The versatile editor of the Journal, no doubt disgusted with the supinoness of the people in Seconding his efforts to reform "great abuses of State," has, we are glad to perceive, turned his effection to a more congenial subject, vir. the importance of saving lime in attending funerals. As Joy can be extracted from sorrow, so our neighbor demonstrates that punctuality in the discharge of this duty will "add one tenth to the lives" of those who perform it. This is a consideration indeed The article is somewhat in the vertic of "Poor Richard," who in his day and generation discoursed much worldly windom. There is a striking similarily between the model and the copylist, which sown a descape must be company a right to build a road east of Federal street; and so does Mr. Bigham. Dr. Franklin was at one period official printer—and so was Mr. Bigham—in anticipation. We are the following the build a road of turnplies and plank to was Mr. Bigham—in anticipation. We are the following the subject of the proposed the sumenate section was taken adopted to the company a right to build a road east of Federal street; and the company are in the tour of quartur Sessions to fix the compensative of company for them to be allowed boroughs for the use of their streets, the same as in case of turnplies and plank to was Mr. Bigham—in anticipation. We are Franklin was at one period official printer—and so was Mr. Bigham—in anticipation. We are pleased that the Journal has taken to the discussion of these little social evils, not only because the author and the subject are so well suited, but because we may expect a revival of the mitgrated "Richard," under a new and more tasteful title—for instance, that of the "Meditations of Poor Thomas." This would be an addition to our local literature, which would be felt in the increaze of the wistom and thrift of all Pitchburghers. It is a consolatory reflection that if the author does not persees wit himself—like Fallstaff—he will be, in this instance, the cause of it in others.

The California might have made a worse-choice from the material presented for United States Sensior, when the Legislature elected Gov. Latham, than doughface, but personelly he is less objectionable than Weller, Denver or Gwin. The St. Louis Democrat, in announcing his election, pro-slavery democrat, yet he is preferable in many respects to either of his principal competitors, Denver or Weller. The last is one of the most abject of the tribe of doughfaces, while Denver may be classified with the disamionists and mulliferrs. We are credibly informed that Latham is the morial enemy of his Senatorial colleague—(dwin—and that his election is regarded as a signal triumph over the Gwin faction. Since 1856, when that faction beat him in carcurs, for a nomination for the House of Representatives, he has waged war upon it and lie leader, and the latter has not been slow to retailate with all the vindeliterants and unsurrangulousness of his character. In short, the feelings which they bear towards each other are of the most uncharistian character. Hetween the late Senator and his successor there was one bond of sympith—opposition to Gwin; and this never failed to incide the two to co-operation and united action. Latham inherits Broderick's quarret as well as his place."

The House Countriess—The selection of the Standing Committees of the House, at Washington, meets with general approbation. While the keeping has been shown or reason to find fault with it, in a party view of the matter, both branches of the opposition have no cause to complain of unfair treatment at the hands of the Speaker.
