It is the result of the Speals to the "business men" to repudiate his paper—the Press—on peril of losing Southern customers. We presume the Pennsylvanian is anxious for the patronage bestowed on its neighbor; its hold on the national treasury being very limited. Mr. Forney, it is to be hoped, will survive these forrible onelaughts, and we have no doubt his paper will flourish the more for these palitry efforts to strike at its business. it theroughly acquainted with the subject. Our matterion, however, has been more particularly attracted by the lecture of Professor Firon, on the "Hestain Fly and Whest. Midge," which contains a large amount of valtable information to all classes of people. The lecturer seems to adopt the common opinion in reference to the time and manner in which the "Hestain fly" was originally introduced into the grain fields on this side of the Atlantic, and suggests a simple remedy for its ravages. As his own words are more comprehensive and explicit than any abstract of his remerks that we might offer, we will quote from him in reference to these insects which have been so injurious to the growing crops of this country.

"The fly is supposed to have been introduced into this country by the Hessian troops, whence its mane, in straw landed on Long Island about the year 1776. He was greated that time were not great in Europe, but it seemed to find a congular clement here and spread with fearful rapidity. All lanceds from foreign countries were its spreadurious here that for years it was supposed. The best-fremedy its a fertile soil. So, "No, no," "Never," and cheers.] Our land is elegant in Europe, but its respective of the Guropean origin. Of Isla years it has not been so destructive a fortnerly, owing to the prevalence of parasitic insects which make it their prey. The best-fremedy its a fertile soil. Sow that is Beptamber, graze, if necessary, while the fly is deposaling her egge; roll, too, in fall and spring. On soils of medium, fartility sow the hardier varieties of wheat, some of which are fly proof.

But the midge is the great pest of the wheat grower. Go ont to a wheat field at evening in the middle of June, carrying with you a lighted candle, and myrides of these creature will swarm about you. This little and middle and its was not until the labors of Marabam and Kirby, in 1797, that it was shown to be the work of an animal. was for years called a mildew, and it was not until the labors of Marsham and Kirby, in 1797 that it was shown to be the work of an animal. After giving an account of the transformations of the insect, the lecturer proposed two romedias—the second, the importation in a small field—the second, the importation of some parasitic insect, such as exists in Europe, to check its depradations. The inheaver the midge is prevalent. This insect punctures the larum of the midge, it ime, destroying its life.

The joint-worm of Virginia and the chinch bug of Illinois, were alluded to. The Western Water free, so far as wheat is concerned, from naxious insects, but they have the chinch bug as greater pest than even the midge. This animal destroys the grain by piercing the plant and drawing out its sustenance. It likes wheat best but will attack cats, corn and grass; a giant stak of Illinois corn in three days. In the harvest fields, the feet of the workmen riding on the reaping machines are completely caveleped with them. They emit the same leathers much proposition. [Cheers.] I tell you have bestowed upon men agrees of "Good," and cheers.] I then you for the high compliment which I feel you have bestowed upon me by this visit. I am glad the House is organized. If this organization had been effected by the selection of any other genileman, perhaps it would have been with the assured I will endeavor to diswest notes, the sees of an workment raining on the reaping machines are completely enveloped with them. They emit the same loathsome stanch as the bed-bug, rendering harvesting a stanch as the bed-bug, rendering harvesting a nausseating operation. They jare found in lilinois, Indiana and Wiscousin. Out knowledge of these insects is as yet too limited to attempt to prescribe a remedy."

Mr. Sperman was foundly called for, when he

After the lecture, several persons in the audience, in accordance with a recognized privilege, propounding the following interrogatories, which, it will be observed, were promptly answered:

Question—Is sulphur in barns any remedy for the midge? Nor; sulphur kills no insect except the itehnite. Apple caterpillars thrive in sulphur.—Is the burning of the field after larws has entered the ground of any use? Should think not; is too well protected. Sowing salt talt time of seeding? know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathactics, whose only ffice is to weaken the digration and impair the integrity office is to wraken the digration and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREY'S HOMEOPATHIC PILLS—a slouple medicated angar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases. This is decessingly by improving the toos and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head and booyant spirits. Fuch a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.
