fellowship the members of this Association—may both The Union and inseparable—now and forever."

The following toasts were sent by telegraph to Philadelphia and Chicago—Mr. Snowden having had them forwarded over the wires free of expense.

To The Philadelphia Typographical Union—Or, the lightning, which our great exemplar conquered, we flash to our brethren of Chicago the most cordial wishes that their present happiness may ever abound.

The company dispersed in good spirits at an early hour in the morning.

BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS.—Open at National Theatre, Friday evening. Go and see them.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS before Judges M'Clure, Mellon and Parke.

Wednesday, Jan 18th.—The jury, after being out until near 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening in the case of Commonwealth against Esquire M'Cabe, returned a verdict of not guilty. The Squire was charged with misdemeanor in office. A good many of his neighbors who were standing about the rotunda at the time of the rendition of the verdict, appeared to be highly delighted with the result. We learned from them that Mr. M'Cabe is considered a most excellent and upright man, and that he wouldn't do an un just act if he knew it to be such.

Jas. Campbell pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license. Fined $10 and costs.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Thomas M'Millen, indicted for fornication and bastardy, the jury found a verdict of guilty. Sentence was deferred.

John Buch, Wm. Rinsiela and John Collsoher indicted for conspiring to pass certain counterfeit notes on the Farmer's Bank of Kentucky, on the 24th of October, 1859. G. H. Fuehr, book keeper for Cridge & Wadsworth, testified that sometimes he sells tickets at Dan Folk's Hall when they have theatre there, and that on the date of this indictment he received money at the refreshment stand. A. M. Fisher was there waiting upon customers and Buch and Collsoher went to buy a couple of drinks and gave a counterfeit note in pay. The bill was discovered, but at a late hour the three with others came up, bought six drinks and offered a $5 out of Buch to take the pay. Note was on the Farmer's Bank, Ky. Fuehr took the note, put it in the drawer and gave Buch the change, $4.70. [Note was offered in evidence and identified.] Found guilty. Found afterwards it was a counterfeit. The jury retired at a late hour in the evening and returned a verdict of not guilty.

Common wealth vs. John Buch. This was a case where the defendant is charged with passing counterfeit money. On trial.

BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS.—Open at National Theatre, Friday evening. Go and see them.

BAYARD TAYLOR.—The following extract from a letter to the Lecture Committee of Y. M. L. Association, dated New York, Jan 14th, 1860, explains the cause of this failure to meet his engagement on the 9th instant:

"I shall not waste time in expressing my regrets over the failure, for you know how much a thing worries me. I will only say, that I was positively assured in Zanesville that the Central Ohio train always made the connection at Bellaire, and that we could have made it but for a complete smash-up of the locomotive. Had we reached Bellaire one hour sooner, I would have chartered an engine, though it had cost me $100."

We are requested to state that persons holding tickets, if they desire, can have their money refunded by calling on the Librarian. Mr. Taylor is expected without fail to lecture the first week in March next.

THE Stockholders of the Birmingham Passenger Railway Company will meet on Monday evening and elect a President, Secretary and Treasurer, O. H. Verner, President; Rippey, Secretary.

PAINFUL DEATH AND STRANGE CAUSE.—About noon yesterday a gentleman left word with Coroner Bostwick—to his politeness we acknowledge our indebtedness for many favors—that a school teacher, at the six mile ferry, had been killed by one of his pupils. The Coroner at once set forth to examine into the facts in the case. On arriving at the school house in district No. 1, in Baldwin township, he learned the following facts:—

Mr. Orin Carpenter who resided in the 6th Ward, in this city, was teaching school as above. He was an old man (61 years) and quite weak and frail. On Wednesday morning a boy named Joseph Smith, aged about 14, disobeyed some of his teacher's orders. It appears that the boy crowded into a seat between two other boys and, when told by Mr. Carpenter to take a certain seat in the corner designated by him, Smith refused. Thereupon, the teacher undertook to enforce his order. He took hold of Smith and, as it appears, struck him with a small switch. Then the boy caught it and struggled with the old man. However, at length, with great exertion the teacher succeeded in getting the disobedient into the corner sot apart for him, and there, as the boy declares, choked him considerably. Be that as it may, all at once Mr. Carpenter was observed to grow pale and to tremble exceedingly. Then in an instant he sank downward and fell heavily forward, striking his cheek bone first, and the side of his face against the wall of the building. Then he lay still. Instant terror seized the school, which fled. Jos. Smith, the boy who had been the cause of the excitement, ran to his father, who lived near, and told him of the catastrophe i. e. that "something ailed the master." Mr Smith came, took the old man up from the floor, and applied, with the aid of neighbors who had come in, all the restoratives they could think of. In vain.

Dr. Blackburn was then sent for and came. He found Mr. Carpenter stone dead. On examination, he discovered the bruise on the cheek, where he had struck as before mentioned; also a slight discoloration of the back of the neck. He gave it as his opinion that Mr. C. had suffered an injury of the spine. [May he not have died of disease of the heart?]

The Coroner's jury having heard the facts in the case, rendered the following verdict:

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The Herald's Washington correspondent says that Mr. Army was to-day again before the Harper's Ferry Committee of the Senate. They refused to let him see any of his books and papers. His testimony was taken, and although he accounted for large sums of money and a great amount of ordnance collected in 1856 and 1857 to be employed in Kansas, nothing was elicited from him concerning Brown's raid in Virginia. He was dismissed when Brown first appeared in Kansas he was a Quaker, Kay. Forbes, and remained so until Atchison developed his plans, and his own sons were murdered and his property destroyed by the pro-slavery men, when he became enraged, it not maddened, and in a spirit of revenge pursued the pro-slavery men with the sword.

Twenty of the principal mail contractors had an interview to-day with the President, for the purpose of making known their grievances in person. The President received them cordially, telling them he sympathized with them in their distress, and asking them what suggestions they had to make. His own suggestions for their relief had reference only to the election of a Speaker. He said that in his opinion it would be constitutional for the House to elect a temporary Speaker.

The Times' correspondent says it has leaked out here that Miramon's banker, for the purpose of raising funds, has established a lottery agency in New York, with directions to deposit unsold tickets with the Mexican Consul. That officer it is understood, after consultation with the legation here, declines to be the depository of those tickets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A collision occurred this morning in the Yorkville Tunnel on the Harlem Road between the early Harlem and New Haven trains, both going one way. Both trains were crowded with passengers and for a few moments there was intense excitement. No lives were lost, however. Some forty or fifty were injured, but few seriously. Mrs. Elijah Bradford of White Plains had three ribs broken. The engine of the New Haven train was disabled. The accident was caused by the sudden stopping of the western train while the New Haven train was close behind.
