VIRIGINIA VS. WIRE.—A Richmond (Va.) correspondent of the Charleston Mercury saps: "It cannot be disguised that the submission element has considerable power in the Virginia Legislature—more in the Legislature than among the people of the State, who are really very much roused. There are submissionists here who do not hesitate to declare that for any conceivable in himself the South, the dissolution of the Union would resemble the folly of the man committing culcides to avoid trouble. The opposition intend to ride the Union hobby through in their caaves, and as they are strong in the Senate, both in numbers and intellectual ability, it is safe to fast they will oppose with all their power both the arming of the State and any convention of the Southern States." So non-intercourse, distance and the richtleys the school and the similar schemes brought for the purpose of advancing their own selfish views, are compelled to meet a steady and determined opposition in the very locality in which they original.
